

U.S. Cancer Specialist In New Book Claims Cigarette-Smoking Helped Kill King George VI

LONDON (Reuters)—An American cancer specialist claims in a new book that smoking helped kill King George VI.

The book is Smoking and Cancer, written by Dr. Alton Ochsner, a past president of the American Cancer Society. It was issued to reporters Monday at a press conference held by the British Temperance Union in its campaign against smoking.

Reporters also heard a team of five British doctors link smoking with cancer and saw an American movie which traces the story of a heavy-smoking American editor from the time he is diagnosed as having lung cancer to the operating theatre.

One reporter, overcome by witnessing the actual removal of the cancer-ridden lung, collapsed. The movie was interrupted while doctors attended him.

In his book, Dr. Ochsner asserts that the symptoms of King George VI, who died in 1952, were all too familiar to specialists.

Accuse Graham Of Retarding Growth Of Thinking Religion

OXFORD, Eng. (Reuters)—A leading Anglican layman Monday night accused Rev. Billy Graham of retarding the development of "thinking religion" by his crusades to Britain and said the American evangelist preached a form of Christian doctrine "which has long been outgrown."

Dr. Henry Self, in a presidential address to the Modern Churchmen's Union here, said "those who are concerned for the future of enduring religion in this country must be seriously perturbed by the course of events."

IN MEMORIAM

WILBUR VON CLURE JONES

There passed peacefully away on June 2nd, after a lingering illness Wilbur Von Clure Jones in his sixty-third year.

He lived on the old farm homestead at Pownal, a fifth generation to fulfill this privilege. He was the son of the late Joe Jones, who predeceased him five years ago—his mother being the late Emily Jenkins. In 1930 he married Vera Hyde of Meadow Bank. Their family consists of Arthur, who carries on his father's work, Norma, Mrs. Robert Hambley, Charlottetown, and Hilary, at home, all of whom were able to be with him at the last. An aged Aunt, Sadie also lives in the home. His brother Frank and sister Margaret, Mrs. Herbert Yeo, reside in Charlottetown. His very near and dear cousin Harold Jones of Boston came home to attend the funeral. "Web" as he was familiarly known to his many friends, was a man of integrity, who bore all life's disappointments in a quiet and reserved manner, which was characteristic of him.

He was a faithful attendant of Pownal Church, where he loved to worship and help to promote its work in whatever way he could. He served on the board of stewards for a number of years. A short funeral service was held at the home on June 5th, thence to Pownal Church. His pastor, Rev. T. R. Goudge conducted the service assisted by Rev. G. W. Tilley, a former pastor. Both the service and the messages of song were comforting and beautiful. Mrs. John MacRae sang the lovely hymn: "He Hideth My Soul In The Cleft of the Rock", with much feeling in her lovely voice. The other hymns sung by the choir were: "Jesus, Thou Joy of Loving Hearts" and "Dear Lord, a Father of Mankind". All favourites of the deceased.

The pall bearers were: Harold Smith, Robert Brown, Arthur Moore, Ambrose MacMillan, John MacMillan and Robert MacRae.

The many beautiful flowers were carried by Arden Richards, Wallace Burhoe, Ernest MacCabe, Charl Jones, Kimball Acorn and Fred Mossman.

He was tenderly laid to rest in the adjoining cemetery.

The following floral tributes conveyed their messages of sympathy from the following donors:

In the good we do on the path of life,

As we travel throughout the years

There is scattered the joy of kindness done

As we read in smiles—not tears,

We scatter the seeds as we go

our way

For there will harvest that crop

some day.

Thus those Christian acts and kindly deeds

Which in fertile soil we sow,

Are the seeds we scatter along

life's way

In the sunshine of Heaven to grow

For within the hollow of "That Great Hand."

Are the blessings He showers upon us.

CARD OF THANKS
Mrs. Wilbur Jones and family, Pownal, wish to express their appreciation to their neighbours and friends who so kindly helped in many ways during the illness and death of our dear one.

IN MEMORIAM

JAMES WILLIAM JARDINE

James William Jardine passed away at his home in Kingsboro on July 2, 1956, at the age of 72. He had been in failing health for several years, but was not confined to the house. On the morning of his death he accompanied his son-in-law to Souris. While en route home he complained of a severe pain, so went to bed as soon as possible. His condition was diagnosed as cerebral hemorrhage, and he passed away a few hours later.

Mr. Jardine was born at Brookly, P.E.I., July 28, 1883, and baptized in the Church of Scotland. His parents were the late Christopher Jardine and Abigail Bears. After his marriage to Georgia Bruce about 45 years ago, he established his home in Kingsboro, where he has since resided.

Besides his wife, he is survived by his son, Hartley, Toronto; daughters: Bernice, Mrs. Richard Knox, Flat River; Verna, Mrs. George Docherty, Pictou; Myrtle, Mrs. Harvey Poole, Souris; Mildred, Mrs. Ernest Morrow, Elmira; Velma, Mrs. Murray Beaton, Toronto; and Elaine, Athol, Mass. Also surviving are his brother John, Charlottetown; sisters: Carrie, Mrs. John Livingston, Murray Harbour; Mary, Mrs. Frank Reeves, Freetown; and his half-sister, Mrs. Annie Bears, Athol, Mass. There are nineteen grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted on July 5, from his late residence to the Baptist Church at Kingsboro. Rev. Donald McClure was assisted by Rev. H.R. Bell. The hymns, "The Lord's my Shepherd", and "Good Night and Good Morning", were sung by the choir, accompanied by Mrs. Clinton Stewart at the organ. Rev. Mr. McClure sang as a solo. After the service the pallbearers were: Boswell Robertson, Roy Dixon, Freeman Mossey, Clinton Stewart, Percy MacDonal and Carl MacVane. Interment was in the Kingsboro Cemetery.

Combining business with pleasure, Mr. Donald Ferguson was among the visitors in the City, on July 20.

Motorists are well satisfied with the recently paved section of the North River Causeway, which, previously, has been a severe test to Motor Vehicles crossing thereon.

Mrs. Ruth MacBeth and son have joined the annual influx of tourists visiting relatives residing in Western Canada, and, in the near future, will visit those residing in their homeland, guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ferguson.

Mrs. MacBeth is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Peter Ferguson, of Hampton.

Mr. and Mrs. George Bicknell and three children, Betty Jane, Beverly and Marjorie, are visiting friends and relatives residing in these merging districts. Mrs. Bicknell is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Dixon, and are their welcome guest during the brief period of holidays at their disposal.

Miss Dixie Easter is a welcome visitor at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Holm.

Rev. and Mrs. Armstrong are welcome summer visitors among friends residing in the surrounding communities. Mr. Armstrong was a former Rector of St. John's Anglican Church, Craignap, and has taken a Cabin in this district (an ideal resort, overlooking both Strait and harbor) during a brief holiday period.

Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Cudmore are visitors among friends residing here and at Appin Road, guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cudmore, and Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Ferguson.

As a result of the increased schedule of daily sailings of the Ferries plying between Borden and C. Tormentine, visitors to the Island are coming, in large numbers, and Motels and Cabins are almost all occupied.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Murchison North River, were visitors here on July 15, guests of Mrs. Murchison's aunts, Mesdames Catherine and Florence Ince.

Our duties as members and adherents of the Church" was the subject of the inspiring address at the evening service of Public Worship, here, on July 22.

CARD OF THANKS
Mrs. Wilbur Jones and family, Pownal, wish to express their appreciation to their neighbours and friends who so kindly helped in many ways during the illness and death of our dear one.

Robot Brain To Pick Winners Of British Bond Interest Lottery

By ROBERT RICE
CANADIAN Press Staff Writer
LONDON (CP) — A film star may publicly press the button, but an electronic brain will silently decide the lucky winner in Britain's lottery bond scheme.

The first premium bonds, each worth £1, go on sale in November, with the first draw expected next June. This week the postmaster-general, Dr. Charles Hill, is expected to tell the country all the details.

After almost four months of planning he is understood to be ready to reveal where to buy the bonds, what prizes will be offered and how the draw will be made.

Post office scientists have perfected telephone circuits which memorize the numbers of every bond bought, and then with electronic impartiality announce the winners.

There is talk of putting the brain to work on television when the day of the draw arrives.

It's a complicated affair. Since each bond must be registered and every holder identified, the robot device is said to be designed to eliminate much of such bothersome paper work.

There was great interest — and some criticism — when Chancellor of the Exchequer Harold Macmillan announced the savings scheme in his April budget. He handed the problem of running it to Hill, and since then, in a back room in Whitehall and out at the post office's research centre at Dollis Hill, his planners have been at work.

Everything's set now: A big publicity campaign, premiums printed, records ready — and the brain fixed for action.

The whole purpose of the lottery is to encourage more saving in Britain. Macmillan figured that if high interest wasn't attractive enough, then perhaps Britons who play the football pools would like the idea of a gamble that can't lose.
