32-Hour Wait On Pier Is Found Mighty Long

A group of weary travellers arrived at Borden Monday night after a long wait-32 hours to be exact - on the pier at Cape Tormentine, N.B. for the ferry Abegweit.

A well known Charlottetown organist and music teacher, Royston F. Mugford, travelled to Tatamagouche, N.S., last Friday and was caught in the surprise storm. On Saturday he managed to reach Amherst on the return trip and was advised by snowplow dispatchers to remain in the border town overnight rather than attempt to make Cape Tormentine.

On Sunday morning, in company with several other cars bound for the Island, he left for Cape Tormentine and arrived there about 10 a.m. only to find that the "Abbie" was laid up in Borden.

Then began the long wait and the more gruelling part of the trip. Mr. Mugford said there were between 50 and 60 persons in the waiting room on the pier at Tormentine, many of them trying to sleep on the hard benches or on the floor. Four or five young children were included in the group.

"The temperature in the waiting room must have been near 90 degrees, and if anyone opened a window the draft was too much for those near the windows.

"Many sat up all night and played cards to while away the time, but the smoked-filled atmosphere was too much for many of those trying to sleep.

"Others, like myself sat in their cars much of the time.

SANDWICHES HELP

"Some people in Cape Tormentine, knowing that those waiting for the ferry would be hungry, sold sandwiches in the waiting room and to those in the cars waiting in the lineup. I don't know if it was legal for them to do so or not, but those waiting were certainly grateful.

"The driver of an SMT bus telephoned his office and got permission to ferry those waiting back and forth in vehicles to a house in Tormentine where meals were served.

"The proprietors of the house had their hands full looking after everyone. They even had their house full of guests, some of whom had to sleep sitting up in easy chairs, but they were more comfortable than those trying to sleep on the floor at the waiting room on the pier. The Prince of Wales College hockey team managed to stay at this house, I believe.

"Most of those who had been waiting from 24 to 32 hours managed to get on the Abegweit when she docked about 5 p.m. Sunday. The ferry sailed at 6.20 and arrived in Borden about two and a half hours later.

"The road from Borden to Charlottetown was excellent in comparison to the highways in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. I'm convinced the ferry crew was doing everything possible to maintain the service, but the long wait just shows how badly Prince Edward Island needs a causeway or perhaps more important, a big, new ferry like the Abegweit!"

No Extension In License Plate Date

It appears that no extension of the March 31 deadline for motorists to get their 1962 driving licenses and registration plates will be granted this year.

Provincial Secretary J. David Stewart said yesterday that licenses and registrations are coming in "very well" with a higher proportion of persons registering to date than there did last year. "It looks as if there will be no need to extend the deadline," he said.

In former years, the deadline was extended by the government's executive council, mainly due to poor travelling conditions which prevented many motorists from registering before the March 31 deadline.

Building Regulations Discussed

ALBERTON — Director of town planning Claude Smith addressed a special meeting of Alberton Town Council last night. The regulations contained in the Town Planning Act were thoroughly discussed with particular reference to building laws. A number of the regulations are to be adopted into the town by-laws.

Infractions of the town planning regulations can result in a fine of $100 for a first offense, $200 for second offense and $20 per day as long as the offense continues, it was stated.

In motion, negotiations are to be opened with Crown Assets Corporation for the purchase of the old post office property.

Mayor Roy Leard presided and Councillors Hardy, Gordon and Rix were present.
