"Take Three Girls" Delights Large Audience

The Three-act Comedy "Take Three Girls" presented by the Charlottetown Baptist Young People's Union under the direction of Mr. Stirling W. Inman opened to a capacity audience in Pownall Hall Monday evening. From the rise to final curtain this cleverly written and well-acted play kept the audience in almost continuous laughter.

Misses, Eva Wood, Eleanor Carson and Iris Lewis as the "Three Girls" are most charming and handle admirably their private romances despite the eagle-eye of their man-hating spinster Aunt Bertine - played so convincingly by Ruth Gardiner.

The setting for this delightful comedy is at a summer-resort hotel "Topp Inn" with its shrewd owner Betty Inman whose only interest is money. Her guests include Stirling Inman and Harvey Ford; two playboys who have by coincidence chose the same hotel as the "Three Girls". Needless to say a series of exciting and laughable incidents follow while they employ every method at their disposal to promote each other's romance. Fortunate for them that a fortune-teller of fame in the person of Madam Zola played by Wilma Ladner, happens to be stopping at the hotel. She foresees the future—or does she?
