Financial Loss For Film Group

LONDON, Sept. 5 (CP) — British movie-maker J. Arthur Rank reported today that his film group lost $2,325,000 ($7,207,500) making pictures in the year ended June 24. However, the financial position of the Odeon Theatres network, he said, has been considerably improved.

Profits from the movie-theatre chain and other concerns out the net loss to $91,818, Rank told shareholders.

Rank also reported that the group had cut its bank loans and overdrafts by $3,336,545.

In a cheerful mood as he faced directors in the mansion that is the group's headquarters, Rank said that last year marked the transition from heavy production losses two years ago to what he hopes will be a more satisfactory future.

There must be curtailment of production, he said, until the basic production problems have been solved.

"The annual investment in producing negatives is greater than the return which can reasonably be anticipated from the markets available to British films," he said.

Work Proceeding At Kensington Industrial Area

The steel framework of the huge Island Fertilizer plant on the Kensington Beach industrial development site will be completed shortly and part of the building will be ready for occupancy by the end of October, it was learned yesterday from Mr. Louis Sandler, plant manager.

The $2,228,000 foot structure will be composed of two Charlottetown airport hangars which will be transported to the site as soon as the framework is ready. A 40-foot concrete span in the centre of the proposed plant will join the two hangars together.

The railway spur line has been laid to nearly the western end of the fertilizer plant. This line, which will also serve the Associated Shippers and Schurman's concrete plant, will run into the fertilizer plant so that all loading operations will be done under cover.

The foundation for the walls of the Associated Shippers building has been laid and the men are now working on the forms for the laying of a concrete floor. This building is a 128 x 40 foot structure.

The foundation for three walls of the 225 x 160 foot Government Garage building has been laid and forms for the pouring of cement for the last wall are being constructed. All Government machinery will be stored in this garage formed from an airport hangar.

Part of the old cattle barns on the Exhibition grounds have been torn down, leaving only the sheep barn to be destroyed. Already this year five new cattle barns have been erected and it is expected that about four more barns will be built this fall.

Mrs. Harry Cudmore, Director of Swimming and Water Safety, thanked Mrs. Ramsay on behalf of the Red Cross for the leadership she had given in this summer time program, and gave a brief outline of the value of Water Safety in reducing the toll of drowning tragedies.

Mrs. Cudmore congratulated the candidates on their enthusiastic participation in the Swimming & Water Safety program.

Decline Seen In Fox, Mink Furs

OTTAWA, Sept. 5 (CP) — Output of fox and mink furs in Canada will decline this year, the Bureau of Statistics predicted today.

Fur farm production of pelts of standard silver and new type foxes in the 1950-51 season will be 37.5 per cent lower than last year, and production of standard and mutation mink will be down about one per cent, the Bureau said.

The number of foxes which will be pelted on fur farms is estimated at 52,000, compared with 79,000 in 1949-50, and standard and mutation mink at 515,000, compared with 521,700.

The Bureau's estimates also show a decline of 30.3 per cent in the number of adult foxes on farms at the beginning of 1950 and a decline of 4.5 per cent in adult mink.

The number of fox pups raised in 1950 is estimated at 36.7 per cent less than last year, but the number of mink kits is considered to have increased 3.3 per cent.

R.C.A.F. To Assist Search For Child

EDMONTON, Sept. 5 (CP) — Thirty members of the R. C. A. F. trained in search technique, were being mustered today to fly to Jasper Park and join in the search for a two-year-old girl lost in the woods around Lake Edith since Saturday.

The child is Lorraine Smith of Edmonton. She has been the object of a search by more than 500 volunteers.

Air force officials said the airmen will go to Jasper in two aircraft. An R.C.A.C. helicopter piloted by F. O. D. C. McBurney already is at the scene aiding the search.

HOUSE DEFEATS

The speech forecast government legislation to end the recent strike and measures for increased national security and international co-operation required by the fighting in Korea.

The debate brought from External Affairs Minister Pearson a statement on the international situation. He said Canada has nothing to apologize for in the way she responded to the United Nations call for help in Korea.

Defence Minister Claxton indicated that it will take from six to 10 months to get a special brigade in shape to participate in the Korean fighting or elsewhere required by its United Nations.

Prime Minister St. Laurent announced that the Government does not plan to introduce legislation at this session to provide for revival of wartime price and wage controls. However, there would be some measures of an anti-inflation character.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, criticized the government's handling of the defence program and called for establishment of a Parliamentary defence committee to review the whole question of Canadian defence policy.

He said the government could have taken action to deal with inflation and rising living costs.

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, said Canada should make more than a military contribution to the battle against Communism. Economic aid should be extended to the underdeveloped countries of the world.

Solon Low, Social Credit leader, backed the government's stand on the Korean issue. On the home front, he urged revival of subsidies to bring down living costs.

Await Reply To Conference Call

LONDON, Sept. 5 (Reuters) — Communist officials, primed for a vital conference on economic aid to southeast Asia, tonight waited anxiously for word from four Asian countries invited to attend.

With only a few hours left before the start of the conference tomorrow, no word had been received from Siam, Indonesia, Burma and the three associate states of Indo-China.

They had been asked to submit by Sept. 1 programs giving details of what aid was required and what they themselves could contribute from their resources. Up until tonight their programs had not been received.

Burma, Siam and Indonesia have not indicated whether they will take part in the conference. Indo-China accepted some time ago.

All Commonwealth countries except South Africa, which is not attending, have submitted their programs.

Sockeyes Missing In Fraser River

VANCOUVER, Sept. 5 (CP) — Missing: The famed Adams River sockeye salmon run worth nearly $15,000,000 to British Columbia fish canneries.

The run—this year figured to number some 10,000,000 silver sockeye—is late making its appearance in the Fraser River where seiners and gillnetters by the thousands anxiously await the dash of the fish to spawning grounds in interior Adams River and Adams Lake.

For the fishermen the run's appearance would be a bonanza; its failure to show up a disaster. Fraser River canneries are just as vitally concerned.

But fishery experts haven't given up hope of reaping the silver harvest. It was as late as Sept. 6 when the 1930 Adams River run finally whipped the Fraser into a fury in their upstream rush.

TANK-LED

The only other big highway left for the duty swings due south to Pusan behind the Nakdong River front where the U. S. 2nd Division, the 1st Marine Brigade and the U.S. 25th Division are holding off other Red forces.

Pohang, second to Pusan in importance as a United Nations port, fell Tuesday night to the Reds after a day of hard fighting. The Communists north of Pohang had unleashed a tank-supported assault Tuesday against the South Korean 3rd Division.

In mountain areas ringing Taegu on the north, 1st Cavalry troops gave up trying to oust Reds in a walled town of mud huts on a 3,000-foot mountain and pulled back.

Other 1st Cavalry units yielded Tabu, 12 miles north of Taegu on a road known as "the bowling alley"—so-called because the Reds tried to bowl down a straight stretch two weeks ago, only to be bloodily repulsed.

Where the Reds were within seven miles of Taegu were not pinpointed.

Torrential rains have been hampering the United Nations air arm in sapping the strength of the Taegu sector at dawn today.

In doubt after the fall of Pohang was the status of American forces defending an air base, six miles southwest of the port city.

The first British troops in Korea went into action. Tuesday night one British company was isolated in swirling actions but fought its way out by daybreak. Location of the British sector was not disclosed.

A Reuters dispatch from Tokyo said the British troops had taken over a sector held by U.S. 1st Cavalry Division elements near the Nakdong bulge on the broken central front.

The British forces, numbering some 2,000 from the 1st battalions of the Middlesex and Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders Regiments, took up their positions under cover of darkness Monday night. They experienced heavy Red artillery fire Monday night and again Tuesday night.

Near Taegu The U. S. 1st Cavalry had been engaged in fierce fighting around Kasan, about nine miles north of Taegu.

The U. S. 24th Division swung into the Yongchon-Kyongju whirlpool of fighting. They used fast-firing Patton tanks.

The threat to Kyongju was against a highly important rail and road junction where arteries fan out toward the lifeline port of Pusan as well as west toward Taegu.

One Red force which rolled through the crumpled South Korean capital division south of Kigye, swung west for more than 10 miles and had Kyongju under mortar fire Tuesday night.

Declares British-Canadian Trade Union Solidarity

BRIGHTON, Sussex, England, Sept. 5 (Reuters) — Nine hundred delegates at the annual conference of the 8,000,000-strong British Trade Union Congress today greeted enthusiastically a declaration of British-Canadian Trade Union solidarity by Alderman R.K. Gervin of Vancouver.

Gervin, speaking as a fraternal delegate from the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress, said it was essential that the democratic movements on both sides of the Atlantic should stand together as free men if they were to save themselves from the imperialist designs of Russia.

Gervin gave the Congress a long factual survey of the development of trade unionism in Canada, of the extent and resources of his country and of the social progress it had made. The five Tolpuddle martyrs (early British trade-unionists sentenced to transportation for their activities) who settled in Canada had never ceased to be an inspiration to the Canadian movement, Gervin said.

Labor in Canada had become a powerful force, ready in peace to work for greater democracy and in war to fight an aggressor to the last ditch, wherever he might strike.

who do not belong to the Communist Party. These, and the people Russia had subjugated, were considered the main danger by the small but ruthless group of men who ruled the Soviet Union. That was the reason for their incessant warlike propaganda and their incessant misrepresentation of the west.

Sooner or later the time would come when the 195,000,000 Russians outside the 5,000,000-member Communist Party "won't let 5,000,000 dictate to them."

Senator Robertson said Canada would have to be "prepared for staggering financial commitments." She also had to see that her standard of living was not reduced to the point where it would be vulnerable to Communist propaganda which thrived on want and dissatisfaction.

FOUR-FOLD

Continued from page 1 tory, voted last session and a commitment total of $190,000,000 also authorized at that time.

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, bespoke his party's support for the appropriations and suggested that the government revive the wartime excess profits tax and nationalize the munitions industry to prevent profiteering.

Solon Low, Social Credit leader, gave his support to the program and said he foresaw an annual defence budget of $1,000,000,000 within the next few years. To support this undertaking, the government should repeal taxes which discourage production.

Col. A. J. Brooks (PC — Royal) and Lt.-Col. Arthur Ross (PC — Souris) urged the government to decentralize the war production industry as a military precaution and distribute some of it to the Maritime and the Western provinces.

Mr. Abbott, his tax proposals obviously in mind, said he would reserve until committee of ways and means—where budget resolutions are introduced—any comment "on the financial and economic situation as a whole and the measures which it seems necessary to take."

But, he added later, Canada cannot "escape the real costs involved, we cannot possibly afford in real terms as high standards in living and in business expansion as we had hoped to achieve."

"The government is at present reviewing its plans and programs in all fields."

Calls For Defense Contracts In Maritimes

OTTAWA, Sept. 5 (CP) — Introduction of the Government's big new defence and arms program today brought commonsense calls for a decentralization of the industry that handles the contracts.

Col. A. J. Brooks (PC—Royal) and Lt.-Col. Arthur Ross (PC—Souris), on behalf of their provinces of New Brunswick and Manitoba, recalled that little arms production had taken place in the Maritimes or the west in the recent war.

They argued that it is sound economically and even more logical militarily to prevent too great a centralization of war industry in Ontario and Quebec. The threat of bombing had accentuated this situation.

Col. Brooks said he supported expenditure of the huge sums for defence but members wanted to be sure that the money was properly spent. Isolationism had virtually vanished from Canada under the menace of Communism.

In the last two wars there had been no general equality of sacrifice. But in any new war this equality would have to come all along the line.

Col. Brooks said the Korean war had its benefits in the sense that it had made the west alert and launched vital preparedness moves where it had also shown that the Reds have excellent equipment and that Asiatic troops are good fighters.

The Maritime and western provinces should get some of the hundreds of millions of dollars that was going to be spent on defence contracts. The Maritimes had been neglected in the last war while war contracts were lavished on Ontario and Quebec.

Since then, electric power availability in that seaboard area had increased. Further there was the danger that, bombing offered too great a concentration of the arms industry.

The government should examine such wartime camps as that at Sussex, N. B., and see what use could be made of them.
