Mr. Fullerton being the principal speaker, and the evening passed very pleasantly. The good ladies who so kindly remembered the poor folks are deserving of the hearty thanks of all.

THE FITNESS OF THINGS.—At Lincoln, Ky., lives a man named J. C. Paradise. Last week the Baptist ministers of that district held a meeting in the town, and among the preachers was a Rev. Mr. Edea, and some folks with an eye to the fitness of things found occasion to introduce the two men to each other. The minister facetiously remarked that Mr. Paradise was as near Eden as the ever would be, and Paradise rather took the minister slack by suggesting to him that he was nearer Paradise than he was ever likely to be again.

CROSBLEY AND HUNTER.

A very good turnout of children gathered in the Upper Prince Street Methodist Church yesterday afternoon. Mr. Crosby presided at the organ and the children assisted at the singing. Mr. Crosby's address was on the word "Way." Jesus is the way to various exercises, all beginning with the letter "p." (1) pardon (2) peace (3) purity (4) pleasure (5) paradise. His address was interspersed with anecdotes and song illustrating the various points.

Mr. Hunter then spoke on the word "Friend," taking each letter to show how Christ was a friend. (1) faithful friend; (2) royal friend; (3) interested friend; (4) everlasting friend; (5) near friend; (6) dear friend. The address closed with an invitation to the children to accept Christ.

Last night's meeting was well attended, and the entire exercises were of a very interesting and profitable character. Besides the evangelists, the Revs. Messrs. Campbell, Kirby, Corey, James, Sutherland and D. H. Lodge were in attendance. The singing of Mr. Crosby was exceptionally good.

Mr. Hunter spoke from Matt. V. and gave a practical talk to the church members.

Mr. Crosby spoke of evangelic interest in our salvation, from Luke xv-10. A powerful after meeting was held in the basement, and many decided for Christ. The meetings are growing in power and in interest.

MR. F. W. L. MOORE'S LECTURE.

F. W. L. Moore, Barrister-at-law, delivered a very interesting and instructive lecture before some seventy students, assembled in the rooms of the Charlottetown Business College this morning. Mr. Moore went into his subject very minutely and interestingly, as was evidenced by the close attention every point received. The lecture occupied about one and a half hours which expired only 100 men. There were several guests present including some of our leading teachers and professors.

At the conclusion of his lecture Mr. Moore was tendered the usual vote of thanks by Principal Miller.

Mr. Moore is not only a very pleasing speaker, but his ideas appear to be well thought out. To say the least, his lecture was very instructive and much appreciated.

SOLDIERS BETTER OFF THAN FORMERLY.

During the late war many of the Southern soldiers suffered severely from the cold during long marches, and a favorite device was to wrap newspapers around the body under their tunics. There is much warmth in a newspaper, but says aly military people in the States use Fibre Chamouis in their uniforms, it is both durable and porous and gives the most healthful and comfortable protection against all cold and wind absolutely and thus preserving the natural healthy pores of the body. Its light weight and pliable stiffness as well as its paltry price make it of exceptional value in uniforms, then it adds warmth without bulk. Nov. 23.

PERSONAL.

Mr. M. J. Johnstone, of the Merchants Bank of Halifax, Kingston, N. B., is visiting Charlottetown. His many friends are pleased to see him looking so well.

Rev. A. D. Macdonald was recently presented with a handsome coin skin coat by the people of Montrose, Elmalee and Tignish, amongst whom he has been laboring with much acceptance for some time past.

At the annual meeting of the Catholic Truth Society, of Ottawa, held on Sunday, 17th inst., Rev. M. J. Whelan, pastor of St. Patrick's Church, was elected as President, in succession to Mr. Joseph Pope. Mr. W. C. DeBrixy was re-elected secretary, and Messrs. Pops and J. A. McKeown were appointed on the Executive Committee.

WILL BUILD A HOSPITAL.—A professional nurse in Chicago, who has just fallen heir to a great English fortune, refuses to give up her profession, and quietly announces that, instead, she will build a hospital. She is thoroughly imbued with the spirit that has given the world its most heroic women.

BOTH WERE BURNED.—While burning some rubbish in her yard in Carleton, N. B., a few days ago, Mrs. Jasper (Gardner) was badly burned by her chimney taking fire. Her husband also was considerably burned in trying to help her.

LETTER FROM OUR COUNTRY COUSIN.

In the long evenings and comparatively leisure time of this season, I have often felt inclined to send you a letter on the supposition that you read the paper with interest and amusement, by having put before them the views of a countryman not on farming only, but on the political interests of farmers, on sport, and on things in general.

I am the more induced to take this course because I see that our so-called agricultural journals are made up principally of extracts from other papers, sometimes useful and appropriate, but more frequently unadapted to our circumstances, and sometimes utterly absurd. For instance, we frequently get directions for the cultivation of winter wheat and the best way of seeding the land, and the clover, and I have seen it seriously urged that a sow should not be allowed to suckle her young more than four months!

Being on the subject of pigs, let me say that I think the production of pork, under favorable circumstances, and with judicious management, a paying industry to the farmer, and should not be neglected. Proper buildings are necessary. They should be well ventilated, dry and especially warm. The pig is a chilly animal and revels in warmth. The first litter should come early so that the sow can be bred in time for a second to follow when the weather is warm. Some farmers take one litter and then feed the sow, and they say it pays. But there is a prejudice against young sows, and if you have a choice animal, and a sure breeder, ductile and gentle, it pays to keep her, and if you get two litters a year, not otherwise. It is advisable to have a bit of clover near the house fenced off for the sow and her young ones. If this is a pond and a bit of wood in it, all the better. They delight in a mud bath, with a rough bark tree to scrub against, and they luxuriate in the cool shade of the wood during the heat of the day. Have a coppen net fenced with strong logs high enough from the ground for the young to get under. Here put their trough and feed them milk if you have it, slightly thickened at first with oatmeal, gradually increased as they get older, when at five or six weeks. But now you must be careful not to let them go back. Keep steadily increasing the feed so that they are continually gaining both in growth and flesh. To do this the business profitable the farmer should grow most, if not all his feed. A patch of winter rye sown in September of the previous year comes early, and is a lovely feed. But early barley is the standard. The four or six rowed variety should be put in as early in the spring as possible in a sheltered field. Here I may remark, that if you intend to go into the pork industry you need a small field devoted to the purpose. Have it half in barley, half in clover alternately. No barn yard manure will be required. A lime and potash dressing occasionally will give excellent results. Get your pigs ready for the early market which is often the best, and they require less feed before cold weather sets in. The advantages of this method is that the young pigs are healthier, the exercise they get in grazing tends to develop muscle giving a good share of lean meat which nowadays is highly appreciated.

As to breeds there are so many good ones and such a number of good crosses that you cannot go astray. The LanwORTH and Duroc Jerseys are coming into favor. But for an all round pig, it is hard to beat the Berk. He certainly has the merit of being the best grazer which is an important object.

Now to change the subject, how is your friend the Guardian? Have you settled him or has he settled you? I see there is an end to the squabbling which is a blessing. His attention is directed to the Civil Service Examiners. He likes to go for an Exam (ier). They are not likely to h-back, so he is safe unless from the thrust of a free lance. I don't think he shines as an examiner, though he has excellent material, and I cannot but admit that the papers are a disgrace to the Dominion of Canada who ever made them out. But let us take a look at the Guardians corrections. If I am not in error, it looks like the pulling the kettle black. He quotes the following as an example of bad spelling: "What are meant by correlative adverbs?" Here he displays his ignorance both of grammar and orthography. He fails to correct the glaring error in grammar, while contending that correlative is incorrectly spelled—which it is not. What is meant by correlative adverbs? should have been the sentence, if my ideas of grammar have not gone astray. The Guardian quotes another exercise which, to my mind, shows hypercriticism if not ignorance. "What route would a traveller follow, taking Marselle as a starting point, to reach Japan via Canadian territory?" Name the oceans, straits, gulfs and lands through which he would pass. The editor asks, "Can an ordinary traveller on an ordinary journey from Marselle to Japan be properly said to pass through the oceans and gulfs?" Certainly, if he came in a vessel to Montreal from Marselle he would pass through the gulf of St. Lawrence and probably would pass through the straits of Belle Isle, (he might pass through the Straits of Northumberland) and if he did not pass through the different countries on his route I do not know how he would get to his destination, unless he went in a balloon, when he might be said to pass over them. Now, let us take a specimen of the Guardian's own elegant composition and I will say good night. "What is the object in the civil service's insulting Great Britain in two places in the same manner in which John Bull insulted the Ditty?" Comment is needless. I will only add that it is advisable to perform the useful operation of extracting the mote from your own eye before you attempt to remove the beam from your brother's.

HOW TO AVOID GRIPPE.

Prepare your system to resist the ravages of grippe. This is the gripper's harvest season, and it is no respecter of persons. If your system is run down, you are a good mark for the disease.

Better to make some preparation for giving it a warm reception and turning it to the right about.

Almost any neighbor will tell you that to banish the cold, purify the blood, ensure perfect digestion, and give new vigor to the nerves, there is no more effective remedy than Hawker's nerve and stomach tonic. Having by its agency recognized and banished the cold, the gripper is no longer an enemy to be feared. To all who feel the need of a strengthening and invigorating tonic, this great remedy comes as a steadfast friend. It makes the sick well, and the weak strong. Thousands testify to its merits. Hawker's nerve and stomach tonic is sold by all druggists and dealers at 50 cents per bottle, or six bottles for $2.00, and is manufactured only by the Druggists' Manufacturing Co., (Ltd.), St. John, N. B., and New York City.

How to get a "Sunlight" Soap. Send 12 "Sunlight" soap wrappers to Lever Bros., Ltd., 43 Scott St., Toronto who will send post-paid a paper-bound book 160 pages. For 6 "Loa" Soap wrappers, a similar book will be sent. This is a splendid opportunity to obtain good reading. Send your name and address written carefully. Remember "Sunlight" sells for two cents, and "Loa" Soap for one cent. One cent postage will bring your wrappers by leaving the ends open.

Freedom of criticism of public officials is still one of the notable privileges of the West. A Kearney, Neb., newspaper remarks of a recently elected judge that he celebrated his election to the district bench by remaining sober for a whole day.

MAKES NEW FRIENDS ALL THE TIME and keeps them too. The finest tonic on the market is "Widow's Invalid" Port Wine, which is asked for by all invalids, debilitated, nervous people, as it has peculiar properties which make it invaluable to all such. These are its undoubted blood-making property, being a fine old rich wine of body and strength, its restorative properties, for it is the testimony of thousands that after use there is a feeling of strength and buoyancy to which the listless body and spirit have been strangers. A fine old wine, which one might drink without a thought of medicinal property, which is in the character of the beverage itself, and is not anything super-added. Sold by all dealers at $1.25 per case of 12 quart bottles; half case $0.90, or 75 cents per bottle. Address—Bordeaux Claret Co., 30 Hospital Street, Montreal, 246.

He was born in the Isle of Skye, Scotland, emigrated to the Island of Prince Edward, 1831, where he took his abode on New Glasgow Road, and there remained a faithful resident till his death. He had long been noted for his generosity and hospitality. He was a kind and generous man, open to the poor and needy. He bore his illness with patience and resignation to the Divine Will, looking unto Jesus as his never failing friend. Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord.
