Opening lead—ace of spades. Geoffrey Mott-Smith, who conducts the annual Intercollegiate Tournament in which about 100 colleges usually participate, and who prepares the hands and judges the results as well, is quite a player in his own right, as this deal will show. He bought the contract at his own price—four hearts—doubled. West led the A-K of spades, marking him with a doubleton, and shifted to the queen of diamonds. Mott-Smith ruffed, after ducking in dummy, and drew four rounds of trumps. In the process he learned West had started with four hearts as well as two spades. It appeared likely that West held originally either three diamonds and four clubs, or two diamonds and five clubs. To make the contract it was necessary, by fair means or foul, to avoid the spade loser. For this to be possible, Mott-Smith had to assume the adverse clubs were so divided that three club tricks would be made, the last of which would take care of his losing spade. Accordingly, he led a low club, West playing low, and won in dummy with the jack, East dropping the illuminating nine. Mott-Smith then trumped a diamond and led the queen of clubs. West made the proper defensive play of ducking the queen, otherwise declarer would have made the contract easily. But Mott-Smith, sizing up the situation correctly, overtook the queen with the king, sparing the ten at the same time. The rest was easy. West's distribution was now an open book. He had started with two spades, four hearts, four clubs, and hence three diamonds. He could have only one diamond left, two rounds having already been led. So Mott-Smith ruffed a diamond, running West out of the suit, and led a club towards dummy's 8-2. West, whose last two cards consisted of the A-7 of clubs, could do no better than make just his ace. And East, who had held the setting trick—the queen of spades—all through the hand, could do no more than chew his fingernails.

Japan Is Winning Struggle Against Shortage Of Dollars

OTTAWA (CP)—Japan, industrial giant of the Far East with its teeming millions, is slowly winning its struggle against a dollar shortage and this may spell good fortune for Canadian exporters. Canadian trade officers, reporting back to headquarters, say that 1959 prospects for Canadian exports to Japan are definitely better than they were a year ago when Japan was forced to trim imports because of rising deficits and a drain on her dollar supply. Top market for Canada in the Far East, Japan last year chopped purchases from Canada to $104,891,000, down about $35,000,000 from the 1957 record. At the same time Canada boosted imports from Japan to some $64,000,000 from $61,600,000. Thus, Japan was slowly narrowing her trade gap with Canada. In 1953, for every $1 worth of goods Canada purchased from Japan, the Oriental customer placed $9 worth in Canada. Last year this $9 was trimmed to $1.60.

GAINING GROUND W. G. Pybus, Canadian commercial secretary at Tokyo, says: "Although in many fields Japan still has a long way to go in competing with the United States and various other countries in the Canadian market, there is little doubt that the seeds of improved quality, prices, deliveries and trading practices sown in the past few years are bearing fruit." In a report in the government's foreign trade magazine, he adds: "One of the best indications of Japan's better economic position compared with a year ago is the steady improvement in her balance of international payments. At the end of November, 1958, her foreign exchange reserves totalled $805,000,000, approximately double the figure for the same month of 1957." The drop in Canadian shipments to Japan was a major factor in the over-all decline in exports to the Far East last year to $145,875,000 from $185,075,000 in 1957. However, shipments also dipped to the Philippines to $14,008,000 from $17,540,000; South Korea to $4,308,000 from $7,202,000; Hong Kong to $6,054,000 from $7,595,000.
