

MR. AND MRS. WALDRON E. HEFFEL.
Young Couple Plight Troth At Ceremony In North Bedouque

North Bedouque United Church was the scene of a pretty and intimate wedding recently when Joyce Lorraine Birch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Birch, North Bedouque, became the wife of Waldron Earl Heffel, Freetown, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Heffel, Summerside East. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Cecil Webber, assisted by Mr. John Waldron. For the occasion the church was decorated with bouquets of autumn flowers and the guest seats were marked with white satin ribbons and red roses. The soloist, Miss Ann Leard of Central Bedouque, sang "The Wedding Prayer" and "O Perfect Love." She was accompanied by Mrs. Walter Craig of Middleton. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white velvet, with scooped neckline and pearl buttons on the fitted bodice. The gown had lilac-point sleeves and front panel. The skirt came to a "V" at the waistline and unpressed pleats fell in a chapel train. Her wedding earrings, a gift from the groom, held her shoulder-length veil of French lace and she carried a cascade of red vinerose roses entwined with ivy. The maid of honor was Katherine Ford of Sprinfield, and the bridesmaids were Mrs. Ensor Taylor of North Bedouque and Miss Norma MacCall of North Bedouque. They wore street-length dresses of red velvet with matching shoes, mitts and headresses, and carried semicascade bouquets of white shasta daisies.

ELLEN'S DIARY
The Birdsong Echoes In The Silence Of A Woodlot

So this afternoon, again I schedule of our farming included a spell spent in that gift of nature to the farmers, which is the farm's woodlot. What nice treasures come off it! Not only the fuel for our stoves, but other harvests as well. A spring cutting yields the stakes for the fencing. And at any time of year, it gives the lumber-the stick, and sticks needed for works of repair. It gives the light housewife, generously, the wood for the and the ferns; the charm of checkerboard paths, and leafy green tunnels to know, and tangles where raspberries, and sunny dells where wild strawberries, grow. There too in that perfect silence, enhanced by the soft, echoing from the busy, noisy world without, come in to linger reverently, and to happen. "Die? A man of this community, a sincere and well-respected citizen came recently, and suddenly to that last rest, to which all mortals are to be once called. He was, as it happens, a seat-mate of James in his boyhood, in the one-room school down the River Road. And collections of this companionship of youth, James entertains, an also he had many another friend, have of the departed one, up through the adult years. As the farming goes, he was one of the best of farmers. He took great care in his fields and his stock. The fields produced abundantly, and his herd of registered cattle on summer pasture, under a pastoral which was one of the district's prides. His success in his home life, under his own management - he wore modestly, for he was ever a humble man. But no matter how faithful folks are on the farm or elsewhere, there comes that inevitable summer that heat which is heard only once by the subject and alone, and rings the end of the marriage of the earth. And who knows when or where it comes, or when the close ties of home and kin and friends will be severed? A d

Mrs. W. E. Dindial Is The Guest Speaker At Recent CGIT Rally

KENSINGTON - Eighty-five girls and leaders representing the CGIT groups of Malpeque, Margate, Kensington, Summerfield, Hunter's River and New Glasgow, attended a rally at Kensington United Church on Saturday, January 19. Following the opening ceremony at 10 o'clock, Valerie Bowness, Kensington, extended a welcome to those present, and Mrs. L. M. Murray, Kensington U.C.W. preschool Christian education convener, brought greetings. Bible study groups studied St. John 1:8-21, and discussed how this teaching may be applied to their present day associations with other people. Mrs. W. E. Dindial, Hunter's River, and a native of Trinidad, was heard with enthusiasm and appreciation, as she described her homeland and told of the influence of her missionary to Trinidad. She also paid tribute to the present day missionaries there, including Mrs. Elma Inman, formerly of Tryon, P. E. I. The highlights of Maritime CGIT camp council 1962, held at Westecum, N.B. were interestingly related by Sharon Clark, Kensington. The morning session closed with a worship service led by Joyce Bassall, Nancy Smith and Dianne Taylor of the Hunter's River C.G.I.T.

A singing led by Marjorie Paynter, Kensington, opened the afternoon session, and the Rev. L. M. Murray extended a welcome to the rally members. Mrs. Beryl Craswell, Hunter's River, reviewed the requirements for the securing of the C.G.I.T. uniform correctly. A variety of handwork was completed by the girls during the craft hour, and a period of relaxation enjoyed during the games period which was conducted by Mrs. Ralph Johnson and Wenda Crozier of the Malpeque C.G.I.T., and Sharon Baker and Molly Van Mayhew of the Margate group. Mrs. Johnson reviewed the "Special Objectives" for the 1963 mission study, and it was regretted that the film "That They May See" could not be shown due to projection difficulties. Discussion group reported on their evaluation of the Rally program and a number of suggestions were presented for future rallies. Miss Mayne of Summerfield, expressed the appreciation of the visitors for the use of the Kensington Church, and to the leaders for planning the rally. Linda MacCoubrey, Ruth Johnston, Erna Dickson and Carol Dickson of the New Glasgow C.G.I.T., conducted an inspirational worship service in the church. Following the worship service, a friendship circle was formed and "taps" sung.
