

Old Era Is Seen Finished In U.S. Republican Party

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—In politics, mortality often comes unexpectedly and devastatingly. Nothing can illustrate the harsh facts of political life and death better than this Republican national convention.

As the Republicans named their presidential candidate for the Nov. 3 U.S. election, vice

In Senator Barry Goldwater they have their first truly Republican candidate in a generation, and those who screwfully proclaim this is a step backward to party disaster, agree on this: An era is over.

The "Wildie" Dewey, Eisenhower-Nixon bloc has been

Looked at in terms of the individuals involved. CAME WITHIN WHISKER Four years ago Richard Nixon came within a whisker of the White House. He came within a few hundred thousand votes of winning over the late John F. Kennedy. Except for Dwight D. Eisenhower, a national hero able to attract national support, no other Republican has done so well since Herbert Hoover's victory in 1929.

Nixon sat Wednesday in his hotel suite, polishing a speech in which he will present the smiling, successful candidate to the convention Thursday. It's a meagre role, by any standards, and up to the last Richard M. Nixon must have hoped for something better.

Or take Eisenhower. He still is the party's greatest rallying figure. So he made his pitch Tuesday night. He was applauded.

And then the convention went on about its business as if it hadn't heard a word he said. Or take Nelson A. Rockefeller, who as governor of New York should be one of the most powerful men here. He was boozed Tuesday night, but al-opponent for the Republican nomination, he had enlisted in a cause already lost. When did the turning point come? Was it in that speech Goldwater made at the Republican convention in 1960, when he stated the conservatives' case with such conviction? Was it when the Goldwater supporters moved in and took over Republican state organizations? You soon realized here that you are not talking to delegates who had decided to go for Goldwater; no, you were talking to Goldwater people who had decided to become delegates.
