Small Cut Is Announced In Russian Defence Bill

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Alexei Kosygin announced Wednesday a small cut in Soviet defence spending and said the United States has "made an appreciable statement to us" in dropping its military budget will be cut too.

The cuts "constitute a definite, positive step toward reducing international tension," Kosygin told the Supreme Soviet, Russia's Parliament.

He expressed willingness to solve problems with Western countries but denounced U.S. actions in the Congo, Cuba and South Viet Nam.

Kosygin also reiterated criticism of the proposed North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Multilateral Nuclear Force and other U.S. proposals "are in the European Community Military Alliance to consider it."

Most of Kosygin's speech was devoted to a far more realistic appraisal of the Soviet economy than Khrushchev used to give in year-end economic summaries. Kosygin disclosed failures in both quantity and quality of production.

PROGRESS PROMISED He continued the Khrushchev emphasis on more and better consumer goods and a rising standard of living, promising even faster progress toward a good life for Russia's 227,000,000 people.

Kosygin said the defence budget for 1965 would be cut by 500,000,000 rubles ($155,000,000 U.S.). A 3.78 per cent cut on the announced figure of 13,200,000,000 rubles ($14,780,000,000) for 1964.

In Washington, the Pentagon estimated U.S. spending of $9,473,000,000 for the fiscal year ended next July 1.

Western analysts consider the announced figures to show less than half the true Soviet spending on defence, much of which is buried in such budget items as military and industrial production.

Kosygin said "representatives of the United States government have made appropriate statements to us" from which it follows that Washington intends to cut military spending for the next fiscal year.

A U.S. embassy spokesman said there was no knowledge of what Kosygin meant. He said no formal sources thought Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko probably had heard something in meetings last week at the United Nations with U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk.

and other American officials. Kosygin told the Soviet cut after saying in introductory remarks that Soviet defences will be strengthened.

Life Term Ends After 24 Years FOLSOM, Calif. (AP)— Wilhelm Jacob Mullenbroich, sentenced to life in prison for the 1940 kidnaping of a two-year-old, was released from Folsom prison Wednesday after 24 years behind bars.
