SALUTING THE PRESIDENT.

Decidedly, this matter of the Spanish war is improving our manners. I think that once we have grown used to hearing national airs every evening at the theater and to standing while they are playing, we shall keep up the custom, war or no war, as we ought. I have observed, too, of late that when the president drives out 20 men lift their hats to him where five performed that act of courtesy three months ago. I have heard so many foreigners complain of our lack of deference to the chief executive, because we do not salute him when he appears. It is hard to make them understand that our seeming indifference is merely a way we have, and I hope it's a way we aren't going to have much longer.

Extreme Caution.

"I caught myself just in time this morning," exclaimed Mr. Meekton. "I came very near annoying Henrietta quite severely."

"By some remark?"

"No, I started to whistle 'The Girl I Left Behind Me,' but stopped before she could recognize it."

"She dislikes the tune, then?"

"I don't know that she dislikes the tune. But I am sure Henrietta would resent any insinuation that the girl was not away in the lead, no matter what the occasion might be

A Sure Sham.

Mrs. Jenkins—I see Mrs. Hoetong is going to have "King Lear" at her next private theatricals.

Mrs. Newrich (furiously with envy)— Is she, the affected thing? Do you know, I don't believe he's a real king at all.

Spanish Knights Looted by the Irish.

The Century has an article on "The Spanish Armada," written by William Frederic Tilton. An introduction is furnished by Captain Alfred T. Mahan.
Mr. Tilton says:

The huge Venetian Trinidad Valen-cera, having sprung a desperate leak, ran for the Irish coast, and soon found herself off O'Dogherty's country, perhaps in Lough Swilly. Part of the crew swam ashore; others huddled into an old leaky ship's boat. A native rowed out toward them, and being promised a bagful of ducats and jewels helped land those in the leaky boat, while another Irishman, bent on richer spoil and heedless of the cries for help, rowed straight for the wreck, which went down while he was looting in the hold. No sooner had the Spaniards got ashore than "wild people," and even the queen's soldiers, fell upon them, robbing them of their "money, gold buttons, rapiers and apparel" and slaughtering numbers of them in cold blood. But one of the O'Donnells came to the rescue, had a great fire built for some of the officers and seemed to "pity their case, especially O'Donnell's wife."

One of these officers tells how he was lodged in the cabin of a fellow who sold ale and aqua vite and was ruffing it in a stolen "red cloak with buttons of gold." In the night he robbed his guest of 200 ducats, and the officer heard him "beat out barrels' heads and fill them with plate, money and jewels." The Spaniards, having saved no provisions, were forced to buy a few wretched horses, "which they killed and did eat, and some small quantity of butter that the common people brought also to sell."

Has No Friends.

Village Cousin (showing his city relative around the hamlet)—That quiet, harmless looking man on the opposite side of the street is a member of the church and one of the most public spirited, kind hearted and charitable men in the whole community, and yet he is the hardest hated and most indus-triously despised person in the village.

City Cousin—How does that come about?

Village Cousin—Why, you see, he has kept a diary continuously since 1871, conscientiously and methodically jotting down from time to time all the important and unimportant happenings, episodes and incidents in our village life, marriages, births, the state of the weather, condition of the crops, what So-and-so paid for such and such a house, and so on and so forth, including the gist of everybody's political utterances.
And whenever the revered oldest inhabitant says that this is the coldest, hottest, wettest or driest season in ten years, or a lady makes an assertion regarding her age, or some one declares he paid a certain sum for his property, or a local politician cries out that he has always worked for the success of some particular party and never scratched his ticket, the man with the diary pulls out his little book and calmly calls them down, as if it was his bounden duty to do so.

Friendship.

Hazen—I like to see a man stick by his friends. Now, for instance, if a man told you I was an ass you wouldn't join right in with him, would you?
Dilby—No, sir, I'd rebuke him. I'd tell him that the truth should not be spoken on all occasions.—Boston Transcript

Morals and the Stage.

Mr Albert Chevalier, the famous "coster" impersonator, was once the recipient of a letter from a gentleman who had heard him sing his famous song, "My Old Dutch." The correspondent wrote that when he entered the theater that night he had intended to become divorced from his wife, owing to constant disagreements and troubles with her, but the song so affected him that he resolved to do nothing of the sort, but to make an effort toward a newer and better life. Mr. Chevalier stated that the note evidently came from an educated man, and he had every belief in its genuineness.

When Hawthorne's celebrated "Scarlet Letter" was being performed, a young man wrote a very impressive letter to the management. "I entered the theater last night," he said, "with a very great sin in contemplation. I need not go into details, but it will suffice to say that the deed I had in my mind would have ruined a home in this city.
But when the play was over I saw only too clearly how terrible are the consequences of sin, and I thank God that I can now affirm that I have put it out of my mind forever."—London Standard.

APPALLING DEATH

From Kidney Disease Prevented by Dodd's Kidney Pills, Only.

"Kidney Disease." Do you know what it means? It means that the kidneys are either rotten, or rotting; the blood is full of poisonous, death-dealing corruption; that the Kidneys can't do their work; that the victim is a walking charnel-house; that his hours are numbered; that the victim must take Dodd's Kidney Pills if he does not want to die.

Have you Kidney Disease? Is your skin hot and dry; memory failing; breath short; urine, reddish, or pale colored; does it scald when passing; is your appetite changeable; do your ankles swell; have you bitter taste in the mouth on getting up mornings; is there a brick-dust deposit in your urine?

Any of these signs is proof positive of Kidney Disease. Will you be cured, or will you die? Dodd's Kidney Pills are the only means on earth that will cure you. They never fail.
