

THOSE FARAWAY places draw the attention of visitors at the exhibition of international posters, currently displayed in the Montgomery Hall common room. Seen at the "architecture" section of the display are Miss Marie Lee, Adelaide Mackenzie, Mrs. Edward A. Lee, Attleboro, and Miss Betty Smith, Charlotte.

The display will remain open to the public until the end of August.

Society Hopes Posters Will Spark Art Interest

By NANCY WHITE

"Do you like modern art?" Art Society member asked the visitor.

"Yes I do," was the answer. "Well take a look at this poster," said the speaker, covering up the caption with her hand and smiling.

"What do you think it is supposed to be?"

The subject in question was an abstract looking painting done mainly in sand, black and golden colors. After a few moments deliberation the visitor declared that it looked vaguely like a ball, and was indeed modernistically done.

The lady showing the poster removed her hand from the caption. "It is," she said. "Prestigious cave paintings at Lascaux-Montignac—about 20,000 B.C."

This fascinating poster is only one of over 250 international posters currently being displayed in the Common Room at Montgomery Hall by the Charlotte Art Society.

The exhibit, shown free of charge to the public, will remain open until the end of this month.

"INSTANT ART" was how one Art Society member described the colorful poster display. The posters are, for the most part, easy to understand at a glance, but definitely worth a second look.

They come from over 40 countries and, although mainly travelers' posters, include posters advertising plays, museums, parks and, of all things, poster exhibits.

Some are definitely off-beat, and some are arresting, for the function of a poster is to catch the eye and the interest of the onlooker. Basically an advertising medium, they are bright, and usually of a simple design.

The Art Society received the Adventurous Cyclist Dies In Accident

"It's not really as difficult as everyone thinks," said Don Scott, 36, of Scarborough, as he rode his bicycle trip from Quebec City to P.E.I.

Don, 16-year-old grade 10 student, arrived on the Island on July 18, after ten days on the road.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Scott—Mrs. Scott is the former Helen Colwell of Charlottetown—has been making a name for himself as a bicycle rider. He had just completed a 60-mile a day, 20-mile average maximum of 20 miles a day, the hottest day in his trip. With temperatures in the 80's, he drove from wearing dark pants and a dark sweater to wearing a light sweater the day before.

TWO MUCH EQUIPMENT

He found that his 40-lb. pounds of equipment, which he stored mostly inside packs in his bike, was too heavy for him to carry. He had to take a trip "if I ever do it again, I'll take a lot less stuff," he commented.

Don has never made this type of a trip before. He decided to come to the Island just for something to do, after some summer job plans fell through five weeks ago.

Wife Recommends Seat Belts In All Cars

Charlotte and Queens County The Guardian, Charlottetown, Wed. Aug. 7, 1963. 5

Death as a result of head injury suffered in a motor accident at Marshfield on July 29 was the verdict of a coroner's jury and the wife of the injured man, Mrs. Myrtle Ann Zehr, Suffolk. The inquest was held in the presence of the coroner and Chief Coroner Dr. L.E. Prowse presiding.

The jury in its verdict "recommends the use of seat belts by the public in Halifax, Nova Scotia."

First witness called was Dr. A.L. Saunders who told of the death of the woman in a hospital. He said he had seen her in the P.E.I. Hospital. He said he immediately was informed of the death of a neurosurgeon in Halifax and arrangements were made to fly the patient to Halifax, however, she died in the ambulance en route to the airport here.

He stated she had sustained multiple fractures of the skull and in his opinion she would have died if she had not worn the principal cause of death.

Asked by Coroner Prowse if he thought the woman had prevented this type of accident he said it was debatable. A seat belt might have retained the victim in the car but she could still have suffered fatal injury on P.E.I. where seat belts were used, he concluded.

Members of the jury were: William Ellis, foreman; Ken Jenkins, Leonard Munroe, Lester W. MacPhail, George MacPhail, Clarence MacPhail and George Larter.

Costs Surveyed For Park Project

Preliminary steps are being taken for the erection of a new park water front, it was revealed by Mayor A. Walden Gaudet yesterday.

Specifications are being prepared by City Engineer Norman Stewart preparatory to the calling for tenders. Once the approximate cost of the project is determined, municipal authorities will then approach the provincial government to discuss joint participation, the Mayor said.

"About two years ago, on the occasion of the last official meeting between the two governing bodies, the subject was brought up on an agenda, which included several other matters of municipal concern. I would share cost."

At that time the civic group was assured there would be no objection to the government sharing in the cost of the vitally necessary work. However, the matter was left in abeyance pending the result of attempts to persuade the federal government to share in the cost.

Recently Ottawa authorities disclaimed all responsibility for the park, despite the fact it immediately joins the grounds on which is located the official residence of the Ottawa-appointed lieutenant governor.

Until the next meeting between provincial and municipal

Big Wrestler Draws Crowd In Newsroom

It takes a lot of turn heads and a 400-pound wrestler from Sherbrooke, Que., to draw a crowd of people vander in at all hours in various errands.

But in the Guardian office yesterday afternoon, not only did heads turn, but a crowd gathered within minutes when a 400-pound wrestler from Sherbrooke, Que., climbed the stairs, strolled across the room, and asked to see the room.

His personal appearance almost defied description, but take a rolled up caterpillar and multiply it by a million and you have it.

Called as "The Strongest Man in the World", the Great Antonino was on his way to Newfoundland, and had dropped in to pay his respects.

He died yesterday in St. Margaret's Hospital, Antigonish.

The wrestler is survived by two sons, Reid, who is marketing director for Prince Edward Island, and a daughter, Mrs. N.S. Her husband predeceased her.

The funeral will take place today at 2:30 p.m. in Our Lady's cemetery, New Harbor.

Happy Eighty Birthday Plans Annual Reunion

Veteran members of the 8th Canadian Siege Battery, the "Happy 8th," of First World War fame, will hold their annual reunion Saturday at Shore Acres Motel, situated on the West River.

The secretary-treasurer of the battery, A.E.B. Murphy, M.C. said yesterday "veterans of the 8th from as far away as Vancouver are arriving for the reunion."

Of the 71 surviving members of the battery, 32 are living in this province.

Mr. Murphy said the veterans will assemble at the Armories at 2 p.m. and march to the Cenotaph on Grafton Street. Mr. Murphy will lay a wreath "in memory of our never-forgotten departed comrades."

The group will then travel by car to West River for its business meeting and banquet.

Mr. Murphy said the group "had an enviable record in France, having taken part in all major engagements on the Western Front in 1917 and 1918, and was commended on several occasions for its efficiency and was mentioned in despatches on several occasions."

The expert of corps in the unit was so noticeable by the British in other batteries of the Canadian (11) Army Corps that we became known as "the happy 8th."

Mr. Murphy is one of the 21 surviving officers of the unit.

Incidentally, his mark in Algebra was 100 per cent. He did not know how to do the rickrack up marks in the high 80s and 90s.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jay, 308 Filarete Street, Charlottetown, who was a student at Queen Charlotte High for the past two years.

NO NOVELTY

Donald said this morning that he had expected to make approximately these marks, but did not know how he stood in relation with the other students.

High marks are no novelty to him, as he has been a superior student since beginning school at Queen Charlotte High this past term he received

Bicyclist Hurt By 'Hit & Run'

A hit-and-run driver who knocked down 16-year-old Derek Burden, Lewis' Point, Saturday night on North River Road took time out to drive his victim home before driving off.

Derek was dumped on his front in a ditch and managed to crawl into the house. His father immediately rushed him to hospital for observation. He was, fortunately, not seriously injured.

The accident occurred about 11:40 p.m.

Police are currently investigating the accident, and ask that any eye-witnesses let them know what they saw.
