LONDON, June 8.

A Paris correspondent states that the communication which Count Schouvaloff brings to London is not a note in a diplomatic sense, but a letter from Prince Gortschakoff in reply to what Schouvaleff took with him to St. Petersburg. In his letter Lord Derby drew the attention of Russia to various points where English interests may be affected if Russian action extended so far. They were mentioned in Cross's speech in Parliament, and are the Suez Canal and Egypt, Constantinople, Dardanelles, Persian Gulf. The letter takes up these points and explains that Russia does not mean to interfere with any of them. Gortschakoff acknowledges the great international and commercial importance of the Suez Canal, and gives the most positive assurance that Russia does not intend in any way to touch it. Russia indeed thinks herself entitled, as a matter of right, to carry the war to Egypt, but explains that any action in that direction has never been even taken into consideration. Russia thinks so important a maritime passage as the Dardanelles must always be regulated by international agreement, and not by any one power alone.

The letter says Russia has remained true to her programme in aiming only at the improvement of the condition of Christians in Turkey, which can only be done by coercing the Porte. As soon as Russia has achieved this she will fall back on the resolutions of the Constantinople Conference, and contend for such guarantees as will ensure the efficiency of reforms, asking the Powers to take up the thread where it was broken by the dissolution of the Conference.

Correspondence.

To the Editor of the Daily Examiner.

Perhaps it will rain to-night, and perhaps it won't. If it don't, I suppose we will have to continue to eat dust. It is very humiliating to be forced to swallow that kind of food, and then you have to take it in at every opening. It's not nice, and, besides, the Doctors say it is bad for the lungs. Really, Mr. Editor, the last few days has been enough to make a man feel that the old proverb is true: "Dust thou art, and dust shalt thou eat all the days of thy life." But then can nothing be done? I would be willing to sell the Mount Edward Well and all the fixtures, or dispose of a portion of "Big Donald" for old brass, or cut a few feet off the city gas bill, or dispense with the services of one or more of those useful men who catch the cows for us; or, I think, I would have been even willing to let Pownal Wharf go for something less than eight hundred dollars, if, by so doing, we could afford the experiment of watering carts for the city. Mr. Editor, I give it up. Try your hand.

Yours, etc.,

DUST EATER.

BERMUDA ISLANDS.—Robert J. Smith, a colored native of the Bermudas, will deliver a lecture in the Y. M. C. A. Hall this evening, on the above-named Islands. This gentleman has delivered lectures in the western part of the Island, of which the Summerside Journal says:—

"The lecture, delivered in an easy, graceful style, was a pleasing narrative of the history, the resources, the scenery, and the character of the inhabitants. Those who thought that it would be almost impossible to deliver an interesting and instructive lecture on Bermuda were agreeably disappointed. Although the subject was tame and simple, yet so skilfully was it handled that the audience was not only pleased but delighted."
