Sebring Grand Prix Sat. Sees Unknowns Winners

By JACK HAND

SEBRING, Fla. (AP)—Joakim Bonnier of Sweden and unknown Lucien Bianchi of Belgium, scored an upset victory in Saturday's 12-hour endurance auto race but Olivier Gendebien, as usual, cut in on a man sized share of the gold and glory.

Teaming with Phil Hill of Santa Monica, Calif., the 1961 driving champion, Gendebien shared in $3,000 prize money and earned nine valuable points for the Ferrari factory in the car manufacturer's championship. They drove a Ferrari grand touring model to the important GT title. Bonnier and Bianchi won only $300 for taking the overall crown.

Winning at Sebring is old stuff for Gendebien who teamed with Hill in a victorious Ferrari in both 1959 and 1961. He also won in 1960 with Hans Hermann in a Porsche.

Bianchi, son of an alfa Romeo factory engineer, is a comparative unknown. Lucien had won before, teamed with Gendebien, but only in such events as the Tour de France rally and the 1,000 kilometer in Paris.

MOSS IS GLUM

If the Belgians were celebrating, there was one very glum Englishman. That would be favored Stirling Moss whose Ferrari, in which he teamed with Innes Ireland of Scotland, was disqualified at the 7½ - hour mark. Moss and Ireland had taken the overall lead from the Mexican Rodriguez brothers two hours earlier. They appeared to be on their way to victory if their Ferrari sports car held up.

Although they were disqualified for an unauthorized pit stop, made at 2 p.m., the ruling was not handed down until 5:30 p.m. It was explained from the timer's tower that the Moss-Ireland Ferrari had covered only 18 laps, instead of the required 20 laps before refueling. The drivers claimed they went into the pit to change brakes and only took gas when a pit official broke the seal on the gas tank.

Bonnier and Bianchi covered 206 laps or 1,030 miles for an average speed of 89.142 miles per hour. This was far below the record of 210 laps and 1,092 miles and average speed of 90.7 MPH set by Hill and Gendebien in their winning Ferrari in 1961.

Thirll To See Forbes Scoring

It was a real thrill to see Forbes Kennedy come through with that tying goal Saturday night. His teammates tapped him with the congratulatory stick, but there was no great enthusiasm, and the reason for this was evident. There were only two minutes left in the game, and the boys must have felt the odds were piled high against their scoring another one in the short time left to play. Imagine what would have happened if Duff hadn't scored that second Leaf goal earlier in the period. Kennedy's marker would have been so much more important then, and he would have been mobbed by delirious teammates. Yet the effort on Forbie's part would have been about the same. Hockey players can make application for fame and glory by giving all they have, but it is the fates that finally decide on whom to pin the hero's badge.

There's is only one chance remaining to establish the Amherst Ramblers as the strong team they were puffed up to be, and that is for the Montreal Olympics to go forth now and show that they are the surprise team of 1962. If Montreal gets thumped decisively by either the Ottawa Valley champs or the OHA winners, we'll have to accept the verdict that Maritime Hockey is at a pretty low level as compared with Canadian amateur hockey in general.

Sports Events Postponed

March came in like a lamb and may go out like one, but it was as full of vim and vigor as a hooked mackerel for two days in between. Two important sports events were postponed as a result. The Hampshire Bulldog-O'Leary Maroon tussle scheduled for Civic Stadium, which was stirring up a lot of interest, had to be set ahead, and the interscholastic basketball championship games at Civic Auditorium was another casualty to the sneak storm. Both events will probably be rescheduled for this week

Roger Maris seems to be one of those fellows who can't take the glaring spotlight of fame in his stride. As a result, his new nickname, "Rude Roger", may stick. His smart-alec trick of singing X's for autograph hunters will not endear him to his fans. We were pulling for him to hit 61 homers last year, as much as we hate the Yankees, but now we'll drink a toast to every pitcher who strikes him out. And we hope it won't be too long between drinks.

Bowling To Fill Gap

Bowling is coming to Summerside this spring to fill in the gap between hockey and baseball, between curling and golf. The Crest Lanes alleys will be opened March 31, and a great deal of enthusiasm is being whipped up. Leagues are being organized every other day. We've got a booted and spurred bunch of high professors ready to toe the line, and it is our prediction that they will be the team to beat —again and again and again.

Yorktown Cops Rich Feature

NEW YORK (CP) — Yorktown, a five - year - old horse owned by George D. Widener of Chestnut Hill, Pa., uncorked an overpowering late drive to win the $115,900 Campbell handicap for his fourth straight victory of 1962 at Bowie Saturday.

Prevented by injuries from racing his freshman year and out only three times last season, Yorktown came from way back on the back stretch in a field of 12 to take the first prize of $75,335.

At Miamp, Fla., Brae Burn Farm's Jay Fox stayed off a great stretch run by Pine Tree Stable's Nasomo to win the $40,000 Donn handicap on the grass at Gulfstream Park.

Jay Foax, who won last Saturday's $112,800 Gulfstream Park handicap on the dirt when Calumet Farm's Yorky was disqualified, needed no help from the stewards this time as he stayed close to the front all the way and ran the mile and a half in 2:28 2-5.

Paret In Critical Condition Following KO By Griffith

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP) — Benny Paret, the Cuban fighter known as "the kid with the iron chin" because of ability to take punch, was unconscious and in critical condition in hospital Sunday following a knockout loss to Emile Griffith Saturday night.

Manuel Alfaro, Paret's manager, said doctors at Roosevelt Hospital told him Paret "does not have a chance" of recovering. Hospital authorities, however, denied making the statement. They said the unconscious fighter's condition was "critical" and "poor."

The muscular 25-year-old Cuban underwent an operation for the removal of a blood clot near the brain early Sunday morning after he was carried unconscious from the ring.

Paret absorbed a fearful beating from the 24-year-old Griffith before referee Ruby Goldstein stopped the slaughter at 2:09 of the 12th round of the 15-round welterweight title bout.

GRUDGE FIGHT?

There were bitter feelings between the two fighters who had split in two previous title fights. Griffith, a native of the Virgin Islands, accused the Spanish-speaking Paret of making "nasty remarks to me" at the weighing-in ceremony Saturday.

Griffith swept the first five rounds, hurting Paret in the fourth, fifth and 10th rounds before pounding him senseless with more than 20 straight punches in the 12th round.

Despite the pounding he took earlier, Paret snapped out of his lethargy late in the sixth round when he dropped Griffith with a right and left to the jaw. The bell sounded then to save Griffith.

As the 12th started Paret appeared sluggish as he moved from his corner.

Griffith sent him reeling to the ropes with a right to the head. He shot over two more rights and Paret leaned against the ropes with his head down. Griffith blasted him with right hand uppercuts as Paret's head leaned between the second and top ropes. Blood flowed from Paret's nose and a cut under his right eye.

Ringsiders counted from 20 to to 26 punches before Goldstein jumped towards Griffith, wrapped his arms around the fighter, and stopped it.

CRITICIZE REFEREE

Alfaro bitterly criticized the referee for failing to intervene when Paret's head was between the ropes and said that he had yelled for Goldstein to stop the fight.

"I felt I did the right thing last night and I feel the same way about it today," said Goldstein.

"I thought he might roll away from the ropes in the 12th round. Lots of fighters do that."

A New York State Athletic Commission spokesman said there would be no comment from the commissioners now.

Paret, a professional since Aug. 11, 1955, is married and the father of a two-year-old boy, Benny Jr. His wife, Lucy, expecting another child in seven months, watched the fight on television in their Miami, Fla., home. She arrived by plane Sunday morning.

Griffith who had been jubilant when the fight was stopped, started to cry a few seconds after he saw Paret stretched out on the canvas. He visited the hospital Saturday night but left when he was told there was nothing he could do to help.

Rochester Hockey Fans Vote Alex Faulkner MUP

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Little Alex Faulkner, the first Newfoundlander to play major professional hockey, has been voted the season's most valuable player for the Rochester Americans of the American Hockey League by fans.

Faulkner was presented the third annual Julian Kheel Trophy between the second and third periods of Friday night's Rochester - Cleveland game. In in the third period, Faulkner scored the tying goal as the Americans went on to beat Cleveland, 4-3.

As a young man who made the jump from the ranks of amateur hockey to the American League last season, the 25-year-old Faulkner is something of a hero in Newfoundland.

He played one game for Toronto Maple Leafs this season to become the first Newfoundlander to play in either the National or American leagues.

SAW LITTLE ACTION

Faulkner, from Bishop's Falls, Nfld., joined the Americans in December of the 1960-61 season but saw little action, scoring five goals and adding 13 assists for 18 points.

But this season, despite a broken nose and a facial bone fracture that kept him out of five games in December, the 165-pound centre has scored 26 goals and 31 assists for a total of 70 points, tops for the Americans. He needs seven assists in four remaining game to break the team assist record held by Rudy Migay.

A clever playmaker and a good skater, Faulkner's size is considered the only factor that might keep him out of the National League. He stands 5 feet 8 inches.

Friday night's award is named for Kheel, a local real estate developer. The Rochester fans balloted throughout the season for the award.

Local hockey writers say they get two to three telephone calls a month from people in Newfoundland who want to know how Faulkner is doing.

Faulkner says he wants to play well enough not to embarrass the people back home.

Badminton Ch'ships Underway Tuesday

By MARVEN MOSS

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian badminton championships opening here Tuesday will probably resolve the Jim Carnwath-Wayne Macdonnell controversy.

The two are considered Canada's most proficient players.

But they have never crossed racquets.

Now both have entered the four-day meet and it's virtually certain that they'll clash at one stage or another, says Stiles Pickens of Montreal, president of the Canadian Badminton Association.

A foreign field headed by Indonesian - born Ferdinand (Ferry) Sonneville, 31, is expected to dominate play in the men's singles.

However, the association has revived the native closed titles and a formula was devised by Pickens that will pit Canada's best against each other.

MAKE STIR

Earlier this year the association produced something more than a mild stir by listing Carnwath ahead of Macdonnell in its national rankings.

That was because Macdonnell broke his ankle in Thomas Cup competition last year and was sidelined for a good part of the season, Pickens said.

Many followers of the court game in Canada, however, consider Macdonnell the stronger man.

Pickens leaves little doubt about where he stands.

Asked to evaluate the pair's chances against the agile, power - hitting foreign contingent, he said "Carnwath might've been a hell of a battle, but for him to win it would be quite an upset."

"Macdonnell is another matter. He has been coming up fast. This boy is good. How far he can go, no one knows."

The 23-year-old Macdonnell is a red headed department-store clerk from Vancouver. Carnwath, three years older, is a law student from Woodstock, Ont., attending the University of Toronto. He is stockier than the 147-pound Macdonnell but about the same height, five-foot-seven.

Although the two have played in the same tournaments, some freak of the draw has always kept them apart. In last year's Thomas Cup trials, Macdonnell won all six of his matches while Carnwath broke even 3-3.
