OTAWA JOTTINGS

Important Visitors Make Federal Capital Levelier

By John A. Macdonald, M.P.

One of the interesting features of the work of a Member of Parliament is the number of important visitors who come to this capital city. After paying their respects to our leaders and enjoying a customary state dinner they are often asked to address a combined meeting of the House of Commons and Senate in the former's chamber. Then sometime during their several days' visit an informal reception is held to provide an opportunity for members of both of these bodies to meet personally with the visiting dignitaries. In this regard the past few weeks have had such men as Paul-Henri Spook, Secretary of NATO, Dr. Theodor Heuss, President of West Germany, Rt. Hon. Sir Harold MacMillan, Prime Minister of Great Britain—with President Eisenhower coming early next week and Princess Margaret early next month.

The visit of the Prime Minister of the "mother country" of the Commonwealth might be singled out as one of particular interest and of other description. Combined with the usual round of receptions and meetings are often conferences of the highest importance between the visiting state leader and his top advisors and our own Prime Minister and his most important officials.

At these conferences due to time limitations, only broad general policies are discussed but it should be noted these visits are not merely social by any means. Usually there is a definite purpose behind the meeting, sometimes more or less of a secret nature where defence policy is concerned, and often important decisions result from these across the table deliberations.

Meeting Prime Minister Macmillan was an interesting experience. He is a tall distinguished looking man, reflecting his background as a soldier—and particularly as an officer in a guards battalion in World War I. Despite his aristocratic bearing and appearance he is a very friendly and unaffected person. Although tending to be quite spoken and reserved, he is a good mixer and enjoys meeting people in friendly informal conversation. His speech before the Members and Senators in the House was excellent and very widely acclaimed by those who heard him and by the press throughout the country.

At the beginning he injected a note of warmth when he began with a personal note in referring to the fact that he had spent some time in Ottawa following the first war convalescing from wounds and acting as ADC to the then Governor-General. He referred also to the important part in his life that it was during this period that he met his charming spouse. From then on he gave a masterful speech on current affairs as they affect the Commonwealth and on various other matters as reported at the time in the news items. Needless to say Prime Minister Macmillan is the man who took over in Britain following the very difficult time after Suez, made an extremely favourable impression on Ottawa.

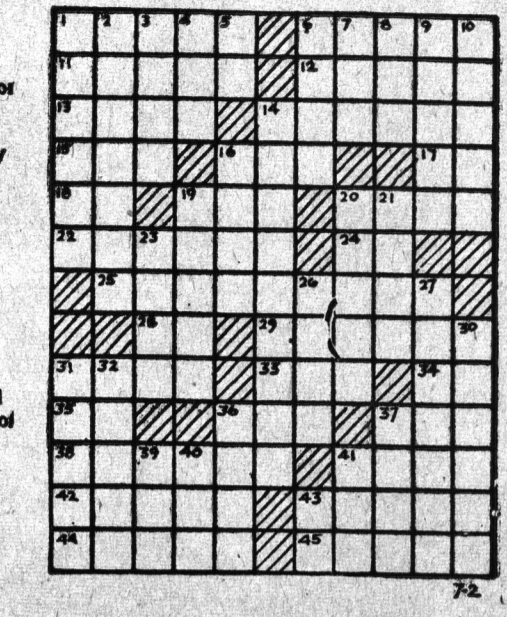

Minutes of the previous convention were read by the secretary, Mrs. Howard Wood, followed by roll call and reading of reports of the Institutes every Institute in the area was represented at this convention.
Mrs. MacKenzie in her remarks expressed her pleasure at the good attendance of members and visitors and hoped they would derive some benefit as well as pleasure from this meeting.

BEECHWOOD PROJECT
Not far away over the weekend another auspicious event is taking place in the official opening of the Beechwood project. This great step forward is a glowing tribute to the courage and vision of a man who will undoubtedly be classed as easily the outstanding statesman of the Atlantic Provinces in a number of years. Rebuffed in his request for assistance from a federal government which would agree to measures which would bolster our economy in these provinces Hugh John Flemming went on alone in this great project to provide the necessary cheap power to induce and hold industries in this area.

On looking over recent New Brunswick papers it is noted that his government has produced a surplus of some $48,000 even after setting aside funds for payments under the National Hospital Plan which that province is entering into with the federal government on January 1, 1959. Under Mr. Fleming's guidance New Brunswick has made great progress and residents of that province have deeply appreciated the stable, efficient and businesslike administration which he has set up and controlled in that province.

An interesting party event last week was the dinner for Mr. Diefenbaker on the occasion of the year's anniversary of the Progressive Conservative victory of June 1957. Instead of the usual set-up of the "top brass" around the head table each Province sent its youngest member—and our province was very ably represented by Mr. Orville Phillips of Prince. Chairing the assembly was Mr. Allister Grossart, the National Director of the party, and the chief speaker was Mr. R. H. MacGregor, now the dean of the House.

"Bob" MacGregor, who has made few and very brief speeches in the House, yet is one of the most successful members, was magnificent in his display of wit and humor for the occasion. Gifts were presented to the Prime Minister and Mrs. Diefenbaker from the Members of the House of Commons and Senate. Following this Mr. Diefenbaker replied with a warm speech of thanks which marked the ending of a very pleasant occasion.
