

Chaplaincy Council Of P.E.I.

On the first Tuesday evening of each month the Chaplaincy Council of Prince Edward Island meets on campus.

The Council was formed in 1969 to provide Chaplaincy service to the university of Prince Edward Island as well as other provincial institutions when the occasion might arise. It was created to enable the Christian Church to extend the ministry of Jesus Christ to the University of Prince Edward Island Campus Community.

The council is unique in Canada because of the variety of denominations which cooperate in supervision of the work of the Chaplain. Seven different denominations participate in the membership of the Council; these are, Anglican, Baptist, Presbyterian, United Church, Salvation Army, Christian Reformed and Lutheran. Representatives are appointed from local congregations & and the University of Prince Edward Island Student Body.

The first Chaplain to serve under the direction of the Council was Rev. Hugh MacLean. Mr. MacLean served the Council until July, 1973, when he returned to the parish at Trinity United Church in New Glasgow, Nova Scotia. In September, 1973, the Council appointed Rev. Ian Glass to succeed Mr. MacLean. Mr. Glass had previously served as minister of St. Mark's Presbyterian Church in Sherwood P.E.I.

for seven and a half years. The Council is presently involved in discussions with the university administration regarding the allocation of space for new chapel facilities. Another matter concurrently under review by the council is a study of the role of the Chaplain on campus. The Council would welcome comments from anyone on this topic.

The Council from time to time has discussions with the Roman Catholic Bishop and his advisors who supervise the work of the Roman Catholic Chaplain on campus. These discussions are aimed at providing, where possible, a unified approach by the Chaplains toward the Campus Ministry.
