

MR. AND MRS. LEITH DOVER

Wedding Guests Received At Charlottetown Hotel

St. John's United Church, Mt. Stewart, was the scene of the recent wedding of Mildred Alice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Rodgeron, Fanning Brook, to William Leith, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Dover, Dunstaffnage.

Rev. D. R. MacLennan officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The altar was decorated with white and aqua tinted mums and the guest pews marked with white and aqua ribbons.

The soloist, Merrill Nicholson, Parkdale was accompanied by Roland Jay, Mt. Stewart, as he sang "Because" prior to the ceremony and "Oh, P. E. I. Love" during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was wearing a floor-length gown of white organza over satin - back crepe with scoop neckline, the new "Mildred" sleeves, and a detachable train that fell from the shoulders. Lace applique adorned the bodice, sleeves and full train. Her four-tiered bouffant veil of silk illusion was held in place by a cap of lace decorated with seed pearls, brilliants and a white orchid. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Athur Cameron of Gimliie, Man. as maid-of-honor. Bridesmaids were Marjorie Rodgeron and Suzanne Rodgeron, sisters of the bride. The attendants wore floor-length gowns of aqua crystal organza with necklines, and sleeves similar to that of the bride's. The dresses featured detachable

Four visitors and 15 regular members attended the August meeting of the Sherbrooke Women's Institute, held at the home of Mrs. Earle Thompson. Those present answered roll call by naming their favorite season and why.

An interesting report of the Institute's annual convention was given and arrangements made to defray the delegates expenses.

Mrs. Martin Decker and Mrs. Urban Laughlin assisted the hostess with refreshments.

MARGATE WI

Mrs. John Henderson was hostess to the members of the Margate Women's Institute at the regular meeting.

With the president, Mrs. Lorne Adams in the chair, nine members responded to roll call by naming a foreign supper dish. One visitor was present.

The secretary's report was given by Mrs. Philip Henderson and the treasurer's by Mrs. Willard Thompson. The visitation committee reported six calls made.

A letter was read from Gunanami, the adopted child.

ELLEN'S DIARY

Clearing Skies Brought Happy Smiles To Faces

So we came to the Grapaud Fair - as it happened, every last one of the family down to Cathie, Jamie's youngest, only a toddler, leaving the various homes, strangely deserted. How would they do today without their folks? We wondered, as in company with James and Gage (grandson), we went early up and over the hilltop and beyond, out to the broad highway.

"I hope it doesn't rain today," James offered, glancing at the sky then more or less overcast. "It would be a pity - for everyone concerned." "Let's say this is just a passing shower we are driving into," Gage commented with a smile, when presently the windshield misted, and the wipers went into action.

What smiles on every hand, later, but all in good time, greeted the cleared morning-sky. What sighs of relief could be heard. And the spirit of a gala evening - "spread" until as should be, "there were" miles and miles of smiles! All about, and the Fair proceeded as planned. What nice things a bystander could hear when, in the afternoon, its pace increased.

"Why, I like this! It's a friendly Fair. Everyone's so nice!" one, evidently a summer-guest from the States, beamed to a friend.

"Aren't we having an enjoyable time," another smiled.

"Why, I had no idea it would be like this - with so much to see!" "Man, did you see the horses?" an old-timer, one native-born likely and now vacationing questioned another. "Fine ones, eh? That show reminded me of the old Island Exhibitions - that is what they called them then - in town, when I was a boy, don't you know, and horses were then in their heyday."

MARY HAWORTH

Wife At End Of Tether With Spouse's Actions

Dear Mary Haworth: I am 48 and my husband is 46. We've been very happy until a few months ago, when a girl came to care for his ailing mother, who lives next door.

Sue (not her real name) has the mental maturity of a 15-year-old and is sex-crazy. She flirts with all men, married or single. Most of the married men ignore her; all except my husband. I think he has lost his head over her.

I haven't felt at ease since she's been here. She's had an illegitimate child (not my husband's) and her family disowns her.

My husband drops in at his mother's morning and night, with excuses about taking her medicine, supervising her care, etc., but really to see Sue. He tells her about his work, and if I want to know where he is, I have to ask her.

I see and know what goes on, but I have to keep quiet or be the biass off and says he's leaving. Mornings he's in Sue's bedroom before she's dressed for the day, and again at night, when she's in her shorty pyjamas. He says there's nothing wrong in it. But I say it is wrong, as his mother is under sedation and asleep most of the time.

Being so often in Sue's bedroom, he noticed that she needs more storage space. So now he wants to give her a piece of expensive luggage. When I objected, he left home for two days. I bear all our financial responsibilities. The house is mine. All he provides is his own clothes.

My insurance, etc. is made out to him as beneficiary, but I am planning to change all this and designate my son, who is away at college, unaware of what's going on.

My nerves are bad and my doctor is much concerned. He speaks of reporting the situation to the director in charge of the center through which we got Sue. Everyone says I'd better watch or she will steal my husband.

I can't take much more of this before I'll do something I shouldn't. I'm afraid. Have you any suggestions? R.S.

Dear R.R.: The gist of the problem indicates that your husband's psychological matur-

BERNADETTE GILLIS GRADUATE

Bernadette Gillis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Brent J. Gillis of St. Peter's Bay, P.E.I., received the degree of master of science in nursing from Boston University in the commencement exercise held recently.

Miss Gillis graduated from the Charlottetown Hospital School of Nursing in 1958 and received her bachelor of science in nursing from Boston College in 1962. From 1962-64, she was on the faculty of Boston City Hospital School of Nursing. In September, she will join the staff of the Baltimore City Health Department where she has been appointed pediatric nurse consultant for the maternal and infant care project.

It is about the equivalent of Sue's. They are two of a kind, both on-the-make, irresponsibly, in terms of seeing no reason why they shouldn't embrace the passing temptations of the moment, to the extent they can, regardless of "proper" considerations.

It appears, also, that you are a sort of mother - image, or mother substitute, in your husband's scheme of things. You own the house, you are building the insurance estate, you are the financially responsible helpmate - if he provides only his clothing, as his contribution to the partnership maintenance, he is hardly more than a "kept" man in the husband role.

Further, though you don't spell out the details, I gather you've been married before; that your present husband isn't the father of your son who's away at college. This I infer because your punitive - thought of disinheriting him in favor of your son suggests that they represent rival camps in your dispersal of bounty, as well as different blood - lines in your marriage history.

I infer also that your property holdings, such as they are, probably accrued to you in relationship to a previous helpmate.

In short, your husband probably feels inferior, inconsequential, disrespected, etc., in fiscal relation to you, which causes him to feel disproportionately grateful in response to simple Sue's glaucye interest in his maintenance.

Thus the more you fume and threaten, the more he may idealize Sue the girl who thinks he's wonderful "as is," and also rates him a person of importance, compared to herself. So much for the structure of their intrigue.

As for what to do: it may be that your marriage is headed for the rocks, sooner or later, for reasons inherent in its makeup. But for what it's worth as an emergency measure, you might talk directly and forcefully to Sue, about your downright disapproval of her improperly familiar behavior with your spouse. This might cause their romance to begin to wither. M.H.

INDIA SAID Producing Inferior MDs

TORONTO (CP) - India's medical schools are producing inferior doctors who need additional training if they want to practise in Ontario, says the Ontario College of Physicians and Surgeons.

Dr. D. Laurence Wilson of Kingston, college president, said here in a prepared statement that India has established 31 medical schools in the last 16 years, a "phenomenal increase beyond the resources of the wealthiest country." It had only 20 schools at independence from Britain in 1947.

This rapid expansion, Dr. Wilson said, has had a "catastrophic effect on the quality of Indian medical education." He was defending the college's position in refusing to allow several Indian doctors to write college examinations that would have enabled them to practise privately in the province.

"The college has a statutory duty to discriminate between good medical education and conspicuously inferior medical education," he said. "It discriminates in no other way."

Westinghouse, GE Convicted Of Price Fixing

NEW YORK (AP) - Federal Judge Wilfred Feinberg Tuesday found General Electric Company and Westinghouse Electric Corporation guilty of a price-fixing conspiracy in the sale of steam turbine generators and assessed them treble damages totalling $16,873,203.

Victims in the civil-anti-trust suit, tried before Judge Feinberg without a jury, were the Ohio Valley Electric Corporation and the Indian-Kentucky Electric Corporation, which bought a total of 11 generators from the defendants in 1952 at prices far above those they contended should have been paid.

Deveined Shrimp Divine In Suey On Flaky Rice

SHRIMP may be purchased in a variety of forms: raw, in the shell; in the shell but deveined; cooked, shelled and deveined; breaded, uncooked or cooked; canned.

Shrimp is sold according to size. Here are the different counts, or the number of shrimp per pound: 15 and under per pound; 16 to 20 per pound; 21 to 25 per pound; 26 to 30 per pound; 31 to 42 per pound.

The number of shrimp needed for a single portion depends on the size of the shrimp. So it's a good idea to know how many servings you plan to have before you buy the shrimp. Medium-size or smaller shrimp "go farther" and look more generous when served.

Measurements level: recipes for 6

1-16 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. ground nutmeg
3 c. milk
Ground nutmeg, additional
Place 6 (3 1/4 to 6 oz.) custard cups in baking pan into each cup, spoon 2 tbsp. applesauce. Beat eggs, sugar, salt and 1/4 tsp. nutmeg together until smooth and frothy. Stir in milk. Cool.

Pour gently into custard cups atop applesauce. Dust sparingly with ground nutmeg. Surround custard cups with all most boiling water to depth of 1". Bake 35 to 40 min. in mod. oven 350 degrees F. or until a picl inserted near center, comes out clean. Remove at once from water. Cool and refrigerate.

THE CHEF SUGGESTS
Medium-chopped roasted or crisp salted peanuts are tasty not only in a salad but as a taste-teasing garnish-to-hot-cooked green beans and other vegetables. Maany children who "don't like vegetables" will gobble them up when peanuts are added.

SHRIMP SUEY
1 1/2 lb. medium-size shrimp, fresh or frozen or 2 (10 oz.) pkg. frozen, peeled and deveined
1-3 c. butter or margarine
3 peeled onions, sliced thin
1-3 c. thin-sliced celery
1 sliced seeded large green pepper, cut in short lengths
1 (No. 2) can bean sprouts
1 1/2 tbsp. cornstarch
1 c. cold water
2 tsp. soy sauce
Salt and pepper to taste
1 1/4 c. raw rice cooked according to pkg. directions
If shrimp are in shells, peel and devein them, but do not cook until later.
Melt butter or margarine in 10" frypan. Add onion, celery and green pepper; saute until soft. Drain bean sprouts and reserve, adding liquid to sauteed vegetables.
Stir cornstarch until smooth in cold water and soy sauce. Add to sauteed vegetables; continue to stir 2 min. or until mixture thickens. Season to taste with salt and pepper.
Add drained bean sprouts and uncooked shrimp. Bring to boiling point; simmer - boil 5 min. or until shrimp are pink. Service at once with hot rice.
