Stock Exchange Head Speaks To Rotarians

"The high cost of production, resulting in part from wage scales which have been materially increased in the past few years, small consumer capacity in Canada which makes mass production more difficult, long distances to markets, as well as the premium on the Canadian dollar—all of these factors adversely affect the Canadian ability to compete, price-wise, with the products of other nations in the markets of the world, more particularly those of the United States and Great Britain."

H.G. Norman, C.M.G., President of the Montreal and Canadian Stock Exchange, stressed this situation in an address before the Rotary Club at the weekly luncheon meeting at the Charlotetown Hotel yesterday.

Mr. Norman, dealing briefly with some of the needs of the present time went on to describe the pioneering efforts in Canada of people who have left a heritage made up of courage, initiative, intelligence, ambition and determination. "This trust left to us by our forebears is a precious one and must not be broken."

Describing Canada as containing only a small portion of the world's population, Mr. Norman traced the development in the past few decades from an agricultural nation to one that now ranks fourth largest trader in the world.

"Various well-known factors have gained for us a position on world affairs that is all out of proportion to our share of the world's population, but one which carries with it heavy responsibilities," he said.

"Relative to world trade and world conditions generally, Canada would appear at present to be at a disadvantage from many points of view," Mr. Norman continued.

LABOR CRITICIZED

"Canadian labour leaders would appear to be determined to match for every job category, the wages, fringe benefits, and general living standards of the counterparts in the United States. "I wonder how they expect, with a population of 16 million the same standards as in the U.S.A. which has a population of over 170 million."

"Labor must realize that Canada has not got a consumer demand of a home population needed to keep her industries rolling at capacity of production and if our export markets are to be maintained, we must produce certainly not less per dollar of pay but more, or we will find ourselves priced out of the foreign markets."

"Canada's long-term outlook is bright," Mr. Norman continued, "but now is the time for business and labour to realize the necessity of close team work and, if necessary, some giving up on both sides, in order to be able to benefit by the long-term opportunities which are bound to come, provided we work for them."

Comparing the method in which the United States was developed by financial assistance some years ago from Great Britain, Mr. Norman pointed out that the British loaned money to the U.S.A. enterprises whereas in the case of U.S.A. investment in Canada, it is to the greater part an investment either in equities of Canadian enterprises or direct interest in natural resources.

"The answer to Canada's future growth and its ownership by Canadians lies in investment, and it is in and through this medium

Discusses Use Of Oil In Coal Producing Area

SYDNEY (CP) — Steve Dolhanty, vice-president of District 26, United Mine Workers of America (Ind), said Saturday people in Sydney using oil rather than coal to heat their homes was like "the president of General Motors driving a Ford."

He told a meeting of municipal and union leaders called to discuss shutdowns in Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation mines he had a list of coeres of Sydney residents who have switched to oil. He said if they were still using coal the 25-day shutdowns could have been cut by five days, and two years steady production for two of the district's small privately-owned mines would be assured.

The shutdowns, on a staggered basis extending into the fall, were deemed necessary by the company to reduce its 1,500,000 ton coal stockpile.

"The people who are horrified at the situation today are those who are burning oil," Mr. Dolhanty said. "We have lost a market for 500,000 tons of coal in the Maritimes alone."

"The miners have been left alone in the struggle to have the coal industry survive. We have frozen wages since 1952 and still we find many people in our own area ready to replace coal with oil."

"It's high time we took inventory of ourselves."

31 Convicted In Cockfight Case

AMHERST (CP) — Magistrate A. C. Milner said Thursday 31 persons have been convicted and penalized in connection with a cockfight last May at nearby Beckwith, N. S.

About 40 persons from several Maritime points were dispersed in an R.C.M.P. raid May 18. They were charged with encouraging the fighting of birds.

Fines ranged from $10 to $50 for spectators and owners of birds and $100 for the operator of the pit.

R.C.M.P. said there might be more prosecutions.

A number of fighting cocks, some of them dead, were seized in the raid.

Wedding Gift Is Not Refundable

LONDON (Reuters)—An American widow who gave her British husband £15,000 ($42,000) on their wedding eve Monday failed in the Appeals Court to regain possession of the money.

The marriage of Lady Prescott, widow of Sir George Prescott, to Thomas Peregrine Fellowes, 41, in 1953 lasted only one year.

Fellowes, a former Royal Air Force officer, argued in court that she had received "good value" out of the year of marriage to him.

The court disagreed but said that on a pure question of law the money must be regarded as an outright gift.

Lord Justice Romer added, however, that the gift seemed "a heavy price" for a year during which the husband showed more affection for the wife's fortune than the wife herself.

"Target Incentive" Basis For Warship Cost Criticised

OTTAWA (CP) — Criticism of the system under which final costs of naval vessels is not known for years after commissioning was heard Monday in the Commons estimates committee considering expenditures of the defence production department.

"Personally I think it is a pretty sloppy way to do business," said Alfred D. Hales (PC—Wellington South). He asked whether other production jobs were handled the same way.

D. A. Golden, deputy minister, said the lengthy and exhaustive audit conducted on the operation of producing naval units meant it was impossible to know the exact cost of a destroyer escort, for instance, until long after the vessel had been accepted.

The last destroyer escort program audit should be completed by the end of 1958, he said.

Contracts for future destroyer escort construction would be on the "target incentive" basis as in

Sales Of Filter Cigarettes Increase Rapidly In Canada

MONTREAL (CP)—Filter cigarettes, once regarded as a fad by those who preferred their tobacco smoke straight, have become a significant factor in a highly-competitive business. If the present trend continues, filters may soon account for more than half the sales of cigarettes in Canada.

Men in the tobacco business are reticent about releasing figures on their sales. But several companies admit that filter cigarettes represent an increasing percentage of their output.

At present there are about 20 brands of filter cigarettes being sold and an indication of their popularity rise is that at least half have made their debut in the last year or so.

A. W. S. Pollock, president of Rothmans of Pall Mall, Toronto, says the development of filter smoking can be traced back to 1952-53 when "the lung cancer scare swept the United States and caused a five-per-cent slump in the sale of cigarettes."

HALF ARE FILTERS

"As a result of investigation by both manufacturers and others, an effective filter was developed. Since then the sale of filter cigarettes... has grown and now is approaching 50 per cent of total usage of cigarettes."

Edward C. Wood of Montreal, president of Imperial Tobacco whose company claims 50 per cent of the Canadian market, says filters made up between 35 and 40 per cent of his firm's sales last year, compared with 25 per cent in 1956. The main reason, he said, was introduction of a new brand of longer filter-pipe cigarettes.

With the average pack-a-day smoker spending more than $100 a year on cigarettes, Canadians paid out more than half a billion dollars for smokes last year. Bureau of statistics figures show taxes were paid on 30,149,000,000 cigarettes compared with 26,997,000 in 1956. The bill will be higher this year.

WON'T FADE AWAY

As to the onetime suggestion that filters would eventually fade

Douglas Jung Delays Reply

BONN, West Germany (Reuters) — Douglas Jung, Canadian member of Parliament at present visiting West Germany, Monday declined to comment on remarks about him by Liberal Senator J. W. de B. Farris in the Canadian Senate.

"This is the first I have heard about it," Jung said. "I do not think I can say anything until I have read the full text of what Senator Harris said in Hansard."

Farris said of Jung, who is one of Chinese origin, "what right has this Chinaman got to represent the Canadian people?"

Farris was commenting on a statement in Paris by Jung, a Progressive Conservative, that Canadian delegations to Russia were handicapped and biased.
