

A Study of Husbands.

BY A WOMAN FOR WOMAN, BUT MEN MAY READ IT WITH PROFIT.

We hear much about the art of winning a husband. Let us take a step further and make a study of keeping a husband. If he is worth winning he is worth keeping. This is a wicked world, and a man is dreadful mortal. Let us take him just as he is, not as he ought to be. In the first place he is very weak. The wife must spend the first two years in discovering these weaknesses, count them on their fingers and learn them by heart. The fingers of both hands will not be too many. Then let her study up these weaknesses, with a mesh for every one, and the secret is hers. Is he fond of a good dinner? Let her lighten the mesh around him with fragrant coffee, light bread, and good things generally, and reach his heart through his stomach. Is he fond of flattery about his looks? Let her study the dictionary for sweet words if her supply gives out. Does he like to hear her talk about his brilliant intellect? Let her pore over the encyclopaedia to give variety to the depth of her admiration. Flattery is a good thing to study up at all hazards, in all its delicate shades, but it must be skillfully done. The harpy who may try to coax him away will not do it absurdly. Is he fond of beauty. Here's the rub—let her be metaphorical, and keep up with the times. A husband who sees his wife look like other people is not going to consider her "broken down." Though it is a common sneer that a woman has admitted that her sex consider more in marrying, the tastes of her friends than her own, yet it must be considered ludicrous that a man looks at his wife with the same eyes that other people do. Is he fond of literary matters? Listen to him with wide open eyes when he talks of them. A man doesn't so much care for a literary wife if only she will be literary enough to appreciate him. If she has literary inclinations, keep them to herself. Men love to be big and great to their wives. That's the reason why a helpless little woman can marry three times to a sensible, self-reliant woman's once. Cultivate helplessness. Is he curious? Oh, then you have a treasure; you can always keep him if you have a secret and keep it carefully. Is he jealous? Then, woman, this is not for you; cease torturing that fretted heart which wants you for his own, and teach him confidence. Is he ugly in temper and fault-finding? Give him a dose of his own medicine, skillfully done. Is he deceitful? Pity him for his weakness; treat him as one who is born with a defect, but put your wits to work—it is a bad case. It is well not to be too tame. Men do not waste their powder and shot on hens and barn-yard fowl; they like the pleasure of pursuing wild game—quail and grouse and deer, a quail is a good model for a wife—neat and trim, with a pretty, swift way about, and just a little capricious. Never let yourself become an old story; be just a little uncertain. Another important fact is, don't be too good; it hurts his feelings, and becomes monotonous. Cultivate a pleasant voice, so that this very mortal man may have his conscience prick him when he is in jeopardy; its pleasant ring will haunt him much more than would a shrill one. It is hard to do all this, besides taking care of the babies and looking after vexatious household cares and smiling when he comes home, but it seems necessary. "To be born a martyr," says a husband who for ten years has watched in amazement his wife treading the winneps of her existence. It is a pitiful sight to some men. But if the wife does not make a study of these things the harpy will, to steal away the honor from his silver hairs when he is full of years and at the father of sons and daughters. At the same time guide wife, keep from trying any of these things on any mortal man but your own. These rules are only evolved to "keep a husband." The weak creature would rather be good than bad, and it is woman's duty to hold him by every means in her power.

Sunday in London.

(Correspondence of the Baltimore American.)

Talk about the Sunday law and its enforcement in Baltimore! It does not compare to the observance of that day in this great city. One hardly knows London to-day, after the bustle and whirl of yesterday. The stores are closed, the wagons have disappeared, the cabs seem to run more quietly, and the people seem almost afraid to speak aloud. What a contrast after a continental Sabbath! I was hungry this morning, and thought I would go to the Criterion and get lunch. Imagine my surprise when I arrived at the restaurant and found it closed, the Gaiety and St. James likewise. All down the Strand, up in the West End, and even in "the city," the restaurants were closed tighter than the proverbial clam. Not a place to eat on Sunday save the dining room of an hotel. The chop-houses, the "grill-rooms" and the "buffets," are all closed until 6 o'clock in the evening, and even the drinking bars or ale-houses—as far as exteriors are concerned—are dark and uninviting. Unless you know the proprietor, and can enter by the "family" or "wholesale liquor" entrance there is no use trying to get in before 1 o'clock. There are plenty of churches to visit and good sermons are preached, and the people seem to take advantage of this and go to church. At Spurgeon's Tabernacle, the crowd is always great, and every stranger pays it one visit at least. When you approach the entrance you are met by a vorger or officials who gives you an envelope. The envelope requests you to give a contribution—a penny or more—and drop it in the box provided. The far-seeing, as well as the charitable, do this, and to them the side gate or door is open. The sexton places you in a back seat and requests holders to be in their seats by that time or lose their places. When the hour arrives the sexton tells you to go up the aisles and take any vacant seat. When those who have contributed are seated, the great doors are opened and the crowd is admitted. Then the services begin.

Guided by the principles of Truth, Honor, Moderation, and Fairness, THE EXAMINER is devoted to the promotion of the interests of this Province and this Dominion!

Mrs. O. A. Prescott, writing from Elm St., Charlottetown, Mass., April 14, 1882, says: "Two years ago about two-thirds of my hair came off. It thinned very rapidly, and I was fast growing bald. I used part of a bottle of AYER'S HAIR VIGOR, which stopped the falling of the hair, and started a new growth. I have now a full head of hair growing vigorously, and am convinced that but for the use of your preparation I should have been entirely bald."

Mr. W. BOWEN, proprietor of the McArthur (Ohio) Enquirer, says: "AYER'S HAIR VIGOR is a most excellent preparation for the hair. I speak of it from my own experience. Its use promotes the growth of new hair, and makes it glossy and soft. The Vigor is also a sure cure for dandruff. Not within my knowledge has the preparation ever failed to give entire satisfaction."

Mr. ANDREW FAIRBANKS, leader of the celebrated "Belcher Family" of Scottish Vocalists, writes from Boston, Feb. 6, 1880: "Ever since my hair began to fall, I have used AYER'S HAIR VIGOR, and so have been able to maintain an appearance of youthfulness—a matter of considerable consequence to ministers, orators, actors, and in fact every one who lives in the eyes of the public."

We have hundreds of similar testimonials to the efficacy of AYER'S HAIR VIGOR. It needs but a trial to convince the most skeptical of its value.

Hair Vigor

restores, with the gloss and freshness of youth, faded or gray hair to a natural, rich brown color, or deep black, as may be desired. By its use light or red hair may be darkened, thin hair thickened, and baldness often, though not always, cured.

It checks the falling of the hair, and stimulates a weak and sickly growth to vigor. It prevents and cures scurf and dandruff, and heals nearly every disease peculiar to the scalp. As a Ladies' Hair Dressing, the Vigor is unequalled; it contains neither oil nor dye, renders the hair soft, glossy, and silken in appearance, and imparts a delicate, agreeable, and lasting perfume.

Mr. C. P. BEICHER writes from Kirby, O., July 3, 1882: "Last fall my hair commenced falling out, and in a short time I became nearly bald. I used part of a bottle of AYER'S HAIR VIGOR, which stopped the falling of the hair, and started a new growth. I have now a full head of hair growing vigorously, and am convinced that but for the use of your preparation I should have been entirely bald."
