TWO DAVIDS AND A KATE.

The Charming Relationship That Existed Between Ruskin and His Servants. "I have got two Davids and a Kate that I wouldn't change for anybody else's servants in the world, and I believe the only quarrel they have with me is that I don't give them enough to do for me. This very morning I must stop writing presently to find the stoutest of the Davids some business, or he will be miserable all day." So wrote Ruskin in "Fors Clavigera." The words did not express merely a poetic sentiment of the author; they also represented a phase of his domestic life, as the following extract from an English periodical proves: Mr. Ruskin and I were dining together. During the meal, as we were enjoying a rhubarb tart, I happened to say that it was the first I had tasted that season and how delicious it was. The professor was delighted at my appreciation of his rhubarb, and, ringing for one of the girls, he said, "Please tell Jackson I want him." "This was the gardener-one of the Davids, I suppose. When he came into the room, his master said, "Jackson, I am very pleased to tell you that your first pulling of rhubarb is quite a success, and my friend here, who has had some pie made of it, says it is delicious." Jackson, with a true gardener's pride, thanked us both for our appreciation of his early rhubarb and left the room. When we had finished dining, a servant came in, bringing a number of lighted candles. The windows being shaded by the overhanging trees above, the room was almost dark even before the sun had gone down. After placing the candles she was leaving the room, when she said, "Please, sir, there is a beautiful sunset sky just now over the 'Old Man.'" The professor rose from his chair at once and said, "Thank you, Kate, for telling us, but before disturbing my friend I will go and see if it is worth looking at." He left the room and soon returned. "Yes," he said, "it is worth seeing," and he led the way up stairs to his own bedroom. It was certainly a glorious sight, the sun sinking behind the Coniston "Old Man" mountain and the mist and ripples on the lake tinged with a crimson flush. We sat in the window recess till the sun went down behind the mountain. Not a word was spoken by either of us. I was thinking of the charming relationship and sympathy manifested between master and servant and how strange it would seem to most of us that even such a trifling matter as a gardener's first rhubarb is not to be left as a matter of course, nor such a common occurrence as a beautiful sunset to be left to pass away unnoticed in this exceptional household.

The Indian Plague. In speaking of the plague The Indian Mirror says: "How often have we not brought our countrymen to revive the religious practices enjoined in the Shastras, how often have we not entreated them to celebrate the Yagna ceremonies? The Rishis were far greater sanitarians than those of the modern times calling themselves by that name. The Rishis also understood the causes of disease better. Let these Yagnas be performed simultaneously in all parts of India, and we undertake to say that not only will the plague disappear, but there will be a sensible mitigation of the famine. Huge fires, lighted in a hundred different places in a town so distressed as Bombay and fed with ghee, sandalwood and the other ingredients used in the Yagna ceremonies, will destroy all the plague germs in the atmosphere and free that city of its deadly enemy within a week."

Her majesty has only four grandsons who have taken wives into themselves-namely, the Duke of York, the German emperor and his brother, Prince Henry, and the Grand Duke of Hesse. It is said that there has been of late an extraordinary increase in the number of foreign handsmen employed in the British navy. The majority of these are Maltese and Italians.

PROVIDER 23,968. RECORD 2,281. Provider will make the season of 1897, at Charlottetown opposite A. Horne & Co's. BUTCHERED OR BURNED

We read with horror of the cruelty and butcheries of Gen Wever in the fair Isle of Cuba, but little reck we of the ravages of that more direful King of Grave-Fillers, Kidney Disease here in our midst. People of high and low degree drop into graves on all sides of us daily from Kidney Trouble. We incur it ourselves. We encourage it. We do everything but cure it. Yet there is a cure, pleasant as a May morning. Sure as fate. Infallible as heredity. Before this wonderful remedy, the agonizing tortures of Kidney Pills vanish like a snowflake in a fiery furnace. This cure, of which we found the praise is DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS. Yet not alone we, but every one who has tried them. One hundred per cent. of cures we record. Here are examples:- W. F. Smith, 16 Carrol St., Toronto, says: "I have taken eight boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills which have cured me of Heart Trouble, Pain in the Back and Dizziness, after other treatments had failed." D. J. Kenny, Queen's Hotel, Mount Forest, says: "Have suffered greatly from Nervousness, but information as to the effects of Dodd's Kidney Pills in such cases led me to use them, with the result that I am cured." Louis H. Bounsell, 537 King East, Toronto, says: "Had been troubled for several months with pain in my Back and Kidneys which prevented my entering in bicycle events, but am in the ring once more after using three boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills." Mr. James S. Oakes, Deseronto, Ont., says: "From the first box taken of Dodd's Kidney Pills I found relief, and hundreds here knowing me for the past fifteen years can vouch for my cure of long standing Kidney Trouble."

IDENTITY IN FUNNELS.

Some Distinguishing Marks on the Atlantic Ocean Steamships. Watching outgoing and incoming ocean steamships has become an interesting pastime with thousands of persons who are employed during the day in the tall office buildings on the lower end of Manhattan Island. With many persons the ability to identify the different vessels as they pass and re-pass at a distance is a matter of proud satisfaction. A few sharp eyed ones become so expert by practice that they can distinguish peculiar marks on each vessel and can tell at a glance the difference between a Cunarder and an American liner, a North German Lloyd steamer or any other ocean liner. It is by the funnels that most persons are able to distinguish the vessels of one line from the vessels of another. Almost every line has some peculiarity in color about its funnel, so that the picking out of vessels of different lines by long distance observers is like picking out horses on the racing track by the colors of the jockeys' caps. The Cunard line has a red funnel, with a black top; the American line's funnels are black, with a white band; the White Star, cream color, with black top; the North German Lloyd, cream color; the Guion line, black, with broad red band and black top; the National line, white, with black top; and the State line, light buff, with red band and black top. The steamers of the Netherland line to Holland have black funnels, with two green bands and a white band in the center; the Atlas line's funnels are white, with red and white band and black top; the Pacific mail steamers, black; Clyde line, black, with red band and black top; Old Dominion line, black; Summer line, red, with black top and two white bands; Red "D" line, black, with red letter D in white band; Thingvall line, yellow, black band, with blue star; Cromwell line, black, with two yellow bands; New York Steamship line, the "house flag" a burgee with red border, white center and blue letters "N. Y."-New York Times.

A Grateful Tenant. Mr. Ford has some houses in Brooklyn, one of which he rented to Mr. Stone, a mason. For three months Mr. Ford failed to collect the rent and at last resolved to send Mr. Stone a draft. "But if I am put out, Mr. Ford," said Stone, "I can't move my duds. I have no money." Mr. Ford, being tender hearted, gave him $2, and Stone moved out. Shortly afterward Mr. Ford appointed an agent to attend to his rents. Everything went right until one day Mr. Ford found that the rent of a certain house remained unpaid. "The tenant's all right, sir," said the agent. "He's a good man of the name of Stone, a mason, and he'll pay in a day or two." The owner called upon the backward tenant and found that he was the same Stone whom he had evicted some months before. "How is it that you're back here again?" said Mr. Ford. "Really," said Stone, "I couldn't think of patronizing another landlord, Mr. Ford. You had been kind to me, and I felt grateful."-Harper's Round Table.

JAMES F. NORTON GAY'S SEEDS.

Thirty years of practical experience, testing, planting and bringing seeds to maturity, have necessarily placed us in a position calculated to qualify us for this judicious selection of reliable seeds suited to our climate, and we would impress the fact upon farmer that we grow, import and sell only seeds that we do (in most cases) plant of the same ourselves. We give below a short price-list for the convenience of those that cannot call on us personally at the Ch'town market or at home, and by remitting the price quoted you receive the seeds free of postage.

A liberal reduction to Farmers' Clubs, or a number of farmers joining together can make a handsome saving. Write for special prices for large orders stating in quantity required. Address J. J. GAY & SON, Pownal Or call at the market when in town. (See our signs north side Market.) apr16-law&w
