Woman Held In Stabbing

WINNIPEG (CP)—A woman is being held in connection with the Christmas Day stabbing death of Hector Sutherland, 21, in his suburban Transcona home.

Police in Transcona have refused to say whether if any action had been taken regarding charges in connection with the incident.

Sutherland was found on the kitchen floor of his home dead of stab wounds.

Police said his nine-year-old daughter slept through what happened as he lay on the floor.

The following account of the Lakonia disaster given by the Coast Guard...

The ship was heading for Madeira and we wanted to rest up for a full day with friends on the island.

Some of the younger passengers were enjoying a pre-Christmas party. The idea was to go dressed as hobos.

Passengers were enjoying a late movie—I do not remember what it was. Many were joining in group singing of Christmas carols in the lounge.

Dushty and I retired about 11:30 p.m. I was dozing off as the ship moved east smoothly over the calm seas and my wife was still reading when the alarm bell sounded.

The United States customarily keeps surveillance on target areas when a Soviet test series is under way, using navy ships and aircraft, and long-range, long-endurance radar tracking systems in flight and spot them on impact.

Moscow said its December-January tests would be of rocket boosters designed for further exploration of space.
