

Dief Criticism Recalls Fuss With U.S. Three Years Ago

By DAVE MCINTOSH
OTTAWA (CP)—John Diefenbaker's criticism last week of the U.S. state department recalled the explosive period almost three years ago when the American agency hit the fuse which fired the Conservative leader from office.

The Opposition leader said at a press conference the failure of the state department to make public a North Viet Nam peace feeler "is of a serious nature." "Why was this offer concealed?" he asked referring to an overture from Hanoi in August, 1964, on the strength of which United Nations Secretary-General U Thant suggested negotiations between the U.S. and North Viet Nam in Burma.

It was a statement from the American agency on Jan. 30, 1963, which set in motion events that led to the downfall of the Diefenbaker government six days later.

That statement contained a scathing criticism of the Diefenbaker administration's defence policies.

On the subject of nuclear weapons, for instance, the statement said: "The Canadian government has not as yet proposed any arrangement sufficiently practical to contribute effectively to North American defence."

The next day Mr Diefenbaker described the statement as an "unwarranted intrusion in Canadian affairs."

"Canada won't be pushed around," he added.

BACKS THE CONTENTS
U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk apologized for the tone of the statement — but not the contents.

Prime Minister Pearson, then opposition leader, said: "Questions of Canadian policy should be left entirely for discussion and decision to Canadians."

Mr. Diefenbaker last Monday also suggested a pause in U.S. air strikes against North Viet Nam in hopes a ceasefire and negotiations might result.

Mr. Pearson made the same suggestion last April in a speech in Philadelphia and the next day got into what he has described as an "argument" with President Johnson.

In any event, the U.S. did pause in its bombings for five days in May. North Viet Nam put out a peace feeler soon after but attached conditions one being U.S. withdrawal from South Viet Nam.

The U.S. didn't acknowledge this overture at the time, either J. Blair Seaborn, Canadian foreign service officer, was sent to Hanoi May 31 to sound out the North Vietnamese. They still attached their conditions to negotiations.

Oddly enough, the U.S. state department has repeatedly referred to Mr. Seaborn's findings to explain its rejection of Communist overtures.

Newsman Finds Sanctions Would Be Blow To Zambia

Interpretative
Lynn Heinzerling, Associated Press writer who won a Pulitzer Prize for his coverage of Africa, takes a close look at what sanctions against white-ruled Rhodesia would mean. He finds, paradoxically, that they would hit neighboring, Negro-ruled Zambia harder. Here is his story.

By LYNN HEINZERLING
SALISBURY (AP) — The Organization of African Unity could cut the throat of one of its richest members Zambia, by insisting on a total quarantine of Rhodesia.

The measures outlined by OAU Secretary-General Diallo Telli of Guinea for cutting off all trade, travel and communications with Rhodesia would certainly damage this white-ruled country.

But neighboring, Negro-ruled Zambia, the former Northern Rhodesia, would suffer more. Diplomatic observers think the announced measures will align Rhodesia even more firmly with South Africa and Portuguese Angola and Mozambique.

WOULD HIT SUPPLY
The sweeping OAU edicts, if carried out to the letter, would leave Zambia with none of Rhodesia's coal and coke for its copper mines, would cut off Zambia's main source of manufactured goods, including mine equipment, textiles and other necessities, and would scramble its communications.

Zambia and Rhodesia jointly operate the Kariba hydro-electric plant the railways in the two countries, and Central African Airlines.

Air control is carried out at Salisbury. The OAU announcement did not spell out whether these enterprises will be banned as constituting economic relations.

It was announced that all means of travel to and from Rhodesia will be banned. Several other airlines, including British Overseas Airways Corporation, fly into Salisbury from other points in Africa. There are daily flights to and from London with intermediate African stops.

USES RAILWAY
Zambia's copper production, worth nearly $500,000,000 annually, reaches the market over Rhodesian and Mozambique railways.

Trial runs are being made to determine whether it is economically feasible to fly copper to Dar es Salaam on the coast of Tanzania.

There is a limited telephone service between Zambia and The Congo, but the only other effective circuits to the outside world run through Salisbury. Zambia imported Rhodesian goods worth $114,000,000 last year. Zambia and Britain were Rhodesia's best customers.

Social Credit Split Remains While Thompson Is Leader

By GERARD ALARIE
QUEBEC (CP) — Creditiste Leader Rea L. Caouette said here his party will remain split from the Social Credit Party as long as Robert Thompson remains Social Credit leader.

Speaking at a press conference, Mr. Caouette said: "The Quebec Creditistes cannot picture reunification with the Social Credit as long as Mr. Thompson directs it because they know he is chiefly responsible for the split which took place after the 1963 election."

"At the time of the split Mr. Robert Thompson was head of the national party and therefore is responsible for the split."

Reunification would be possible if Mr. Thompson retired, the leader of the Ralliement des Creditistes said.

Mr. Caouette spoke at the end of a two-day weekend meeting which his party candidates and organizers held behind closed doors here.

His comments were in reply to statements made by Mr. Thompson at the recent Social Credit meeting in Edmonton to the effect that the two groups could reunite.

He also threatened to "teach a lesson to Mr. Daniel Johnson and the Union Nationale" for the role they played in the last federal elections.

"The Union Nationale invited its people to vote for the Conservative Party for the New Democratic Party because it feared the Ralliement des Creditistes would enter the provincial political scene."

Asked whether his party would enter provincial politics, he said: "All groups of the right in the province must be united to face the socialist and socializing rise of the (Liberal) administration of Jean Lesage."

Then, he said the party had not definitely decided to enter the provincial arena.

However, the union of all rightist elements in Quebec with the participation of the Creditistes was the "unanimous wish" of all those at the closed-door meeting.

Asked whether this "unanimous wish" would result in the formation of a new provincial party, he replied, "I don't know," adding that he would work toward the formation of such a party.

TO MEET OTHERS
The heads of the Creditistes will "eventually meet" with those of the Regroupement National, directed by Dr. Rene Jutra of Victoriaville, Que. The Regroupement is a nationalist group which has not contested any provincial or federal elections.
