DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

Summary of Proceedings.

OTTAWA, Feb. 6. In the Commons to-day Mr. Clark, of Wallace, introduced his bill for the suppression of combinations in trade. It aims, he stated, at prohibiting the granting of exclusive privileges to any one person, while denying to any person privileges granted to some. The punishment provided for is fine or imprisonment, or both. Trade unions will not be interfered with.

Sir John Thompson, in reply to Mr. Edgar, said it was not the present intention of the Government to make any alteration in the Railway Act, consequent on the Supreme Court's decision on the Manitoba crossings case.

Mr. Landerkin's motion for a return showing the cost of the issue of the Budget Speech for each year since 1880, was, at the suggestion of Hon. Mr. Foster, amended to cover the whole period since 1869, and so altered passed.

Mr. McMullen moved for copies of all inspection reports made by the Homestead Inspector in Manitoba and the Northwest Territories from 1st January, 1887, to 1st January, 1889.

In reply, Hon. Edgar Dewdney said the cost of preparing such returns would be about $7,000.

Mr. Laurier thereupon asked that the motion stand over.

In moving for papers relative to the dismissal of Hon. Wm. Ross, collector of customs at Halifax, Mr. Laurier said it seemed to him that Mr. Ross had been dismissed simply for an act of courtesy to an American vessel, and if so, the action of the Government invited the closest scrutiny of the House.

Sir John Macdonald then arose to make the explanation asked for by Mr. Laurier concerning changes in the Cabinet since last session. It was thought advisable, he said, that Sir Charles Tupper, Minister of Finance, should return to the post of High Commissioner in London, and, therefore, Hon. Mr. Foster had been made Finance Minister in his stead. C. H. Tupper was made Minister of Marine and Fisheries in the place of Hon. Mr. Foster. Then in place of Hon. A. W. McLean, appointed Lieut.-Governor of Nova Scotia, Mr. John Haggart became Postmaster General, and Mr. Edgar Dewdney was appointed Minister of the Interior in place of the late lamented Mr. White.

Mr. Laurier said no one could complain of the explanation, or rather recitation of the first minister. It was delusive, and if anyone had not failed to read the Canada Gazette or the public newspapers during the past six months, he could not longer be ignorant that the changes had taken place. But it seemed to him that the occurrence should have invited some comment from the first minister. He declined to tender his congratulations to the Minister of Finance. He was only a young man in the House, but his promotion had been rapid. He sincerely wished for this new officer that he would find strength, courage and patience to resist the applications of the friends of the N. P. who, ever dissatisfied with it, were like Oliver Twist continually asking for more. As for the new Postmaster-General, from his record in the House, he had no doubt he would be an efficient head for the Department. The new Minister of Marine and Fisheries was a young man, which was an advantage. He was ambitious, which was not out of place, and had a great possibility of making himself useful to his country. He advised him to cultivate the art of kindness and gentleness in the administration of the fisheries trouble, rather than harshness or cruel treatment. As to the Minister of the Interior, he was sorry to say that in the discharge of his public duty as leader of the Opposition he could not let his appointment pass without severe censure. To the gentlemen, personally, he had no objections, but remembering the history of affairs in which he had taken a prominent part, he thought the appointment could not but be viewed with alarm.

Sir John Macdonald, on rising to reply, opened with a reference to the character of Dickens, in whose conversation the head of Charles the First constantly appeared. Similarly the leader of the Opposition could not forget that he had sympathized with the battles of the Saskatchewan, and sympathized more warmly than loyally. The address just delivered was an undeserved attack on a man every way his equal, and whom, in some respects, he (Sir John) would not compare with the man who had made this attack upon him. He declared that Hon. Mr. Dewdney had nothing more to do with the rebellion than had Mr. Laurier himself. Sir John concluded with the statement that there had been in some quarters a feeling of dissatisfaction that no western man had an office in the Ministry, and the fact that Mr. Dewdney would represent a North-west constituency and thus aid in giving cabinet representation to every part of the Dominion was an additional reason for his appointment.

Sir Richard Cartwright followed up Mr. Laurier's attack. Hon. Peter Mitchell wound up the debate. He said he thought Mr. Laurier had made a mistake in putting so much blame on the Minister of the Interior, because his appointment as minister was a just reward for his services. The House adjourned at 5 o'clock.

The Mail Contract Renewed. OTTAWA, Feb. 6. The Government has decided to renew the contract with the P. E. Island Steam Navigation Co., for carrying mails between the Island and the mainland, at $4,000 per year.

A Reward Offered. QUEBEC, Feb. 6. The local government has just issued a proclamation offering $3,000 for the arrest of Morrison, the Megantic murderer and outlaw.

THE CARNIVAL.—Skaters will please take notice that it is not compulsory to appear masked this evening, as intimated in yesterday's issue.

The Grand Bouspiel.

HALIFAX, Feb. 6. A heavy easterly rain storm prevailed to-day. The weather is still exceedingly mild, so that no ice formed on the rink, to the great disgust of one hundred visiting curlers to take part in the great bouspiel. At a meeting this afternoon it was agreed that if it does not freeze to-night and there is no ice at seven to-morrow morning, the curlers would be declared off and the bouspiel would take the first train home, in which case the respective clubs of each Province will play off and the winning clubs of each Province will compete for the cup. If it freezes to-night, one series of games will be played to-morrow, and the bouspiel will probably end in that case by the winning clubs playing for the cup.

The Montreal Carnival.

MONTREAL, Feb. 6. A tremendous snow storm to-day put a cold damper on carnival proceedings. However, the bombardment and capture of the ice castles by 400 brilliantly uniformed snowshoosers, who led the march down from Mount Royal, was a splendid sight. The vast multitude of visitors from Ontario and the States admit it was worth a three days' journey to see. To-morrow the great fancy drive will take place. It will undoubtedly be the greatest thing of the kind ever witnessed on this continent.

The Gaspé Railway Line.

QUEBEC, Feb. 6. The Gaspé line railway bill forming the last link in the Northern Pacific's alleged outlet through Canada to the Atlantic, passed the Railway Committee this morning, with an amendment providing that ten miles of the road be built in two, and the remainder within eight years. Ex-Premier Ross has gone home seriously ill, and his friends express grave doubts of his recovery.
