The play, "The Queen's Ring", one of two entries from Notre Dame Academy, Charlottetown was chosen as the best production effort. It was directed by Sister St. Peter. The play is the story of Queen Elizabeth I of England and the Duke of Essex, who was substituting for her. The best actor award went to William Scott of Souris who performed in the production of "The Lady's Slipper", an original play by Mrs. Adele Townsend of Hullo Bay. Bobby Hull Definitely Out For 2 Games

DETROIT (CP)—Left-wing Bobby Hull "definitely is out" for the third and fourth games of the Chicago-Detroit Stanley Cup semifinal series in Detroit. The high-scoring forward suffered a broken nose several days inside the nose and external cuts that required 10 stitches in Thursday night's second game at Chicago.

Europe's Booming Economy Impresses Ch'town Jeweller

Roland Taylor of Charlottetown yesterday returned by air from almost three weeks in Europe. He attended what he called an outstanding photography show in Cologne, West Germany. Delegates at the show, which was held in Belgium, saw friends at Rotterdam, Holland, and spent some time in England. His latter country he visited the birthplace of his grandfather, G.H. Taylor at Diss Norfolk. The booming economy in West Germany was most impressive. Taylor said he observed great advances in the standard of living, judging from the goods on display in shops since an earlier visit six years ago. The weather was described by Taylor as being in the best of form in England, spring flowers were in bloom and farmers were planting.

Two Are Fined $200 for Illegal Spirits Case

John H. Reid and Frederick Dooley, Charlottetown, were convicted and fined $200 and costs or 60 days by Magistrate J. A. Haslam on a charge of possession of bootlegged and factored spirits, in city police court Saturday morning. The fines were imposed following the completion of the evidence for the Crown, represented by Gerald R. Foster, Q.C. The case was presented by defence counsel, John P. Nicholson. The magistrate complimented the RCMP on the efficiency with which they prepared and presented the case. Mr. Reid appeared on another charge of not registering a motor vehicle 10 days after he had purchased it in another province, but was adjourned to April 5. It had been previously adjourned from March 17, 1961. The story says Mr. Diefenbaker's hands had the document for almost two years and the U.S. state department press release taking issue with his defence policy speech in the Commons earlier this year "caused him to retrieve the document, and threaten to make it public." However, it says the prime minister "accepted the pressures brought upon him within the cabinet to keep the document secret."

On details of the document, Lynch writes: "According to these reports, the document advised the president that Canada should be the first to accept nuclear weapons under joint control; to join the OAS (Organization of American States) to decrease her trade with Communist China and Cuba and to ratify the Columbia River Treaty." Lynch adds that these objectives were the threat of cuts in U.S. defence production sharing, and the possibilities of quotas or increased tariffs against Canadian gas and oil, lead and zinc, and timber products entering the U.S. market.

Rehabilitation Camps Aids 17 In Six Conns

Officials of the P.E.I. Rehabilitation Council reported last night that the period Oct. 1, 1962 to March 31, 1963 was the busiest six months the organization has had since its founding five years ago.

The sum of the council is partly financed through the Easter seal campaign and the Rotary Club and the Red Cross Club in Charlottetown and the Masonic Lodge in Montague.

The council has 17 representatives from the provincial government and other voluntary organizations interested in the work of rehabilitating handicapped persons in the province.

In addition these services, many handicapped are taught the use of prosthetic appliances, given training to undertake various types of employment plus the placing in jobs of those who are able.

To receive assistance all cases must be vouched for by the family doctor or the nurse, the medical assessment committee of the council. Once these steps have been completed the council then takes on the full responsibility of treatment and training.

For some of the 89 children aided, the council has arranged to centre outside the province for specialist treatment, and the council, in addition to the assistance, has arranged for the medical assessment committee of the council. Once these steps have been completed the council then takes on the full responsibility of treatment and training.

Good Response Noted In Hospitals' Campaign

The campaign goal is $300,000. This is the amount required by both hospitals to provide adequate facilities to diagnose and treat the sick. At the time the campaign was announced it was indicated that hospital insurance was not a satisfactory cure for hospital problems, and both institutions were in a position where they need more trained personnel, more accommodations and more better equipment and facilities.

Dr. L.E. Prowse, chairman of the Hospital Services Commission, at the time rebate cheques were mailed stated that the commission strongly supported the appeal for funds and hoped that the people receiving rebates would, if possible, make them available to their community hospitals.

Guardian-Patriot Staff Writer

A generous response to the appeal for funds to diagnose and treat the sick is indicated in the first donations of Hospital Insurance rebate cheques to the P.E.I. and Charlottetown Hospital financial campaign it was learned from Jack Johnson of the Island Credit Bureau.

To date, he said, approximately 250 individuals have been received, and although the amounts have not been totalled, an individual cheque usually runs from $10 to $20.

Mr. Johnson stated he was quite impressed by the number of persons who have received. However, he noted that a number of persons have donated their premium cheques without endorsing them, indicating which hospital they wish them to go to, but forgetting to sign their names.

As each cheque is made out to a particular person it is necessary for unsigned or improperly endorsed cheques to be returned to the persons who sent them for signature. Mr. Johnson stated that he would try to get the names of those who had neglected to sign their names, but those cheques coming from the country would be mailed.

BETTER INDICATION

Cheques from business firms have not really started to come in as yet, he said, but they are expected to do so within a few days. At the same time there would be a better indication of how the campaign is progressing.

He reminded donors that all chartered banks accept donations, and that any firms having cheques signed by employees and ready to turn over to the hospitals can have these cheques picked up by calling either hospital.
