LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

The Organ and the Grits as others See Them.

Sir,—The Patriot has long ago established the reputation of being one of the most faultfinding and personally abusive papers in the Dominion; and under its present management, I regret to say, it still continues unchanged—in this regard at least. In detraction, in coarseness of language, and in gross misrepresentation, its present editor seems determined to keep up its record. In the absence of the chief, special efforts are doubtless necessary. It is, therefore, not at all surprising that after laboring hard all last week to vilify his opponents, a slight reaction has taken place, which has left him somewhat dull and stupid for the last day or two. There may be other causes for his present depression of spirits. As a true Grit, he no doubt occasionally contemplates the suborn fact that his friends are "out" and the Conservatives are "in," where, in all human probability, they will respectively remain for many years to come. But while I can readily account for their gloomy outlook, I cannot understand how Grits expect to benefit politically by simply abusing their opponents. They must surely see by this time that misrepresentation and abuse will never again bring them into power. Nevertheless, these two leading Grit characteristics continue to constitute their chief stock in trade. The local organ takes the lead in this regard. In its last weekly edition I find scarcely anything but abuse and misrepresentation. Our Conservative members are represented as being "political tricksters," "sycophants," "inbucibles," "unqualified to represent the people," etc., etc. And after indulging in this strain until apparently exhausting his vocabulary of offensive epithets, the writer for the Patriot has the cheek to tell THE EXAMINER that except less is said about Mr. L. H. Davies in the future, the Conservative members may expect to suffer grief by way of retaliation. Threatenings of this sort will not, I hope, prevent THE EXAMINER from doing its duty. Mr.
Davies is a public man, and I think THE EXAMINER should claim the right to criticise his actions whenever it sees fit to do so.
As for Messrs. Brecken, Hackett and Mc-Donald, I think their characters will bear comparison any day with the three great Grit luminaries—Messrs. Yeo, McIntyre and Davies.

Grits profess to have a very high opinion of themselves. One unacquainted with their political history might be led to believe that all the ability and all the honesty and all the honor in the Dominion are concentrated in their representatives. To those who know them, however, they appear in their true colors every time. It is not so very long since the Island had five Grits and one Conservative representing its interests in the Dominion Parliament.
With their friends in power, that was the time for the five Grits to distinguish themselves. Did they do so? No, never were more servile followers known. The following pen and ink sketch, which appeared in a leading journal in a neighboring Province, will give some idea of how our representatives at Ottawa rated at that time.
The sketch, it will be seen, is true to life:

"One episode of the debate was the eager-haste with which some of the Prince Edward Islanders rose up to denounce as ridiculous a resolution which they would not pass. Their eagerness was somewhat surprising; at least, the eagerness of five of them. The five Prince Edward Islanders who support the Government are a curious lot. They always speak in Indian file.
But they never speak unless Pope, of Queen's, speaks first; then they all rise up, one after another. Sinclair poses with the air of a hesitating but still unconverted buccaneer; Perry puts on his child-like smile and his thickest brogue, and wags his head; Davies puts his spectacles up on the top of his head, where they shine and glitter most amusingly, as he gives out what he is pleased to call his 'ideas,' but what a cold and cruel world generally calls by quite another name; Mr. McIntyre gets up sheepishly in a corner, and furtively reads a little speech from a little book which he has either written himself or got some one else to write for him—like one other of these interesting people whose letters are so written. They all have a hack at Pope; they all go tilling at Pope; they all have something to say to Pope, and bless you, Pope just smiles a pleasing smile and wonders what dispensation of Providence laid him out to be assaulted by five mosquitoes every day. If Pope did not rise, they would never get on their legs at all.
If Pope did not give them some ideas, they would go on in a state of intellectual pauperism for ever and ever—amen; particularly Mr. Davies, I think. The other four have some rough experience of life, and a cunning which enables them to use it, but Mr. Davies seems to be a sort of gentle and smiling, hopeless and helpless intellectual jelly fish, upright in figure, smart in gait, conscious of great personal charms, and a dignity which must inspire beholders, but quite unconscious of the gentle ripple of fun which his rising in the House causes among the members and in the galleries.
In view of the tendencies of these five Prince Edward Islanders, to get up on their rear legs and roar at Pope, the following epigram has been dropped into the House:—
Six of them.
Six members came up from the little Isle, That is called "right" in familiar style;
And when one member gets up to speak All the others get up and squawk.
If only Heaven in its good grace Would keep Pope quiet in his place, All the rest would be silent too—What a blessing for me and you.
This little squib was handed about till it finally reached Mr. Pope who smiled his usual philosophical smile and pocketed it.
The above description of our representatives at Ottawa, during the last years of McKenzie rule, will assist the organ and some of its Grit members to see themselves as others see them.

VOX POPULI.
An Acknowledgment.

Sir,—Allow me in your columns, to sincerely thank "Resurgam" for his kindly expression of feeling towards myself, in his "Items from Souris," published in your issue of yesterday. I will not be misunderstood when I say, that it is just what I expected from Souris. I hope to spend many a happy day again among the many kind friends I had the honor and pleasure of becoming acquainted with there. Whatever others may say of Souris, and the people of Souris, the kindness, courtesy and hospitality—so welcome to a stranger—always shown to myself, will ever associate them with pleasant memories. Some there are from whom I experienced genuine deeds of kindness and friendship—never to be forgotten—which is a long way towards helping a man "to fight the battles of life." To yourself, Mr. Editor, I also return my warmest thanks for the liberality with which you invariably opened your columns to my correspondence and "Items from Souris."

War Notes.

Sir,—It has been decided by the temperance people of Hunter River to raise the Scott Act banner on the 1st of July, so that during Camp Drill, as heretofore, it will float securely. Hunter River Division will open fire on the enemy, while its flanks will be attacked by the New Glasgow Temperance Alliance, supported by the Wiltshire Battalion. To those contemplating liquor to this village or vicinity this is directed, and it is to be hoped it will suffice. Otherwise the result is inevitable.
A SUBSCRIBER.
Hunter River, June 24, 1884.

Mutual Marriage Association.

The promoters of this matrimonial insurance company have, as most who read their prospectus predicted, come to grief. They have committed numberless frauds, have unwarrantably assessed, and the rottenness of the institution, which has its head quarters in Hamilton, Ont., has been exposed. The Secretary-Treasurer and the Vice-President, who were recently arrested and admitted to bail—3,000 each—were re-arrested on the 20th inst., on a warrant from Framerville.
The Toronto Globe's correspondent says the Toronto Globe's correspondent says the Crown Attorney refuses to allow them to be taken out of Hamilton to Framerville, as they were on bail on similar charges.
Mr. Birney telegraphed to the Brockville law firm who have the case for the victims in that neighborhood, and they answered that the fact of the Webbers (Secretary and Vice-President) being on bail made no difference in the execution of the last warrant. They are wanted in Brighton, but the Brighton officer will probably waive his claim in favor of the other warrant.
In the meantime the Webbers are in gaol, and will probably remain there until the trial on the 27th. They can be kept in Hamilton by declaring their bail off, and committing them to jail till the next hearing in that city. It is supposed that the prisoners with the Belleville victims who had them arrested in the first instance, and Mr. Birney, chief constable of Framerville, says he can easily prove that this is so.
The prisoners certainly received a great deal of money in their business, and they have been known to receive in one day more registered letters than went to all the business houses of Hamilton. Victims are especially numerous in the eastern part of Ontario. There are also some victims in Charlottetown. The victims in Hamilton and Framerville claim that not only were bogus assessments made and the money retained, but frequent assessments for large amounts were made on those whose claims were nearly due, so as to induce them to compromise for a small sum.

Arrangements for fast travel from St.
John to Montreal, between the New Brunswick, Maine Central, and Grand Trunk Railways, have been consummated and went into effect on the 23rd inst. The fast train leaving St. John at 6.30 a. m., standard time, reach Yarmouth Junction at 6.43 p. m., making close connection with a train which reaches Montreal at 6 a. m. next day, making the trip in 23 1/2 hours.
Passengers can also leave St. John by the 8.30 p. m. train and reach Montreal, via Danville Junction, at 11.30 p. m.
