Modern Etiquette

By Roberta Lee

Q. When a girl is entertaining a male caller in the evening, the hour is very late and he shows no indication of leaving, would it be all right for either of her parents to tell the young man it is time to go?

Q. No; but the girl has a perfect right to call his attention to the late hour.

Q. What is the most appropriate gift that a bridegroom can give his bride?

A. Some article of jewelry, usually suitable for her to wear on her wedding day.

Q. Is it necessary for a woman to say "please" and "thank you" to her servants?

A. While not necessary, this courtesy is never out of place.

Morning Smile

A Problem

A man went into the doctor's office and saw the doctor slumped down in his chair, groaning. "I've got to see a doctor!"

"But you're a doctor," said the man.

"I know, but I charge too much."

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

Unpopularity

Cattiness, Selfishness, Bragging Are Some Causes

A girl wants to know why she isn't popular. Well, there are many reasons why we fail to be persona grata with our fellow creatures, but the chief reasons for unpopularity are these: Being stand-offish. Expecting everyone else to make all the advances toward friendliness. Expecting other people to run after you and court you. Never meeting anyone even halfway. This is a busy world and few of us have the time, or are inclined to take the trouble, to defrost a refrigerator on the chance of finding that there is a nice, warm human heart within that is hungering for affection and companionship.

Cattiness. Always having your claws out and giving everyone with whom you come in contact a sly scratch. You know the sort of girl who will say: "How nicely your dress made over, Mary. I never saw anything dye better. It looks almost new." The people we like are those who stroke our fur the right way and make us purr under their hands and go away feeling pleased with ourselves, not those who leave us bleeding from a hundred wounds in our vanity.

Selfishness. Grabbing the best of everything for yourself. Always seizing more than your fair share of everything. Monopolizing the window in an automobile, the choice room in a hotel, the best seat, the softest bed, gobbling up most of the chocolate creams. Never being willing to divide. Crashing in on another and her date, but when you have one, segregating him from all the balance of the girls. The selfish girl trends on everybody's toes and they respond by kicking her out of their path.

Being bossy. Being determined to run the show and make everybody do your way. Never being willing to give and take. Refusing to play the game unless it is played your way. Feeling that you have a divine right to impose all your opinions and tastes on others. Most of us love our personal liberty and are not strong for dictators.

Bragging. Boasting about what you are and have, and how you accomplished. Telling about how aristocrat you are and how your great-grandmother's uncle's second cousin came over in the Mayflower, or knew somebody who was a singer, or something or other.

NO MONOLOGUES. Talking about yourself. Monologuing along about your own affairs, your family, your interests, your amusements, what you do and think. Assuming that the general public is just waiting with bated breath to hear every detail of your private life and never weary listening to the account of all of your symptoms when you are ill, of what happened on some insignificant trip you have taken, and what you said to the boy friend and he said to you. The only human beings who are interested in our personal reminiscences are our mothers.

Lack of tact. Being a bull in the conversational china shop. Telling home truths that blister. Saying the wrong things to the wrong people. Discussing divorce with a woman who is just back from Reno. Asking the mother of a delicate child if it isn't tuberculous. Telling a woman who is posing as 30 that your mother used to go to school with her. The people who speak without thinking never have anyone but themselves to talk to. We avoid them as we would the plague.

Lack of attractiveness. Being dull. Never knowing how to do things. Never fitting in anywhere. Being argumentative. Not being able to talk interestingly, or play a good game of cards or dance or even get along peacefully with other people. This is a selfish world in which we do not afflict ourselves with bores if we can help it. Finally, not being willing to pay the price. For popularity comes high. It costs self-sacrifice, putting others before yourself, refraining from saying many things you would like to say and making a continuous effort to be pleasant and agreeable and entertaining.

How Can I!!!

By Anne Ashley

Q. How can I clean ribbons?

A. Soak them in cleaning fluid for several hours. Then rinse in water, in which is dissolved a small amount of sugar. Dry by scrubbing with a clean cloth, and the ribbons will be as stiff and nice as when new.

Q. How can I sweeten a musty metal or enamel teapot?

A. Fill it with water, in which a red-hot cinder has been dropped. After letting it stand a while with the lid closed, rinse with clear water.

Q. How can I hasten the cooling of pudding?

A. Place the container in a dish of cold water, to which a handful of salt has been added.

Plaster Ornaments

Plaster ornaments can be cleaned very nicely by covering with a paste made of French chalk and water. After allowing to dry thoroughly, rub it off with a soft brush. Then polish with a soft dry cloth to restore the luster.

Scrubbing

Be sure to sweep out the kitchen before scrubbing the linoleum. You will avoid having all the small bits of fuzz and it will make the scrubbing much easier.

Napkins

Napkins should be folded plainly and laid flat on the table. It is considered bad form to fold them into fancy shapes.

Stewart-Hillion Wedding In St. Paul's Chapel

In St. Paul's Chapel October 2nd the marriage was solemnized of Fleur Blanche Hillion, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Hillion to Clive Hazard Stewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin C. Stewart, Cross Roads. Rev. James T. Ibbott officiated.

Pink and white gladioli were used in the Chancel vases and the wedding music was played by Mr. Royston H. Murgford, A.R.C.O.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Edward Nicholson, and the maid of honor was Miss Doris Hillion, sister of the bride.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Robert McLeod and the ushers were Mr. Ralph Manning and Mr. Blair McRae.

For the ceremony the bride chose a floor length dress of white net over white satin, with fitted bodice, tight sleeves and a bouffant skirt. Her finger-tip veil was of tulle-illusion and orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of red roses and stephanotis.

The maid of honor wore a dress of turquoise blue with square neck-line and full skirt and matching head dress. She carried a nosegay of pink roses.

Mrs. Hillion the bride's mother wore a gown of cocoa brown crepe with brown velvet trim and matching hat and a corsage of yellow roses.

Mrs. Stewart the groom's mother wore a gown of beige rose and matching hat and corsage of pink roses.

Following the reception at The Villa Waters the couple left by motor for the White Mountains and Toronto, the bride travelling in a red rust suit and navy accessories. Her corsage was of cream roses. On their return they will take up residence at the Palmer Apartments.

That Body Of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

USE OF ASPIRIN IN ANGINA PECTORIS

It is told of a famous baseball player that before an important game he would take three or four aspirin tablets (acetylsalicylic acid). When asked why, he said, "These tablets make me see this as just another ball game—no reason to get excited about it." It is said of a certain business executive that when entering a conference, he always took a couple of aspirin tablets to keep him relaxed, because a tensed individual not only tires himself but is not in fit mental and emotional condition to use his best judgment.

I sometimes think that the manufacturers of acetylsalicylic acid miss a great selling point in not stressing this angle instead of always the pain-killing effects of this drug.

That acetylsalicylic acid might be helpful in cases of coronary thrombosis because it prevents pain and prevents coagulation of the blood is stated by Dr. P. C. Wilson in The Lancet, London.

During the past nine months acetylsalicylic acid (aspirin) has been widely used for chest pain (angina pectoris) by numerous physicians, and by some of his fellow physicians, so he sent a questionnaire to 22 physicians of whom 20 replied. Five of these had not used the drug. Of the 15 who had used aspirin for chest pain, eight considered it of undoubted value in preventing and relieving pain in the chest; some thought it of some value. None considered it useless.

Dr. Wilson believes that a more extensive trial of acetylsalicylic acid is justified and pointed out that the salicylates (of which acetylsalicylate is a member) have maintained their reputation for effectiveness in the treatment of rheumatic carditis (inflammation of the heart) for more than fifty years, with little scientific justification. The dose suggested for coronary thrombosis is 20 grains every four hours, day and night, until the blood becomes normal. For chest pain, 10 grain doses are given about four times daily.

This is a handy and simple method of handling an attack of coronary thrombosis until patient is put under the care of a physician.

CHRONIC RHEUMATISM AND ARTERIITIS. Sufferers with chronic rheumatism and arthritis will find many helpful suggestions as to diet, heat, massage, and other aids in Dr. Barton's booklet entitled "Chronic Rheumatism and Arthritis." To obtain it, send 10 cents and a 3-cent stamp, to cover cost of handling and mailing, to The Bell Syndicate, Inc. in care of this newspaper, 134 Bloor St. West, Toronto 5, Ont., and ask for your copy.

The Stars Say --

By Genevieve Kemble

For Sunday, October 8

A PLEASANT surprise is forecast, sensational, perhaps spectacular, in its happy denouement, affecting promotion, fulfilled hopes and wishes, together with rich promise for a tangible reapportionment of work and ambitions of far-reaching scope and importance. Expansive influences are at work, rewards and emoluments for work well done. There may be surprising angles, with spectacular denouement, friendly relations and enduring favors, with surprising advancement or power.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is, are assured a pleasant and happy weekend, possibly with celebrations and festivities to announce a spectacular event, promotion, honors or perhaps the fulfillment of a greatly-desired wish or hope. Change romance and stirring adventure are in the air, possibly literally and actually as well as figuratively.

A child born on this day is bounteously endowed with originality, constructive talents, inventive and novel with the assurance of spectacular rewards and emoluments.

For Monday, October 9

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for an exciting state of affairs, with much stirring about, and lively adventure in which it might be possible to overdo. There is also danger of being carried to excess and acts of indiscretion. It would be easy to lose the temper, or to indulge in some sort of intemperate conduct. Be sure to keep tongue and temper in control. Avoid excited persons and situations.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is, may be prone to act under stress of excitement, to be high tempered and quarrelsome, "flying off the handle" with little provocation. It would be wise to side-step all persons and situations of a provoking or irritating incitement. Apply excess energy to some constructive effort.

A child born on this day may be disposed to excitement, to pick quarrels and act with recklessness and over-indulgence.

NO DUMMY
