MARY HAWORTH

Wife's Task Frustrating, Boring And Thankless

Dear Mary Haworth: If it is permissible for me to write to speak through your column, I take issue with your reply to TS, the young housewife and mother concerned about her husband's daily tennis playing habits, concerning only what he considers suitable pastimes for himself.

TS, who is not a tennis player, is feeling that it is the spouse, not the husband, who is responsible for the maintenance of the household.
