LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Scarcity of Game.

Sir,—It is generally admitted that the scarcity of game, especially of partridge, at this present season has been unprecedented in our P. E. I. history. In view of that fact, I hope that our Fish and Game Society will, at the coming season of the House, move in the matter of obtaining a close season of two years at the least for that species of game. If our partridges get a rest of two years, it will be the means of keeping them on the Island for many years; and if they do not, it is only a matter of four or five years when not a single bird will be found in our woods. I do not think any sensible man will oppose the granting of such a respite. Everyone must see how much it is to our advantage.

Another measure that ought to be put through is one to prohibit the snaring of hares on the Island. I do not want to deprive the farmer's children of the small profit they secure from this; but, at the same time, they, by so doing, are ruining all sport for others. The number of hares shot is very small in comparison with those snared, and where the difference between netting trout and snaring rabbits comes in is hard to define. If sleigh-loads of snared hares are allowed to come to market for two more years, that will settle their existence in this country; and I sincerely hope that our sportsmen will protest, and by their united influence succeed in stopping all this poisoning.

Some information as to the method of proceeding in the case would oblige yours truly,

CREEL.

Canadian Lepers.

A STARTLING REPORT FROM TRACADIE BEING LOOKED INTO.

An Ottawa despatch says:—Enquiry at the Agricultural department elicited the information that Dr. Smith, superintendent of the lazaretto at Tracadie, is still having trouble with alleged leprosy cases. The correspondent of the Island Reporter, published at Sydney, C. B., charges Dr. Smith with criminal negligence, and states that well-known victims of the malady are still at large near Englishtown. "All of these except one," according to the Island Reporter, "move about the neighborhood and come in contact with those who are not affected. The affected also make and sell butter to merchants of Englishtown. These merchants, of course, buy the article, and they in their turn either use it themselves or sell it." In reply to this charge Dr. Smith, in an unofficial letter to the department, says that thorough search has been made in the vicinity of Englishtown, with the result that two persons suffering from some cuticular disease were examined, but he did not believe them to be lepers. He says, however, that he has not legal power to compel suspects to submit to an examination, and he cannot therefore pronounce upon cases with absolute certainty, so he will not risk his reputation and his patients' happiness by committing them to the lazaretto for life. In his last report he says: "Instead of leprosy making headway it is steadily disappearing. In the early history of the institution it contained twice the present number of inmates. Here, as elsewhere, segregation is stamping out disease." But the question is whether strict segregation is being effected, and on this point Dr. Smith complains that the law does not give him sufficient power, and urges that the act be amended. This is likely to come up at the next session of parliament.

After Forty Years.

FATHER AND DAUGHTER RE-UNITED AND SEPARATED AGAIN IN A FEW HOURS.

A remarkable story lies behind the "personal" which appeared in a Brooklyn, N. Y., paper on Wednesday, and which requests the appearance of William Bennett, "who was looking for his daughter Sarah for 20 years and found her." It is the tale of a long separated father and daughter who after many years were reunited, only to be separated again in a few hours by his disappearance. The daughter now advertises. In 1819 the father left for the gold fields of California, leaving his wife and daughter behind. Ten years passed and he was not heard from. The wife died when the girl was 10 years old. James Newcombe, a prominent member of the Norfolk street (New York) church, adopted her. His grandson, now living at 891 Gates Avenue, tells the following story:—"Four weeks ago a cousin of mine in New York was visited by a young woman calling herself Miss Terry, who said she knew Miss Bennett's father. She was willing, she said, to pay $200 for his daughter's address. The daughter is now married, and I prefer not to tell her name. The address was given and the couple met, Miss Bennett giving undeniable evidence that she was the daughter. The parting was an affectionate one, and the father agreed to return the next Sunday. Three weeks passed and nothing has been heard of him. Hence I inserted the advertisement. The daughter is almost prostrated with grief and fears that some one is restraining her father from coming to live with her."

HOPE FOR CONSUMPTIVES.—A Berlin despatch says: Prof. Hahn has opened the side of a consumptive patient who had been under treatment by the Koch method, and removed from a deep cavity in one of his lungs some necrotic tissue. The case was one of long standing, but, notwithstanding, the operation was a success. This is the fourth instance on record of such an operation being performed with favorable results.

Patients inoculated with the Koch lymph in Toronto are doing well. Second injections were made on the 7th. The doctors are satisfied with all the symptoms which have so far resulted from the treatment. They expect shortly to receive a further supply of lymph.

Letter From Rev. E. Chappelle.

THE LAUNCHING OF THE SHIP.

As I write, the heavy cannon are thundering forth a feu de joie, and between the booming of the guns, I hear the music of the band. It all says, "The Emperor has just opened Japan's first parliament."

"Then the Master,
"With a gesture of command,
"Waved his hand;""
"And see! she stirs!"
"She starts,—she moves,—she seems to feel!"
"The thrill of life along her keel,
"And spurning with her foot the ground,
"With one exulting joyous bound,
"She leaps into the ocean's arms."

Few, if any, events in Japan's history, have been more epochal than that which has just happened. It is scarce less than a miracle of history that, in twenty short years, Japan should have advanced from isolation and feudalism to representative government.

The contrast may be illustrated by a ceremony which took place in Tokyo a few days since. In November, 1840, a Mr. Watanabe, an artist, who had chanced to see some foreign pictures, been charmed with them, and in some mild way incorporated some of their features into his own work, was for this crime against the nation, sentenced to commit seppuku, and faithful samurai that he was, obeyed unflinchingly his lord's command. On the fiftieth anniversary of his death, Mr. Suruki, a wealthy oil merchant of Tokyo, had at one of the temples religious rites and an exhibition of the artist's work, and had, in the meantime, erected over his grave an immense slab bearing these words: "Disloyal unfaithful Watanabe." To pass from such a condition of society, when almost to look at anything foreign meant death, to the event of to-day might well have taken centuries.

Christian missionaries find in the personelle of the legislature much that indicates the working of the Gospel leaven. Of the forty millions of Japanese, one in a thousand is a Christian; of the three hundred members of the House of Representatives, one in twenty-two is a Christian. Further, of these fourteen, three were nominated for high positions, and (special cause for rejoicing), one Mr. Nakasubita, has been elected to the highest office in his gift, the presidency. This shows that while, in Japan, the Gospel does reach the poor and ignorant, it does not reach them only; also, that there is not among this people, a strong feeling against Christianity; and it also reminds us of the edict that until lately might be read upon the highways: "As long as the sun shines and water runs, should any Christian or the Christian's God dare to set foot in Japan, he will pay for it with his life."

The ship is launched, but what shall its future be? When this question is asked, some shake their heads ominously. But we do not fear.

"In spite of rock and tempest's roar,
"In spite of false lights on the shore,
"Sail on, nor fear to breast the sea!"
"Our hearts, our hopes, our prayers, our tears,
"Our faith triumphant o'er our fears,
"Are all with thee,—are all with thee."
Aoyama, Tokyo, 29th November, 1890.

Holidays in the Schools.

A meeting of ratepayers of Alberry Plains and Vernon River was held in the Alberry Plains school house on the 7th inst., to take into consideration the changes that have been made by the Board of Education regarding the holidays in country schools.

Mr. Martin Hynes was appointed chairman and the undersigned secretary.

After a few remarks from different speakers opposing midsummer vacations, the following resolution was moved by Thomas P. Richards, Esq., of Alberry Plains, and seconded by James McDonald, Esq., Vernon River, and unanimously adopted:

"Whereas, the chief superintendent of Education has issued circulars changing the vacations in country schools; and
"Whereas, the said changes would deprive the children of farmers of at least six weeks education in the year, thereby causing a deficiency in the average of scholars, which would result in an increase of taxation,—
"Therefore resolved, that this meeting disapprove of the action of the Board of Education in making these unnecessary changes without the consent of the people; and

Further resolved, that this meeting ask other districts to express their opinions through the press.

Moved and seconded that the report of this meeting be sent to THE EXAMINER to publish, with the request that the Patriot and Herald publish copy.
