The Schoolyard.

To spend large sums of money on architectural beauties and stone carvings of historic ornaments—which have but little attraction for children—to make a school building look like a palace and then to leave the schoolyard looking like a desert or the top of a bituminous lake, without a single attractive flower or one bit of beauty, are inconsistencies which seem possible only in the modern system of education. Weather beaten houses in the country, log cabins on the frontiers, railroad stations in the Great American desert and all over our country have their beautiful flower gardens, and it refreshes one's soul to see them, but there is no such source of refreshment, inspiration and instruction where children are being educated in the "essentials."—Henry Lincoln Clapp in Popular Science Monthly.

The I in the Case.

Dr. Watson says that when he was recently traveling in Scotland a man in the same carriage said: "If you will stand up with me at the window, I will show you something. You will only get a glimpse suddenly and for an instant." They stood up and waited. Soon a little smoke came into view. "That's Kirriemuir," said the man and sat down, with a smile of ineffable complacency. After awhile Ian Macjaren remarked that J. M. Barrie was born there. "Yes," said the man, "and so was I."

FIGHTING A FEVER.

Fevers begin usually with a feeling of depression, headache, coated tongue, loss of appetite and general lassitude, sometimes followed by chills; then comes the high raging fever, terminating in from 24 to 72 hours by rapid subsidence or by a chronic crisis.

Just One For Memory.
Perhaps there have been moments In the radiant summer time When the painter filled his picture And the poet thrilled his rhyme With the finny summer maiden In the mountains, by the shore, That I thought I might be happy If I never saw her more.

Perhaps there have been moments In the rosebud month of June And in other months thereafter Mostly given up to spoon That I thought the patient people Might have framed a mild request Asking if the papers wouldn't Give the summer girl a rest.

Perhaps there have been moments When I've seen her everywhere— Walking, riding, driving, flirting, Always drawing to a pair, Fitting all the livelong summer On an ever restless wing— That I've wished the summer girl had Caught a husband in the spring.

Perhaps there have been moments— "Ah, peccavii!" hear me cry As I stand today repentant Underneath a cold, gray sky, Standing in the freezing shadows, Once perhaps, not now, a churl, Praying for a winter vision Of the finny summer girl.

Lessen Your Wants.
More of the true enjoyment of life lies in this maxim than is generally thought. We may indeed go to extremes and cut to the quick, like that cynic philosopher who threw away his wooden cup on seeing a vagrant boy drink from the hollow of his hand. But the truth is we create many of our own necessities, and with the growth of luxury new wants come in, not by ones, nor by tens, but by hundreds.—New York Ledger.

The "Hedge" Doctor.
A "hedge" doctor, a kind of quack in Ireland, was being examined at an inquest on his treatment of a patient who had died. "I gave him ipecacuanha," he said. "You might just as well have given him the aurora borealis," said the coroner.
"Indeed, yer honor, and that's just what I should have given him next if he hadn't died."—Hospital Gazette.

Hundreds in the Town Can Vouch for the Truthfulness of the Story

Mrs. Rass is Cured by the Great Spring Medicine, PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND

SHE SUFFERED FOR LONG YEARS FROM FRIGHTFUL NEURALGIA.

She Says: "No Tongue Can Describe the Agonies I Suffered."

Paine's Celery Compound, the Great Medical Prescription for Neuralgia, Sciatica and Rheumatism.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS. "PAINE'S" IS THE KIND THAT CURES.

The quiet little town of Quyon, situated on the Ottawa River, has furnished many a strong and convincing testimonial for earth's most popular medicine, Paine's Celery Compound. One of the latest letters received is from Mrs. David Rass, a lady well known and highly esteemed. She writes as follows:

WELLS & RICHARDSON CO., DEAR SIRS,—I have much pleasure in testifying to the worth of your life-saving medicine, Paine's Celery Compound. I was a victim of neuralgia in its worst form for many years, and no tongue can describe the agonies I suffered. A friend recommended your Compound to me, and after using two bottles I am completely cured. I cheerfully recommend Paine's Celery Compound to the world, especially to all who suffer the agonizing tortures of neuralgia.

Yours very truly, MRS. DAVID RASS, Quyon, P. Q.

The editor of the Canadian Produce who is now in England to investigate the standing of American butter, regards Canada as the greatest competitor which the United States butter maker has in the English market. Australia has never come up to its record of 1895, when it shipped 311,896 cwt. of butter to England. The outlook does not appear to be for heavy increases in that direction. Already Denmark, Ireland and France are complaining that there is little money in the business of producing butter at the prices which have ruled during the past few years.
