Credit Restriction Eased In Britain

LONDON (Reuters) — The British government has given a boost to investment by deciding to release frozen bank deposits worth £81,000,000.

The money was placed in the Central Bank of England by big banks here under a government directive in last year's credit squeeze.

Half the sum will be released Dec. 10 and the remainder Dec. 17.

A Bank of England spokesman said Thursday's move was made in view of the general economic situation. It was expected to enable banks to enlarge their loans and investments by about three times the amount frozen.

Stolen Money Is Returned

LORD'S COVE, N. B. (CP)—Harold Lambert was awakened early Thursday by a noise outside his home in this Deer Island community and on investigation found more than $1,000 on his back step.

It would have been quite a gift except that it was the same $1,000 stolen from his office only two nights before when a break was made into the D. F. Lambert Est. store which is owned by Mr. Lambert.

RCMP in St. George are continuing their investigation.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
4 ♠	Pass	6 ♠	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead—five of hearts.

Here is a situation in which many declarers fail to get the most out of their cards.

South was in six spades and West led a heart. Declarer won with the ace, drew two rounds of trumps, cashed the ace of clubs, ruffed the queen of hearts, and then led a club and finessed the nine. East took the queen, returned a diamond, and South went down one.

You might say the result was unlucky — since West might have had the queen of clubs instead of East — and we wouldn't quarrel with that statement. However, we don't think South played the hand in the most approved fashion.

The point is that South, in effect, staked his all on West's having the queen of clubs, which was only about a 50-50 proposition. He could have increased his chances considerably by playing differently.

Suppose he had entered dummy with a trump at trick two and then played a low diamond. How many players with East's hand, seeing only dummy, would put up the king at this point? Very few, would be our guess. And if they didn't, South would make the hand without much trouble.

The jack would force the ace and declarer would later be able to capture East's king of diamonds and thus establish a diamond trick in dummy. This, in turn, would allow South to dispose of his club loser.

The great advantage of this method is that it costs declarer nothing to play this way. The diamond lead from dummy at trick three gives East a chance to go wrong if he has either the ace or the king. If East plays low, the contract becomes a practical certainty (because West could hardly have the A-K of diamonds or he would have led one of them originally).

At the same time, South maintains his chance of falling back on the club finesse if that becomes necessary. It is surely better to attack diamonds before clubs because South thus gets two chances to make the hand instead of one.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
