

The Burial of Moses.

And he buried him in a valley in the land of Moab, over against Beth-peor; but no man knoweth of his sepulchre unto this day.

By Nebo's lonely mountain, On this side Jordan's wave, In a vale in the land of Moab, Lies a lonely grave;

That was the grandest funeral That ever passed on earth; But no man heard the trumping Or saw the train go forth;

Noislessly, as the daylight Comes when the night is done, And the crimson streak on ocean's cheek Grows into the great sun;

Noislessly, as the springtime Her crown of verdure weaves, And all the trees on all the hills Open their thousand leaves—

So, without sound of music, Or voice of them that wept, Silently down from the mountain crown The great procession swept.

Lo, when the warrior dieth, His comrades in the war, With arms reversed and muffled drum Follow the funeral car;

They show the banner taken, They tell his battles won, And after him lead his master's steed, While peals the minute gun.

Amid the noblest of the land Men lay the sage to rest, And give the bard an honored place With costly marble dressed;

In the great minister's transept, Where lights like glories fall, And the choir sings and the organ rings Along the embowed wall.

This was the bravest warrior That ever buckled sword; This the most gifted poet That ever breathed a word;

And never earth's philosopher Traced with his golden pen On the deathless page truths half so sage As he wrote down for men.

And had he not high honor, The hill-side for his pall; To lie in state while angels wait, With stars for tapers tall;

Oh, lonely tomb in Moab's land: Oh, dark Beth-peor's hill! Speak to these curious hearts of ours, And teach them to be still.

God hath His mysteries of grace, Ways that we cannot tell; He hides them deep like the secret sleep Of him He loved so well.
