MR. AND MRS. W. E. J. SMITH

Double Ring Ceremony Performed At Zion Church

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at Zion Presbyterian Church, Charlottetown, on Saturday afternoon, October twelfth, at 2.30 o'clock, when Marlene Joyce, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Earl Balderston of Cross Roads, was united in the Holy Bonds of Matrimony to Wallace Edison J. Smith, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Edison J. Smith of Pownal. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Reverend W. Harold Brown. The church was tastefully adorned with baskets of gladioli, chrysanthemums and dahlias. The guest pews were marked with white satin bows.

Traditional music was played by the guest organist, Mrs. Edwin Johnstone. The guest soloist Mr. Joseph Wootton sang "Because," before the ceremony and "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father who gave her in marriage. She wore a floor length gown of white nylon sheer, featuring a square neckline. The fitted Grecian draped bodice buttoned in back with tiny covered buttons extending below the waist. The sleeves were short, with gauntlets tapering over the hands. Embroidered floral appliques, glittering with iridescent circlets embellished the bodice and magnificent skirt which drifted to a floor-sweep over lustrous bridal satin and hoop. Her chapel length veil of French illusion, caught to a headdress of net and lace, with iridescent sequin trim, completed her ensemble. She carried a cascade bouquet of Queen Elizabeth yellow roses, with showers of yellow sweetheart roses.

The maid of honor, Miss Linda Smith of Pownal, sister of the groom, wore a ballerina length gown of nylon chiffon over net and taffeta, in a soft shade of shrimp. It featured a fitted shirred bodice, with floating panels at the back, with matching mitts and headdress. She carried a cascade bouquet of cream mums, centered with pink sweetheart roses.

The bridesmaids, Miss Marjorie Balderston, Cross Roads, cousin of the bride, and Miss Myra Joan Wood, Cross Roads, friend of the bride, wore identical gowns mitts and headdress as the maid of honor, and carried baskets of cream mums, with pink sweetheart roses, and streamers of green and silver toned ribbon.

Roger Balderston, brother of the bride, was best man. The ushers were Winston Smith, Soutport, cousin of the groom, and Blake Wood, Cross Roads, friend of the bride and groom.

The bride's mother wore for her daughter's wedding, "a Mocha brown Marie France lace dress over crushed rose taffeta' with gloves, hat and shoes of dawn pink, and a corsage of pink sweetheart rosebuds.

The groom's mother wore a silk faille sapphire blue dress, with white and black accessories, a mink neckpiece, and a corsage of white carnations.

Following the ceremony, the wedding party received in the main dining-room of the Queen Hotel, where covers were laid for seventy-eight guests. The bride's table was nicely decorated with baskets of cut flowers, and centered with a three tier wedding cake. The grace was said by the Reverend W. Harold Brown. A toast proposed to the bride by the toastmaster, Mr. Ralph Balderston, and responded to by the groom. Telegrams were read by the toastmaster, and fitting remarks were made by the Reverend W. Harold Brown, and the Reverend T. R. Goudge, of Pownal.

Miss Gail Sheidow, Millview, was in charge of the guest book.

For travelling, the bride chose a beige flecked suit, with gold hat and gloves, and brown shoes and bag. Her corsage was of coppery yellow glads. Following the reception the bride and groom left by car for the United States.

Out of town guests at the wedding were, Miss Vida Finlayson, of West Roxbury, the Misses Jane and Florence Nicholson of Cambridge, Mrs. Herbert Panton, of Cambridge, Mrs. Victor Boyce of Cambridge, and Mrs. Richard Bond, of Connecticut.

ELLEN'S DIARY

The Babe Of The House Produces A First Tooth

Glimpses of sun, "spindrift" of shower, breeze of the hills — that was today. But not cold. Nevertheless as Jeanie remarked looking out to the bare boughs and the restless, blown leaves. "The melancholy days are come, the saddest of the year "November's days are not natural subjects for versification and yet they have inspired we remember some of the poets' best verse

And the wind which blew so strongly as to bind and wind the little white wash on the clothesline, has now blown out, as though it were only a small candlelight, the whole week of days . . .

By tomorrow it comes to mind the babe in the house across the lane, and in a manner its centre and light, will have reached the half year milestone on his road of life He brings to grace it, his happy smile which discloses a recently won first tooth, and by this is a laddie of considerable stature and weight

Cast we would say, in his elder brother Mack's mould, being broadish rather than tall, he now weighs all of nineteen pounds No cry-baby, he can however, indicate his displeasure by a wail which quickly summons one or another of his nurse entertainers to his side One of the expressions that intrigues us, is the low and lowering sleepy song he hums which tells us that he is edging out into dreamland.

And "Listen!" we say remembering other babes we have heard "he's singing himself to sleep!"

Presently a silence gives us an engaging sight We look in upon him in the old cot, eye lashes closed, hair, fair against the pillow, tint of apple blossom on his cheek, body relaxed content And on softest footfalls we turn away from the pictured innocence of baby-hood to that strange mixture of virtues and sinnings which go to make up the adult life.

This week? Our farming, on borrowed time now, made fine progress, a pair of plowmen bending energies to have the fields orderly and off now to rest. One day, took Jamie and Gage across the Strait to visit with their Dad at the Maritime Fair, so happy to be with the one whom Gage "misses in the morning most. . . and again in the evening, when the night comes down"

And the week is gone. One of November's, now with wan sunlight, then clouded and damp And seeing, we remember:

"The clouds that cover the sunshine
They cannot banish the sun,
And the earth shines out the brighter
When the dreary rain is done
We must stand in the deepest shadow
To see the clearest light;
And often through wrong's own darkness
Comes the living strength of light.

We must live through the dreary winter
If we would value the spring;
And the woods must be cold and silent
Before the robins sing
The flowers must be buried in darkness
Before they can bud and bloom,
And the sweetest, warmest sunshine,
Comes after the storm and the gloom"

Until Monday — — Diary — — Goodnight

SUMMERFIELD C.W.L.

The Summerfield sub-division of the Catholic Women's League met at the home of Mrs. Pius Croken for their monthly meeting on Nov. 3rd with a large attendance of members and two visitors present.

The president, Mrs. Thomas Sullivan presided and opened the meeting with the League Prayer. Following the roll call, the minutes of the previous monthly meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. Loyola Deighan.

Nine members were present at the Regional Conference at South Rustico.

Correspondence read was as follows: Thank 'you note from Mrs. Beatrice Smith, Mrs. F.J. Steele re Meeting of Social Action Conveners, Church Supply Company in regards to Baptismal Candles, Mrs. F.J. Steele re Meeting of Press Conveners and Resolutions passed at Provincial Convention.

The treasurer, Mrs. C.W. Croken reported a substantial balance on hand. The conveners read their reports: Membership Convener, Mrs James Lawless reported seven new members. Magazine convener Mrs. John Cash reported four bundles of Literature sent to Foreign Missions. Social Service and condolence, Mrs. John Cash reported four cards sent.

Mrs. Bennett Deighan and Mrs. Austin Murphy were appointed to attend the meeting in Charlottetown, November 8th, in regards to "Crusade for the Catholic Press."

It was decided to order a quantity of Christmas cards from the Precious Blood Sisters. Mrs. Louis O'Connor attended the Social Action meeting in Summerside, October 28th. Mrs. O'Connor gave a very interesting report.

A vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. O'Connor by Mrs. C.W. Croken and seconded by Mrs. Leslie Trainor. Mrs. Fred Jones was the winner of one of the travelling aprons.

A vote of thanks was moved by Mrs. Spencer Hughes and seconded by Mrs. Pius Croken, presented to Mrs. Austin Murphy and Mrs. John Cash who supplied the material and made the aprons.

There being no further business the meeting was adjourned. Mrs. Gerard Allan invited the members to her home for the next meeting.

The Rev. Director read the Act of Consecration after which the president introduced Mr. and Mrs. Earl MacDonald of Summerside who with their family toured many countries of Europe this summer. Mr. and Mrs. MacDonald showed slides in connection with many of the beaury and historic spots they visited on their journey.

This proved very interesting and entertaining and the appreciation of those present was expressed by Mrs. Austin Murphy who moved a hearty vote of thanks. This was seconded by the president and presented to Mr. and Mrs. MacDonald.

Rev. Fr. Murray on behalf of those present, in a few well chosen words thanked Mr. and Mrs. MacDonald.

A social hour followed during which lunch was served by the hostess.

MARY HAWORTH

Husband Is A Big Flirt

Dear Mary Haworth: ever since we moved to this capitol city I've had a problem in my husband's amorous attentions to any women who smiles admiringly at him.

John is a self-made man. His parents were plain, hard-working country people who never seemed to have any fun. My parents were light-hearted and loving to their children and I've always been a happy and energetic person.

John is a college graduate and has been associated with educated people, and here he holds a position of distinction. He receives a good deal of attention wherever he goes, and is quite well-to-do.

When we first moved here receptions and cocktail parties were a cruel trial to me—knowing no one. My husband would leave me almost immediately—on the arm of some woman eager to be seen with the new man, and perhaps be photographed with him.

SUCKER FOR FLATTERY

The problem is John's reaction to any wide-eyed young thing who comes along and says: "Oh, Mr. X I think you are wonderful. I've admired you for years and wanted to meet you." John will companionably take her arm or put his arm around her, and stand there as long as she cares to talk and admire him.

I've asked him not to do this, saying that such behavior is undignified in a man of his years and truly worthwhile achievements; but it hasn't a particle of effect on him. In fact he gets worse and often salutes the stranger with a kiss. At dinners he will loll on a sofa, too close to one of the ladies; or squeeze himself between two women, when there is ample seating elsewhere.

I think his make - up has changed. He drinks excessively and every night, and often has trouble keeping awake.

He has a loving devoted family who've always appreciated his many fine qualities, so it isn't a question of lack of admiration or compliments from his wife and grown children.

Please help me. I don't know how to cope with the flirting. I don't think I'm jealous, but I don't like to be put in a ridiculous light either.—V.W.

WIFE'S FAILING

Dear V.W.: Simply stated, you and John are drifting apart at present. A rift has developed. You are no longer "one" in facing life.

And I wonder if the key to the trouble is given in your statement, to wit: "When we first moved here, receptions and cocktail parties were a cruel trial to me, knowing no one."

You go on to say that John would leave you almost immediately, wafted away on the arm of some female celebrity-chaser.

You think of yourself as a happy energetic person with a fortunate background; but when tossed into the big town social pond to sink or swim, as a person in your own right, your figuratively sank, it seems.

You were a social flop, not a success, on first inspection, as the wife of a VIP. I gather John sensed the deficit when confronted by the pitiless searchlight of cosmopolitan society; and it seems he lacked the genuine self-assurance to make up the difference out of his stature and sweep you along with him protectively. He took a different tact, sort of fading away from you into the crowd, by implication disowning you for the time being. Which, of course, added to your difficulties and your defeat.

VALUES ARE CONFUSED

As for John, plainly his head is being turned. His sense of values is currently confused. And possibly his age, and certain physical or glandular changes attendant on age, are factors contributing to his foolish behavior with respect to women. As a wifely precaution, tactfully engineer him into a thorough physical check-up by a first-rate diagnostician.

Equally important, however, is a program of self-improvement. Stop policing and nagging John, and be creative about your potentials. Beautify your figure, complexion, hair and hair-styling with expert direction—since John is well-to-do. Get a new wardrobe of lovely clothes from the skin out, that help you look charming, soignee and different from the old routine.

Learn some youthifying skills—as dancing, golfing, public speaking. Also learn to hold your own at bridge, gin rummy or other diverting card games.

Hit a pace of constructive change—or call it flowering—in your own personality, that will regain John's interest spontaneoulsy. M. H.

Rosa Bell, Ph. C., Is Pharmaceutical Treasurer

Business and professional women have been established for several generations now in Canada. It is surprising therefore to realize how many fields they are still entering for the first time.

Just quite recently there has been the appointment of a woman bank manager in the Bank of Montreal, the first woman president, Muriel Gidley Stafford, of the Canadian College of Organists, and now in our own province for the first time a woman has been elected as treasurer of the Prince Edward Island Pharmaceutical Association. The person receiving this signal honor is Miss Rosa Bell, Ph.C., of Charlottetown.

It is indeed a history making event to have a woman on the Island council. Miss Bell has been receiving warmest congratulations and the Association is to be complimented upon its good judgment in so honoring itself and Miss Bell. The many friends of Rose Bell all wish her a happy tenure of office.

HURLED BOMB; NO AIM

JERUSALEM (AP)—The man who threw a bomb into the Israeli parliament last month told a Jerusalem court Thursday he tossed it without aiming and that he did not intend to harm anyone. Moshe Ben Hacobe Doueg admitted throwing the hand grenade as a protest against the Jewish agency's refusal to meet an accident claim. Premier David Ben - Gurion and four ministers were wounded by the bomb.

P.E.I. Music Festival Plans For Coming Season

A booklet that would rate as a best-seller except that no charge is made for it has just come off the press. It is the syllabus for the Prince Edward Island Music Festival, 1958. Copies are now available at the music stores in Charlottetown and a number are being sent to Alberton, Montague and some other centres. It is planned to place a few copies in branch libraries of the Prince Edward Island libraries, so that anyone will be able to obtain this important little pamphlet without too much difficulty.

Plans for the Music Festival are practically a year-round affair for the executive of the association and members of the various committees. Now those all-important people — the competitors — may begin their preparations. The music stores are making arrangements to procure copies of the test pieces as soon as possible. It is hoped that early ordering of the music will prevent difficulties and delays in obtaining the selections required. Teachers and students are urged to purchase their music soon even if they do not intend to work on it until later.

Several new classes have been added with the object of giving more people the chance to perform at the festival the sort of music that they enjoy doing. There are special sonatina classes for the twelve, fourteen and sixteen-year-old groups, and sight-reading classes both vocal and piano. A French folk-song is one of the alternatives given in the folk song chorus for adults. A class for pipe bands has been added. In the dancing section an interesting new class is "Flora MacDonald's Fancy" for groups aged ten to thirteen years.

Very few changes have been made in the rules. It will be noted that in the coming festival all classes will be competitive. Prince county contestants who wish to perform in Summerside will send their entries directly to Prince county secretary, Mrs. Wesley MacPhee, Summerside. This will facilitate arrangements for the Summerside division of the festival.

The Syllabus lists 105 classes for groups and 88 individuals. Many familiar titles will be found in the test pieces chosen for the 1958 festival Every Island who is musically inclined should be able to find a class that will prove for him an enriching musical experience The association looks forward to the 1958 Festival as the biggest and best ever!

Island Born Girl Attends N.Y. Dinner For Queen

Back from Europe just in time to go to the dinner given for Queen Elizabeth in New York was Priscilla Chapman, younger daughter of the John W Chapmans of West Newton

She arrived in Boston of the S S Statendam and then went to New York for the dinner party at the Waldorf-Astoria the 21st. She tells us that it was technically impossible for those at the dinner to attend the ball for the Queen at the 7th Regiment Armory because no one could leave the dinner BEFORE the Queen and no one could arrive at the BALL after her

But by squeezing into a few cars in the police escort that preceded the Queen's police escort, some arrived in time Priscilla feels that the race up Lexington Avenue was the most exciting part of the evening!

Her plans include a job in New York in aJnuary or February and in the summer she'll return to London, where she's been living for the past year with her sister, Mrs Alfred Washburn Wells (Dee Chapman)

Right now Priscilla plans to enjoy her first New England autumn in three years and to catch up on New England seasons She was graduated from Radcliffe College in 1954 and went to school in France the following year In 1955-56 she and Gail Scully of Belmont and Bridget Kimmins of London shared an apartment in New York

This news item is from the Boston Herald It is also interesting to note that Miss Priscilla Chapmans mother, Hazel Young Chapman, was born in her grandfather's house in Sturgeon

Of the 4 Chapman children John the oldest is studying in England at Oxford this winter and the youngest Woodley Llewellyn Chapman is at Harvard He was named for his great grandfather late of Sturgeon

Mrs Chapman has a farm in Gaspereaux to which she plans to retire soon All the Chapman children have made many trips to the Island to them it is "down home"

MONTAGUE C.W.L.

The regular monthly meeting of the Montague sub-division of the C.W.L. was held on Nov. 10 in the parish hall with a good attendance.

The president, Mrs. Joseph Callaghan presided and the director Rev. J.W. McCardle opened the meeting with the League prayer.

Tre minutes of the last meeting were read and approved, and as the treasurer was absent no report was given.

Correspondence consisted of a card of thanks from Mrs. F. L. Coyle for masses received.

Report of sick committees was given by Mrs. Joseph Lannigan and Mrs. Jerome Power and Mrs. George Boudreault were appointed on sick committee for next month.

The members from Greenfield were appointed on the church committee and Mrs. John Clair offered to take care of vigil lights for next month.

The organization committee is to present a gift to a member on behalf of the League who is leaving the parish.

The reports of the convener meeting held in Charlottetown, was given as follows: Social Welfare by Mrs. Joseph Callaghan, Catholic Press by Mrs. F.L. Coyle.

The Rev. Director in his remarks said that a wreath had been purchased from the Legion and Mrs. Levi Power was appointed to place same at the Kings County Memorial Hospital on Armistice Day. He also asked the C.W.L members to visit any newcomers to the parish.

It was moved and seconded that a series of card parties sponsored by the C.W.L to be held in the hall, the first beginning on Tuesday, Nov. 19. The ladies from Greenfield to supply lunch and take charge at the card-party and two members to purchase the prizes.

The lunch committee for the next meeting is to be Mrs. Lester Carpenter Mrs. Joseph Lannigan, Mrs. Levi Power and Mrs F.L. Coyle. The arrangements were made for the annual chicken supper and bazaar to be held on Nov. 13 after which the meeting closed with prayer followed by lunch served by the committee in charge.

Solutions Offered For South's Racial Problems

The Christian Science Monitor in their article "Into the Vanguard" writes as follows:

Those 74 white Protestant clergymen of Atlanta have "said a mouthful." Signing as individuals, not for their churches or any organization, they put forth a statement of six indispensables" for the South's solution of its racial problems. They are, in brief:

1. Freedom of speech, either for or against desegregation, must be preserved "at all costs."
2. The law must be obeyed, even though those who disagree have a right to work for changing it.
3. The public-school system must be preserved; its destruction would "inflict tremendous loss on multitudes of children."
4. Hatred and scorn for those of another race or those who hold opinions differing from our own "can never be justified."
5. Communications between responsible leaders must be maintained pointed toward solutions based on cooperation, free choice equal rights, and the integrity of both races.
6. Recognizing that the problems transcend human strength and wisdom, " we would dedicate ourselves and summon all men of good will" to prayer and obedience to God's will.

Historically the clergy have often stood as pillars of the status quo, but then, when aroused over a moral issue, have moved up into the very vanguard of progress — as have these six dozen ministers of Atlanta.

ROSENEATH W.I.

The Roseneath Women's Institute held their annual meeting at the Hill Side Inn, Montague, on Tuesday night, November 12th. A delicious turkey dinner was much enjoyed by all.

The work of the past year was reviewed by the secretary and several reports for the year were given
