daily consumption. It is true, said Mr. Palmer, that the butcher, the baker, and all others who supply the wants of the table, will get a higher price, and a more pressing demand for their wares, by steamships like the Franconia coming amongst us, and that prices will continue to go up in consequence of such demand. He hoped to see prices continued in that direction, for nothing was a surer indication of the prosperity of the country. It was indicative of a flow of money into the country, and that money found its way into the pockets of the farmer as well as into those of every class in the community. After a few more brief remarks, expressive of mutual congratulation and thanks, the Hon. Mr. Palmer gave way to

The Hon. Mr. Coles. He said he was animated by the sentiments common to all present — that of thankfulness to Mr. Snow for the pleasant trip they were enjoying, and admiration of the enterprising spirit which prompted him to put upon the line such a splendid boat as the Franconia. This was the second attempt made to establish direct communication with Boston by steam. The first, as most persons present remembered, was in the case of the Albatross, a larger steamer than the Franconia, though certainly not a better one as regards appointments and accommodation. That promised, at the outset, to be a good paying speculation; and was just beginning to give great activity to the trade of the country when the steamer was withdrawn, not from any failure, he believed, in the resources of the country, but owing, he feared, to some mismanagement on the part of those connected with the ship. The present enterprise, was, however, of an entirely different character—it was in the hands of skilful business men, whose capital was not dependent upon adventitious circumstances, and whose energy was inexhaustible. He did not doubt that the present enterprise would be successful in a commercial point of view. The country was rapidly becoming rich and populous — our intercourse with our American neighbours was daily on the increase; and that increase, fostering, as it did, friendly relations, and promoting great commercial traffic, was owing to the triumph of free trade principles, which he advocated nearly twenty years ago, and for which he was then much reviled. He was glad to see those principals triumphant, and no better proof could be afforded of that fact than in the coming of the Franconia to our shores, she, with her consort, the Commerce, being the precursors, as he hoped, of other American visitors of the same class, ready to trade with us, and exchange with us all the courtesies which two great peoples, living under different Governments, speaking the same language, and with the same historical associations and traditions, only divided by a narrow strip of border, should exercise towards each other. Scarcely twenty years ago there were no ports in this Island, except that of Charlottetown, at which foreign vessels could be entered. The Queen's Wharf, at Charlottetown, was the only place in the whole Colony at which a package of American goods could be landed. He was happy to witness, and do his part in effecting the downfall of that system of exclusiveness and folly; and the result is a free and unrestricted trade with our American cousins, who are just beginning to appreciate the value and extent of our resources, the beauty and unrivalled fertility of our Island, and the loveliness of its daughters. It was called, at one time, (said the honorable gentleman,) the garden of North America, but he believed it was the Garden of the World, for where could more delightful prospects be presented to the eye?—there were scarcely ten miles of forest land in any part of the Island—the eye could rest everywhere on beautifully cultivated farms, exhibiting the bountiful providence of Nature; stimulating the industry and thrift of her sons. The fisheries of the Island were of the most valuable description. Unfortunately, our people did not prosecute them to as large an extent as they should; but the Americans were teaching them the value of the fisheries, and he (Mr. Coles) was always in favor of giving the Americans the utmost privileges in prosecuting that branch of trade, because, if neglected, the valuable fisheries on our coasts were of no use to us; and no matter who followed them, they would be a source of wealth to the Island, more especially as Mr. Snow's line of steamers would supply the fishermen with all their requirements, and carry their fish to the American markets. Mr. Coles concluded by endorsing the remarks of the Mayor and Mr. Palmer, as to the pleasure of the trip, and the gratitude they felt towards their kind entertainer.

We regret we have not space or time to give a report of the other speeches made on this occasion. We have been compelled to condense very much the remarks above reported, but we believe we have omitted no material point, although we had not much convenience for reporting. The Hon. T. Heath Haviland, Frederick Brecken, Esq., and the Rev. Dr. Richey, addressed the meeting, all, of course, in praise of Mr. Snow's great enterprise, and with evident satisfaction to the intelligent audience. Indeed, the flow of eloquence showed no sign of giving out up to the time when the steamer touched the wharf, and we believe there was a sufficient supply of that article on board to last for a good many hours longer. However, all good things must have an end, and so must speechifying. We got home without having been, in the least degree, affected by the Cacoethes loquendi, and that is one of the reasons why we are sure we enjoyed a very pleasant time on board the Franconia.

The Steamer Franconia left this afternoon on her return trip to Halifax and Boston.

Hotels.—Explanation.—We fear that our remarks on Hotel accommodation (first published in the Town Edition of our last No.) were misunderstood by many persons, and we find that our friend of the Vindicator is one of those who did not comprehend our meaning. It seems to be supposed that we are hostile to the establishment of a new and large Hotel. Such a supposition is quite a mistake. We should be very glad to see a large edifice erected here for the accommodation of travellers, domestic and foreign,—we vote for public improvements of all kinds, at all times, and in all places, especially steamboats, hotels, railways, and stage coaches,—and we would be amongst the very last to discourage an enterprising capitalist from erecting a large Hotel in this City. The sole object of our remarks on Monday last, was, to correct an erroneous impression sought to be made by the Islander, to the effect, that foreign or Colonial travellers could not be accommodated with respectable boarding and lodging if they visited this City. We believed they could—we made enquiries to confirm our belief. The result was, that more than double the number of those who come to visit us during the Summer months could be accommodated. We published a list of the houses, with a brief statement of their resources, at which accommodation could be obtained. We did not parade them as "first class Hotels," in the sense in which that phrase is understood in cities like Boston and New York; but as highly respectable houses—in fact, houses as well deserving of the name of first class hotels here, as more pretentious houses in St. John or Halifax. We have no particular regard for the houses we have mentioned—we would not shed a tear if two-thirds of them were shut up to-morrow, and one good large Hotel established on their ruins. But before a large Hotel can be safely and efficiently carried on, two thirds of the small Hotels must be closed—they cannot all do a paying business. The great annoyance is, there are entirely too many small Hotels and Boarding Houses; but there will be immense trouble in crushing them, if the thing should be ever attempted; and whoever should establish a large Hotel, such as would be a credit to a great commercial city, like Halifax, St. John, or Boston, would have his zeal and enterprise put to the severest test in fighting for popular favor, even for existence, against twelve old and well established houses.

Visit from the Canadians to the Lower Provinces.—A large number of the members of the Canadian Legislature (both Houses), together with many other gentlemen belonging to Upper and Lower Canada, were on a visit to St. John, N. B., by invitation, during the earlier part of last week, where they were most hospitably entertained by all classes of the community. Public dinners, balls, railway and steamboat excursions, formed part of the entertainment both at St. John and Fredericton; and at the latter city the Lieut. Governor, who had just returned from England, held a Levee in honor of the occasion. The Canadians visited Halifax, also by invitation, about the middle of last week, and at last accounts they were in the full enjoyment of the hospitalities of that gay and frolicsome city. It is said that some of them will extend their ramble to Charlottetown during the present week. We are not aware of any public invitation having been given—and we think it is very shabby that something of the kind was not done when the Canadians set out upon their visit to the lower Colonies. However, let them come in what numbers they may, we are sure they will receive a hearty welcome—"the elephant" of the place will be exhibited to them in all its attractions—they will get plenty to eat and drink, and, at least, a comfortable shake-down.

The Scottish Games, as advertised, will take place on Wednesday next. We hope to be one of the thousands who will witness them, and we are confident we will not be disappointed in our expectation of enjoying a day of real pleasure. The Scotch are intensely national—perhaps more so than any other people—and they are more attached, when abroad, to the pastimes and traditions of their country than those of any other land. Here, we have no doubt, they will enter into the spirit of their games in such a way as to delight and astonish every one; and after we have thoroughly enjoyed ourselves, with as much gusto as any bare legged Caledonian that ever tripped the heather—we will discuss the subject of Scottish games and Scottish music, animated by the most friendly spirit towards our Caledonian brothers: and, guided by the lights of History, we shall humbly ask, whether they do not claim a great deal more glory for their country than they have a right to do.

Sugar.—We have just had placed upon our table two samples of Sugar, brought here by Mr. Sword, of Government House, from the newly established Refinery at St. John, N. B. One is perfectly white, and apparently quite as good as any that can be imported from Great Britain or the United States—the price of it is 11¼ cents per lb., or about eight pence our money. The other is a shade or two darker, but apparently a very fine sugar likewise—the price of this is 10¼ cents, or about 7½ our currency—both prices being very much lower than sugar is generally sold for in our market. It is only fair that these facts should be made known, and that encouragement as far as possible should be given to a new and valuable enterprise.

The Confederate Steamer Tallahassee made her appearance off Sandy Hook on Thursday, and in a few hours she captured and burned one barque, three brigs, and one schooner. A Pilot boat also captured and taken in tow. The Tallahassee is described as a small schooner rigged, English built iron steamer. She mounts three guns, and has a crew of 120 officers and men..... Hostile tribes extend from Texas to British lines..... Gold 254.

After a series of dissappointments, on account of unfavourable weather, the Temperance Demonstration and Tea came off on the afternoon of Thursday last. The Sons of Temperance and the Band of Hope assembled at the Hall about 2 o'clock, forming in procession, and preceded by the Band, and accompanied by a Highland piper, marched through the principal streets of the City, clothed in their appropriate regalias, and displaying their respective banners. It was a goodly sight to see such a large number of children of both sexes enlisted in so good a cause. After proceeding to "Spruce Avenue," where tea was had in the usual style, the company returned, again in procession, to the Temperance Hall, and, after singing an ode, dispersed. At 8 o'clock the public meeting was opened. Every available seat appeared to be occupied; and much interest was taken in the entertainment of the evening, which consisted of speeches, music, and recitations. Several resolutions, bearing on the Temperance question, were proposed, forming the themes on which the several speakers addressed the meeting. The speeches were to the point, the music, by Miss Duchemin, who presided at the melodeon, was charming, and the recitations were highly creditable to those youths who gave them. The whole affair, notwithstanding the several postponements, passed off very well.—Prot.
