A SURGEON'S TABLE.

AN OPERATION PERFORMED TO SAVE HIS LIFE.

Thrilling Story of a Man Who Took Chloroform and Experienced a Very Difficult Operation.

Never mind what my complaint was. I was a terrified, crushed, trembling dazed man, for I had received my sentence which was that "a very grave operation must be performed within a week if my life were to be saved."

The succeeding events resembled a terrible nightmare. I remember giving the address of my friends to an official, being conducted to a ward, making an apology for a meal and then being ordered to bed. Two days later the house surgeon, when making his visit to the ward, came to my bedside and said:—

"Mr. M——" (mentioning the name of a great surgeon) "has decided to perform the operation to-morrow morning at nine." He then instructed the sister of the ward to keep me without breakfast next morning (chloroform, I'm told, always being more safely administered on an empty stomach), and with a few cheery words bade me "good-night."

Few readers will be surprised to learn that even a sleeping draught produced little else but confusion of thought and excited half waking dreams. But sleep came in the early morning, and it was nearly 9 before I awoke to find two nurses and the ward porter standing by my bed, the latter being in charge of a low basket litter on wheels, which was used to convey patients to and from the operating theater.

Pale and trembling, I was assisted into this means of transport, and a second later the rubber tired wheels were rumbling along the rather uneven floor of the ward, en route for the "Chamber of Horrors."

As I was run along between the long rows of beds, such patients as were able raised themselves on their elbows to get a glimpse of me, some wishing me "good luck," and others expressing their pity for me in none too comforting phraseology.

After traversing two wards and a long corridor, I was placed, carriage and all, in a lift, and was run down to the ground floor, where my journey through corridors and wards was repeated.

Just before reaching the fateful place a loud cheer and a hearty clapping of hands and stamping of feet caused me to look interrogatively at my conductor.

"Only them students giving Mr. M—— his usual cheer," he said, cheerfully.

Just at that moment more cheers reminded me of the reception a popular matador receives on entering the arena before a bull fight. A moment later the frosted glass swing doors were thrown open, and I was trundled into a large, light and very lofty room, somewhat in the shape of a horseshoe. Around the circular side of the place were tier above tier of benches thronged with eager students—for, unfortunately for me, my case was a very special one and required a very "heroic" operation. On the floor stood a narrow table of polished mahogany, fitted, as far as I could see, with all sorts of springs, screws and appliances for raising or depressing the headpiece or footpiece, or raising or lowering the top of the table as a whole. It was covered with blankets, protected by a spotlessly white mackintosh sheet. The room was oppressively hot, and the silence which followed upon my arrival was only broken by the gentle hissing of the carbolic spray. An odor of pungent but not unpleasant drugs, somewhat suggestive of a chemist's shop, permeated the theater. Gently, but quickly, I was lifted on to the table.

"Feel a bit shaky, eh?' asked the surgeon. "A tablespoonful of brandy, please, sister. Now that's better."

"We will proceed with the chloroform. Mr. Richardson," the great man said.

At these words a young doctor standing at my head bent over me, holding a towel in his hands. He managed to raise my lower jaw, and also to place the chloroform saturated towel over my mouth and nostrils at the same time. A sweet, burning, half pleasant, half sickly odor was emitted as I breathed.

"Breathe away quietly, and begin to count slowly up to a hundred."

"One, two, three, four, five, six, seven," I murmured, and then, somehow, a confusion of thought came upon me.

Where had I got to? It didn't in the least matter, I knew, but still it worried me. But yet, while even in the act of deciding to go on counting again, to begin at the beginning, I found that I was being suffocated, but still it was pleasant suffocation. I was uncertain as to whether I should struggle or not. That also didn't seem to be of much consequence. Queer throbbing sounds seemed to be acting on the depths of my brain—I can give no clearer description. There was a heavy, steady, but mighty loud beating of my heart, each beat of which appeared to churn up my brain.

And now I was hearing music—the divinest of music. The bass notes were supplied by the throbbing, heavy sound in my brain, but around me—just as though thousands of tiny fairies were playing the sweetest airs on thousands of most delicately tuned harps and the sweetest of little tinkling gold and silver bells—the treble portion of the melody was being enchantingly played. I thought I was in a sunny garden, gorgeous with the fairest flowers and scented with their perfumes. I was free from all disease, was deliriously happy and contented; the Elysian fields were around me; I wanted for nothing but to be left there to lie and gaze for millions of years!

But then suddenly the gardens became dark as night; a rushing, roaring wind swept over them; a crash, as of all this world's artillery being discharged at once, seemed to annihilate me and everything else, almost before I could realize any change from the gloriousness of my previous sensations. Then came nothingness.

Coming to earth again, I found myself in my bed in the ward. The house surgeon was feeling my pulse. I just noticed that there were screens around the bed, and that I felt comfortably sleepy, but a trifle sickly. Surely nothing could have happened since I fell into the chloroform sleep!

"Why didn't they do the operation after all?" I asked. The doctor smiled. "My dear fellow," he said, "I ought not to say it, perhaps, but if only you knew what you have gone through during the past two hours, you'd know why I smile at your question. Why, man, you have gone through an operation which has only been performed twice before in Europe! Oh, yes, they did do the operation after all. Now, ask no questions; lie still, don't talk, but try to sleep. Your life has been saved; you've a good constitution, and if you do as you are told you'll walk out of this place in less than three months a new man!"

I did, but I have never forgotten the

INJURY AND NEGLECT.

He Failed in Health and Strength—His Kidneys Ached and he took Dodd's Kidney Pills.

DESERONTO, Dec. 14. (Special).—Among business people here, and especially by his fellow workmen great interest has been taken in the case of Mr. James Stokes, who for the past fifteen years has been shipper for the Rathburn Company.

Lately he had run down in health and strength to the point of being compelled to quit work, and his recovery now as the result of using Dodd's Kidney Pills is the talk of the town. On seeing Mr. Stokes he said:—

"From over-lifting and strain I suffered greatly from kidney trouble, being advised, after all else had failed, to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. From the first dose I got relief, and hundreds of people here can vouch for my cure."

Calculations are being made that the passage of a United States tariff bill at the next session of Congress will depend upon securing two presently doubtful seats in the Senate. And if something has not to be done for silver to get these two votes, there is nothing in the lessons of political history over the border.

Hands and Feet Got Stiff

AS THOUGH PARALIZED.

A grateful young lady is Mis Annie Shepherd, of North Pelham, Ont., who writes as follow:—I had two very bad spells of it and was obliged to call in the doctor My hands and feet would get stiff as though I was paralyzed. I had to quit work and tried doctors' medicine, but did not get any help until I got Manley's Celery Nerve Compound. After taking five bottles I am restored to health again and can highly recommend it to any one who may suffer as I did. I am gaining in flesh and at work now.

Fergus, April 6, 1896

To Robert Phillips, Druggist, Fergus.

This is to certify that I have suffered from piles for a long time and tried several articles recommended for this complaint, but none of them benefitted me till I tried Chase's Ointment, which has completely cured me.

MRS. JOHN GERRIE.

R. Phillips, jr., Druggist Witness.

"My six-year-old daughter, Bella, was afflicted with eczema for 24 months, the principal seat of eruption being behind her ears. I tried almost every remedy I saw advertised, bought innumerable medicines and soaps, and took the child to medical specialists in skin diseases, but without result. Finally, a week ago, I purchased a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and the first application showed the curative effect of the Remedy. We have used only one-sixth of the box, but the change is very marked; the eruption has all disappeared, and I can confidently say my child is cured. (Signed) MAXWELL JOHNSTON, 112 Anne St., Toronto

Millions die annually through lack of care for the kidneys—the first sign of kidney trouble noticeable is a single pain in the back which gradually develops into that dreaded malady Bright's disease—one of the most alarming symptoms is highly colored urine giving bricklike deposits—do not delay when the slightest symptom has appeared—Kidney troubles are easily prevented in their earlier stages—if neglected they may become obstinate, chronic and perhaps fatal—medical science has proved that all kidney diseases arise from an excess of uric acid or kidney acid poison in the blood—One of Dr. Chase's kidney-liver pills if taken weekly will neutralize this acid and prevent any tendency to Bright's disease or Diabetes.

Have you any of these symptoms? Back Ache, Dull Heavy Pain in the Bladder or Base of the Abdomen, Pains in the Back and Sides, Unusual desire to urinate, Scalding urine with passage obstructed, Red or White deposits, Tired Feelings, Weakness, Dropsical Swellings, these are sure signs of kidney troubles.

Gentlemen,—I was troubled with my kidneys for ten years and was compelled to arise four and five times a night to urinate. The pain in my back was terrible. I have used enough plasters and pills to stock a drug store, and obtained no relief. The doctors pronounced my case hopeless and advised me to go to Toronto Hospital, and I had made up my mind to go when I read your advertisement in The Toronto Evening News calling your pill the great K. and L. Pill, which I took the meaning to be the KNIGHTS OF LABOR PILL, and being myself a member of that order I had confidence in the name, and I pronounce them the Workingman's Friend, for since taking them regular for three months, I can say I am entirely cured, and had I taken them years ago, would have saved hundreds of dollars in doctors' bills
