Atlantic Area Seen Leaning On Defence

HALIFAX (CP) — The economies of the Atlantic Provinces have become too heavily dependent on defence spending although such spending has proved valuable to date, the Atlantic Provinces Economical Council said Tuesday.

The comment was contained in a statement released by APEC, along with a pamphlet it has prepared which outlines the effect of defence department investment in the region.

"The council warns that government defence expenditures tend to be variable. The region should broaden its manufacturing base in order to expand job opportunities and reduce dependency on military spending," the statement said.

The Atlantic region is more dependent on this type of investment than other parts of Canada, the council claimed.

"In fact, defence activities in this region represent one of the largest single sources of employment and income."

However, the pamphlet said it had been estimated that "for every job in direct civilian or military defence employment, one other job is created in local industries." The council said too few people realize the effect of this type of investment.

"APEC... repeats its recommendation that a development program be aggressively pursued to accelerate the growth of secondary manufacturing."

Special Events Brighten Tignish Christmas Season

TIGNISH — A happy time made bright by the spirit of giving, family reunions, the joyous excitement of children on Christmas morning and members of families worshipping together in their churches were all part of Christmas in Tignish.

At St. Simon and St. Jude Church, High Mass at midnight was celebrated by Very Rev. M.J. Rooney, assisted by Rev. Leigh Gillis. Prior to midnight mass the mixed choir under the direction of Rev. Francois Tardif sang Christmas carols. Musical director was Henri Gaudet.

Christmas for sick and shut-ins were brightened as they were remembered with friendly visits and treats from neighbors, church groups, family and friends.

The Tignish Royal Canadian Legion Branch No. 6 and the Ladies Auxiliary of the Legion made Christmas a happy day for 20 not so fortunate families, as they were given a Christmas dinner with all its trimmings that go to make a happy day. Pupils of the Tignish Regional High School, Catholic Women's League and social welfare added to a happy Christmas for many a needy family in the community who suffered accidents and sickness prior to Christmas day.

WAR CABINET

There was no indication how long the bombing break may last. A five-day moratorium last May was denounced by Hanoi as a deception after the attacks were resumed.

It was learned that the U.S. Strategic Air Command also has kept its Guam-based jet bombers out of the post-Christmas warfare in South Viet Nam.

Acting White House press secretary Joseph Laitin told reporters in Austin, Texas—President Johnson now is at his Texas ranch—he understands the announcement was directed at the South Vietnamese government which is studying it. He said the United States is not involved. There was no immediate reaction from American or South Vietnamese officials here.

Standard Wage Covers Ontario

TORONTO (CP) — Standard minimum wage rates of $1.25 an hour for construction workers and $1 an hour for men and women in general industry, hotels and restaurants became effective in all parts of Ontario Monday.

The minimum rates were established in the Toronto-Hamilton-Oshawa area in June, 1963 and since then had been applied gradually by regions throughout the province. The final area covered was the Northern Ontario region.

The rates, under the Ontario Minimum Wage Act, cover all employees in a business, trade or work. Exceptions are apprentices, professional people, camp counsellors for children, servants in private residences, farm help, teachers and janitors, who are not covered by the legislation.

The Canadian Press reported erroneously Sunday that these excepted categories were covered by the legislation.

BREAKOFF

Contributions to the CPR private plan should be set at 4.42 per cent on earnings up to $5,000, instead of the company's planned 3.6 per cent assessment.

On salary above $5,000, the company's plan for a six-per-cent assessment was acceptable.

Benefits on earnings in excess of $5,000 should continue at 1 1/4 per cent for each year of service, as in the company proposal.

"But on earnings of $5,000 or less, benefits should be increased from .75 per cent, as set out in the company proposal to a level commensurate with the ability of the (CPR) pension fund to pay."

The unions also want deletion from the company plan "any and all reference to automatic adjustment of the CPR plan."

"Such adjustment, designed to offset possible future changes in the government plan, might involve a cutting of the private-pension payments and benefits, in the event of an increase in the government - plan premiums," said Mr. Clark.

The unions also object to a company proposal to eliminate participation in the private plan as essential to employment with the company.

Mr. Clark said, "If pension-plan participation is abandoned as a condition of employment, there can be no sound pension plan."

The unions also want negotiation on "a thorough actuarial study" to be undertaken within one year of a new plan's adoption "to determine the benefits that could reasonably be obtained from the then-existing contributions."

Another union request is for a pension plan committee "composed of an equal number of company and union representatives."

"In the event the committee fails to agree on any issue, it shall be arbitrated," the union proposes.

Paved highways and secondary roads were all open to motor traffic yesterday after being blocked in spots by snow from Sunday and Monday's storm.
