He complimented Mr. Harold Messervy, City Engineer, for his efforts in making grass grow in front of the post office.

ALLEGED

School Board because of their intimate understanding of children. The women of this city have given proof of their ability to deal with educational matters in an intelligent and constructive way and have shown their eagerness to work tirelessly for any educational improvement.

"As voting citizens, we protest your action in this matter, and urge adequate representation on the Board in the future."

"Respectfully submitted."

Supporting the delegation at the meeting were Mrs. H. Bohaker, Mrs. J. A. Lawson, Mrs. R.R. Hursi and Mrs. W. Scantlebury.

School Improvement League did not have an opportunity to present any other woman's name before the Council, and they wanted some assurance that there would always be two women on the School Board.

The question in their minds was nothing against Dr. Carson's appointment.

Mrs. Scantlebury stated that there had always been cooperation between the Council and League and that they must continue to pull together.

Mayor MacDonald: "What about other cities? Have they women on their school boards?"

Chorus: "Yes."

Mrs. Scantlebury: "They even have Mayors." (Laughter).

Mayor MacDonald: "Should Mr. Mathieson's re-appointment be considered at length?"

Mrs. Hursi: "Yes, yes, I think it is most important. I do not wish to be critical but Mrs. MacDonald should have received acknowledgment from the Council when she left the board."

Mayor MacDonald: "I do not think that the women should think that the Council is against them. Two years ago we made it possible for the women to have a voice in civic affairs and we always say the nicest things about the women we have dealt with."

Mrs. Scantlebury: "The women did not come here to criticize the Council. We appreciate very much what has been done by the Council."

Coun. Beaton: "Do you want the Councilors to tell in public their reasons for not appointing Mrs. MacDonald?"

Mrs. Scantlebury: "No, I think the problem is outside. Someone in the Council is a little unwise. They think they have the majority of the people behind them. They have not us behind them. Applicants for position on the Board should be considered for election at the meeting previous to the one on which the actual voting took place."

Coun. O'Donnell stated the whole question revolved over the appointment of one Catholic woman to the School Board and that they had wasted an hour "beating the bush."

Mrs. Scantlebury: "We feel that there should be a Catholic woman on the Board."

Mayor MacDonald: "If we give the Catholics a woman on the Board next year there will be three Catholics and two Protestants on the part of the Board appointed by the City Council." He advised the women to go to the Mayor and find out if they would consider appointing a woman on the Board as one member.

Dr. G. D. MacGuigan, was reported to be retiring in the near future.

Coun. Johnstone in reply to discrimination charges by Mrs. Scantlebury stated that he had voted against the re-appointment of Mrs. Lantz last year but not because she was a woman. "There were six Protestants and three Catholics on the Board and Coun. O'Donnell suggested that it should be more even. He submitted the name of a Catholic woman and a voted against Mrs. Lantz."

Lady's voice: "At a second meeting Dr. Carson's name was brought in."

Coun. Johnstone: "I agree with the ladies there should be two women out of the nine members on the Board."

Mayor MacDonald: "The City has five members, three Protestants and two Catholics."

Coun. Johnstone: "I am interested in the Board as a whole."

Mayor MacDonald: "I do not think you have anything to do with it."

Coun. Johnstone objected to appointing the members in such a rapid manner and stated that the Council could not properly handle a month's business in one hour.

CELEBRATES

will gather at St. Peter's Bay to celebrate this rare event in Island history.

Only once before has an Island priest celebrated his Diamond Jubilee while on active service in the priestly ministry. The celebrant was Father Douglas MacKinnon of Tignish in 1923.

Monsignor MacAulay has been pastor of his native parish for the past thirty seven years. There he received his early education after which he attended the University of Ottawa and St. Dunstan's University.

At St. Dunstan's he was the first editor of the Collegium. He introduced English rugby to the campus and only once in sixty-four years has he missed the closing exercises at the College. Today at 87 he is the oldest priest-alumnus.

After the completion of a three year course in Theology at the Grand Seminary in Quebec, he was ordained in Montreal. Returning to the Island he became secretary to the late Bishop MacIntyre and was pastor in Morell and Hope River before being appointed to St. Peter's Bay.

Joining with Monsignor MacAulay in the celebration of his Diamond Jubilee are Most Rev. James Boyle, D.D. of Charlottetown, who will celebrate the Pontifical Mass, Most Rev. Joseph O'Sullivan, Archbishop of Kingston, Ont., formerly Bishop of Charlottetown, who will preach the sermon, and Most Rev. John R. MacDonald, Bishop of Antigonish.

Monsignor MacAulay has always been a brilliant scholar, interested chiefly in theology, literature and history. His reverence for olden times and olden heroes has given him a sense of historical values which is possessed by few in modern times.

His description of early 19th century Prince Edward Island is fascinating and today at 87 years of age he can recall the people and events of his youth as though they were of yesterday.

The Guardian joins in the congratulatory and best wishes of his host of friends and admirers to Monsignor MacAulay on this occasion.

Business Spotlight

By Forbes Rhude Canadian Press Business Editor

The richest country in the world operates at a loss as its Federal government is concerned and this is one thing which causes concern in the current generally cheerless economic picture.

In the fiscal year ending June 30 the United States Government spent $100,000,000 more than it took in. The only bright spot about this deficit is that it was $2,300,000,000 less than had been forecast.

The United States can carry a deficit like this for a while, but long-range observers wonder where it will end.

Some see it as leading one day to a weakening of the world position of the American dollar and the possibility of a run from it, say, the pound sterling.

Whatever the Government's ledger says, the United States still is and is likely to remain for a long time the world's most powerful producer of goods and so long as this is so her money is likely to remain attractive.

Probably she now is carrying too much of the financial burden of the Western World, and as other countries improve their position there may be some easement for big republic.

Nevertheless, her deficit financing is a matter for long-range concern which is not the best position for which to enter a war if one should come because wartime costs would add to the deficits.

It would seem inevitable that the American economy would emerge from a war considerably changed from what it now is—quite possibly an Americanized version of a socialist state.

In this continent and the Western World are faced with any such changes, perhaps we may be grateful for the very considerable experimentation that has gone on in the last few years.

For it would seem that the big problem of the Western World is not social, economic and political development will be to retain the best of what we now have in the new systems which may have to be developed. This will require a lot of good thinking.
