

New Items May Choose Leader

Prince Edward Island's New Democratic party may choose a provincial leader, when members meet Saturday, March 9, at Parkdale Hall to select candidates for the four federal seats in the April 8 election.

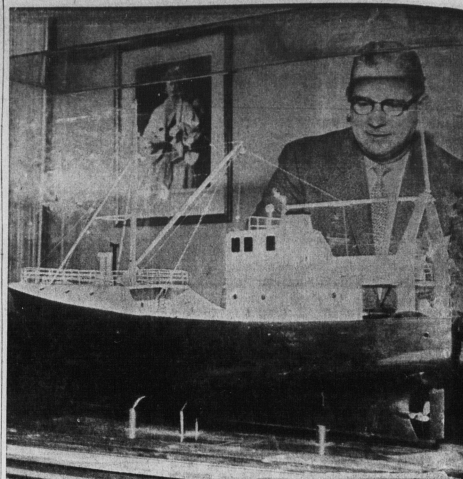

It will be the annual business meeting, it was learned yesterday from Ian J. Webster, provincial president. The Parkdale man explained that no definite decision has been made on the leadership question, and it will probably be decided at the meeting.

SET AHEAD
The meeting and convention has been set ahead one week from the March 2 date suggested earlier, because Malcolm MacInnis, the guest speaker, MP for Cape Breton South in the last parliament, has to attend his riding's nominating convention on that date.

There was nothing definite available on probable candidates, although Leo McIsaac is being suggested as a candidate in Queens, while Leo McIsaac yesterday and both Tommy Dupuy and Charlie Campbell are mentioned as possibilities in Kings. Mr. McIsaac contested Queens last time with Wilfred Innas as colleague. Innas is not offering this time, but some of the party faithful are hopeful Mr. McIsaac will consider.

Mr. Dupuy was the party's candidate in Kings last year when he staged one of the most active campaigns put on in this province in many years. Mr. Campbell has been prominent in party councils since it was organized here. Both are teachers in the regional high school at Morel.

Arnold Wood, Cape Wolfe, contested Prince for the party in 1962, but there was no information yesterday on his intentions this time.

STEEL TRAWLER MODEL EXAMINED

Decision on whether or not this province will enter the steel trawler fishing field may be made at a meeting of the Fishermen's Loan Board, scheduled for 10 a.m. today in the Province Building. Examining a model of the type trawler, the board is considering the Fisheries Minister, Leo Rossiter. This type of steel trawler is built by Bathurst Marine Limited of New Brunswick. Cost of a trawler of this type is about $250,000.

Higher Fees For Holsteins

Holstein breeders will have to pay slightly higher fees for calf registrations and for transfers, Director Parker Newson, Kingston said yesterday on return from the annual meeting of the national Holstein Friesian Association in Toronto. Registration will cost $2 for both male and female animals. Members of the association and transfers will cost $3 instead of $2 as members paid previously. Non-members will have to pay $5, Mr. Newson said.

Richard F. Haight, owner of Floral View Holstein herd at Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, was elected national president at the meeting. Mr. Newson said.

Cars Collide In Ch'town

Two accidents were reported to city police Monday. Eric Matheson, Milton, driver of a 1957 model car, was driving west on Fitzroy Street when he was in collision with Robert Stanley of Charlottetown driving a 1958 car south on Prince Street.

Damage was sustained to the Stanley car on the left rear fender and bumper. Louis B. Land of Tracadie Cross, driving a 1959 station wagon on Bayfield Street was in collision with a 1962 car driven by Peter Sullivan of Southport. The accident occurred when Mr. Sullivan pulled out to pass Mr. Sullivan who had a stopped.

PROSPECTS

More Ice Time For Youth Seen In Civic-Owned Rink

By RALPH CAMERON
Guardian-Patriot Staff Writer
A greatly expanded minor hockey program, along with a more ice time for school children is expected in the wake of the city's purchase Monday of the Sports Arena.
Appearing at Monday's City Council emergency meeting, Brig. W. (Bill) Reid told members he believed an appointed official in charge of the proposed program would have no difficulty in obtaining complete cooperation from school authorities.
This, he felt, would result in children going from classes for specific periods of hockey or skating during regular school hours, and would result in far more of them being given an opportunity to share in the program.
At present, the minor hockey program is mostly confined to Saturdays, when the ice surface is in almost constant use from early in the morning till late night.
DIRECTOR SUGGESTED
Some months ago, representatives of the Playgrounds Commission appeared before Council, suggesting appointment of a civic recreational director in order to permit Charlottetown to participate in federal grants primarily intended as inducements to the development of physical fitness.
Mr. Reid noted it should not be too rigorous a working schedule for the man in charge of the program to be on duty at the Arena from eight in the morning till 10 at night, since the program was only five months long. "He can take his vacation afterwards," Mr. Reid suggested.

Mayor A. Walthein Gaudet, in remarking on the previous request from the Playgrounds Commission, said it was proposed to either revise the commission or name a new body, which was hoped that a large part of the salary of a recreational director would be obtained from the federal grant.
At the same time, he said, a recreational director could be named to be in charge of the minor program which might be proposed.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Supreme Court set aside Monday the conviction of 187 Negroes on breach-of-the-peace charges in North Carolina. They were arrested last March 2 against racial segregation on the South Carolina state legislature grounds. The court's ruling says that in convicting and punishing the demonstrators, South Carolina "infringed the petitioners' constitutionally-protected rights of free speech, free assembly and freedom to petition for redress of their grievances." Sentences had ranged from $10 or five days in jail to $100 or 30 days.

Men's and women's pairs champions were crowned Monday night at the Charlottetown Duplicate Bridge Club session at the Charlottetown Hotel when the club held its annual championship meet in these brackets:
Mrs. Carl Green and Mrs. Albin Farmer walked off with the women's title when they scored a dazzling 71.6 per cent for the field of 14 teams. Mrs. Lily Atkins and Freda Tully finished in second position.
In the men's section, A.H. Coffin teamed up with newcomer Bill MacKinnon to walk off with first place, a feat that must be regarded as something of an upset, as D.L.D. Roman and Tom Cauty came home in the runner-up position. This section had 10 teams participating.

Camera Club Has Color Competition

In the Charlottetown Camera Club "open" color competition last week, the winning slide was submitted by Roland Taylor.
Another still life, by Roddie Hickox, was chosen second place; a scene in Toledo, Spain, by Gordon White, came third; and a portrait by Roddie Hickox was fourth. The slides were capably judged by Lawson Evans.
An unusual feature of the meeting was "Judge the Judges", courtesy of a film company. In this the 100 best slides in a contest for United States and Canada were judged by the club and the results compared with the contest judges' selections. The result was that of the six selected by the club, only one agreed with the contest judges' selections.
The next club competition is a black and white "Portrait of an Artist" on March 4.
