Anniversary Services At Trinity United

The Very Rev. C. M. Nicholson, Principal of Fine Hill Divinity College and immediate past Moderator of the United Church of Canada was the guest preacher at Trinity yesterday as they observed the 90th anniversary of the Church. Large congregations were present at both the morning and evening services which were conducted by the minister, Rev. A. Frank MacLean. The choir was under direction of Mr. George Thompson, F. R. C. O. (ChM), A.R.C.M. Anthems rendered were "O How Amiable" and "Glorious is Thy Name."

The widely travelled ex-moderator of the church, in the morning, spoke of the influence of the Christian culture on civilization throughout the centuries since the birth of Christ. In the evening Rev. Dr. Nicholson referred to Christian people as the colonists of Heaven and pointed out that just as it was important to the early immigrants, to retain the characteristics and individuality of their homeland, so it is necessary for Christians as colonists of heaven to show evidence of our being part of our Father's Kingdom.

Dr. Nicholson issued a stirring challenge to young people to take a stand for that which was good and decent and honorable. He was of the opinion that the youth of the country were living in far more difficult times than was the case in his own adolescence. The tendency "to go native" constantly presents a temptation to our young people; however, if they are mindful of their Christian heritage this temptation can be more easily met. "It doesn't take brains or intelligence to enter into the so called popular amusements of the day with their accompanying excesses of drunkenness and debased morals," said Dr. Nicholson. "We must ever realize that we are children of a heavenly kingdom, and as such, our standards must be kept on a high level."

Explanations

Continued from page 1 the prisoners' bodies and souls. It was an overwhelming vindication for the United Nations leaders. For two long years they had been working to give these prisoners, victims of Communist wars, the right to choose their future.

When the armistice talks opened near Kaesong in July, 1951, the Allies were determined to protect men from a return to Communism against their will. By April 1952 all major armistice issues had been settled except the exchange of prisoners.

It was known that some Chinese and North Korean prisoners were anti-Red but it was thought that they were only a very small minority. In a secret session, the Allies gave the Reds this impression. The communists believed it.

Riots In Camps

This astonishing but understandable error led directly to weeks of bloody rioting and to another year of war. For when the Allies started to screen the great prison compounds on Koje island two things happened.

It was found that 40 per cent Chinese and North Korean prisoners not only rejected Communism but said they would fight to the death against repatriation. Communist leaders, where they could, threw their compounds into bloody riots to stop the all-revealing screening.

IN MEMORIAM

She has gone to be with her Saviour The one who loves her best, Where all who believe in Jesus Shall have eternal rest. Her memory will be our keepsake From it we will never part, God has her in His keeping, We have her in our hearts.

Strawberries Picked On Bunbury Farm

Why go to Florida for the winter when the Island can produce clusters of strawberries in mid-November? Yesterday, while gathering apples, Mr. Alfred MacKay, caretaker of the milk ranch on the Bunbury farm of Senator J. Walter Jones, noticed berries below him.

He found that the long patch which had been cut down at the end of the season was liberally covered with a sound second growth of berries. He believes that it would only require a few days of sunshine to permit the picking of many boxes. As proof of his contention he brought to The Guardian a liberal supply of large well-formed strawberries which are normally not considered an Island autumn crop.
