

The Daily Examiner

OCTOBER 23, 1885.

Editorial Notes.

The ambassadors have presented a note to the Porte saying that further time will have to be afforded them so as to obtain a complete European understanding respecting the Roumelian difficulty...

Sir Charles Dilke in his speech Tuesday, dwelt upon the importance of increasing British influence in Burmah, with the view of securing that field for future trade.

Mr. Henry Labouchere, who fairly accurately represents the opinions of the extreme wing of the Liberal party in England, says:—The eight questions upon which the Radical mind is made up are: 1. Abolition of the hereditary principle in the House of Lords.

New South Wales has just succeeded in making a very successful loan in London for £5,500,000 three and a half per cent. stock.

It is worthy of remark that all the elections that have taken place since the rebellion and the Grit obstruction to the Franchise bill, have resulted in the Ottawa Government being sustained by large majorities—600 in Cardwell, nearly 400 in Durham, over 200 in Antigonish, and nearly 400 in St. John.

The St. John Telegraph wishes to convince the "Liberals" that it is courageous. In its issue of the 23rd inst. it says:—"The general election for the Dominion comes round in 1887."

Yesterday evening as Mrs. Charles Clark and a young lad were driving on the Lower St. Peter's Road, a gun was fired from behind the fence, the charge passing immediately over the horse's back.

Public attention is now being directed to the consideration of the question of how best to celebrate the jubilee year of the accession of Her Majesty to the throne of England. The Queen will enter on the fiftieth year of her reign on the 20th of June next, and it is thought that it is none too early to commence doing something towards preparing for the celebration of the event in a manner commensurate with its importance.

The Rifle.

The annual shooting match of No. 3 Battery Garrison Artillery took place on the Georgetown Rifle Range on Saturday, Oct. 10th. Although the weather was not all that could be desired, the shooting on the whole made a very good average, and with more practice, this Battery could produce several very good shots.

- Lieut Stewart, cash prize and an accordion—Presented by Hon D Gordon. Gunner P Ross, cash prize and one pair boots—Capt M McDonald; and special prize of $1—Corpl Johnston, of No. 5 Battery, for highest number of bulls-eyes.

Cash prizes were also presented by the following gentlemen:—Capt Owen, $2; Lieut Stewart, $2; Capt Bourke, $1; Capt McLaren, $2; R R McDonald, $1; G F Owen, $1; W McConnell, 50cts; M Ledwell, 50cts; Mr Steel, 50cts; A Cogswell, 40cts; H Parker, 25cts; C Aitken, 25cts; W Lavers, 25cts; a friend 25cts; do, 25cts; do, 25cts.

Canadian Mortuary Statistics.

The mortuary statistics of the principal cities and towns of the Dominion for the month of September are as follows: Montreal, 1,220 deaths; Toronto, 187; Quebec, 193; Halifax, 67; Hamilton, 53; Winnipeg, 37; Ottawa, 52; St John, 59; Kingston, 33; St Thomas, 13; Charlottetown, 15; Guelph, 15; Belleville, 21; Chatham, 10; Sherbrooke, 16; Peterborough, 15; Sorel, 24; Fredericton, 8; St. Hyacinthe, 22, and Gall 8. The total number of deaths in these cities for the month was 2,073, so that these in Montreal aggregated more than half by nearly 200. There were 829 deaths from smallpox in Montreal, one in Quebec, one in Ottawa and three in Sorel.

Horsford's Acid Phosphate, DRANK WITH SODA WATER is delicious. All druggists have it. It is refreshing and cooling. Try it often.

A stage line that was established 100 years ago is said to be still in operation between Skowhegan (Me.) and Quebec, a distance of 200 miles. The stages (six horses) leave either terminus every morning.

The Fitzpatrick Murder.

The examination of Frank Beales and Arthur Smith, charged with the murder of Joseph Fitzpatrick, was continued before the S. J. Magistrate yesterday evening.

Mrs. McKewen (sworn).—I was in town last Friday, and Mr. Smith was between 4 and 5 o'clock. I went out Spring Park Road. I know where Fitzpatrick lives. I passed several teams, I think, before I came to Elliott's, both wagons and carts, and I passed some after. No team passed me. I don't remember who I passed, as I was in a hurry. I don't remember of meeting any. I drove very fast. I don't remember of seeing anyone walking. I heard no gun. There was no wagon kept up to me. I heard about the murder on Monday from a man named McArthur, of West River. I don't know Mr. Beales or his son. I don't know either Mr. Mallett or Mr. McNevin, and I never saw Mr. Fitzpatrick.

Catherine Murray (sworn).—I was in town last Friday with Mr. A. McNevin. We had a cart, and left Mr. Robertson's boarding house for home at a quarter to five by the watch. We went out Spring Park Road. We did not go fast. I saw no carriages or carts pass us between Charlottetown and the Queen's Arms, and we passed none. We did not pass a woman walking. We had not much of a load. There was a woman on the cart. It was about sundown when we passed Fitzpatrick's. It was dark when we got to North River Bridge. It was too dark to distinguish people.

Donald McKinnon's evidence was unimportant, and was not received. Robert Cass (sworn).—I live in John Connolly's house, near McPherson's. I was working on McPherson's farm, about ten chains from Fitzpatrick's, on Friday evening last. I could not see Fitzpatrick's house from where I was working. I heard the shot fired. It was a heavy shot. I heard the town clock strike four a half hour before the shot was fired. I was fired to the north of Fitzpatrick's. I cannot say it was as far north as Holman's Road. When the gun went off the child cried. I said to myself some mischief was done—the gun had done something. After dark I went down to the spring for a bucket of water, and I heard Mrs. Fitzpatrick scolding. I thought, at the other side of the creek, I saw a number of horses and carriages going along the road. They were close when the shot was fired. They must have heard the shot but might not know of the boy being shot, as they went into the house. I heard another shot after that, but I could not tell whether it was up or down the creek. It was a light shot.

Michael McAdam (sworn).—I live at the Queen's Arms. I know Holman's Road. I was digging potatoes in Robert Crabb's field, at the corner of Holman's Road and Lower Malpeque Road. I went home and had some tea. I could not see Fitzpatrick's house from where I was working. I heard the town clock strike four a half hour before the shot was fired. I was fired to the north of Fitzpatrick's. I cannot say it was as far north as Holman's Road. When the gun went off the child cried. I said to myself some mischief was done—the gun had done something. After dark I went down to the spring for a bucket of water, and I heard Mrs. Fitzpatrick scolding. I thought, at the other side of the creek, I saw a number of horses and carriages going along the road. They were close when the shot was fired. They must have heard the shot but might not know of the boy being shot, as they went into the house. I heard another shot after that, but I could not tell whether it was up or down the creek. It was a light shot.

Robert Cass (sworn).—I live in John Connolly's house, near McPherson's. I was working on McPherson's farm, about ten chains from Fitzpatrick's, on Friday evening last. I could not see Fitzpatrick's house from where I was working. I heard the shot fired. It was a heavy shot. I heard the town clock strike four a half hour before the shot was fired. They must have heard the shot but might not know of the boy being shot, as they went into the house. I heard another shot after that, but I could not tell whether it was up or down the creek. It was a light shot.

The inquest was resumed at 8 o'clock last evening by Coroner McLeod and Jury. The first witness called was Mrs. McEwen—Her evidence was about the same as given before the Stipendiary Magistrate with the following additions:—Coroner—I am requested by the foreman to ask you if you knew you would be called as a witness in this case.

Witness—Yes; my brother told me I would be. I had no intimation from other parties. To the Foreman—I did not know Mr. McNevin. I cannot recall him to memory. I was in a hurry and cannot recall anyone I met on Friday last on the road. Catherine Murray (sworn)—Gave evidence as before. To Foreman—I did not speak to the boy Fitzpatrick, nor ask if he was shot. The evidence of Archibald McNevin, as taken before the Stipendiary Magistrate, was read to the jury. They considered his testimony unimportant, and therefore did not call him. Robert Cass was next called. His evidence was the same as given before the Stipendiary Magistrate. The inquest then adjourned until this evening at 7 o'clock.

Some time ago Prince Alexander of Bulgaria proposed for the hand of a Princess belonging to one of the great reigning families. Although the lady herself was not averse to the match, her parents scouted the idea, telling the suitor he must raise a good deal higher before he would be fit to mate with their daughter. The Prince took this rebuff in good part, merely remarking: "Very well then, since you will not accept a mere Prince for a son-in-law, I must try and make myself a King." This was regarded at the time as a mere idle vaunt, but Prince Alexander's present enterprise gives the utterance something of the character of a prophecy.
