Scotland Yard Destroys Voluntary Palm Prints

POTTERS BAR, England (Reuters)—Months of some of the most startling, plodding detective work in the history of Scotland Yard went up in flames here a few weeks ago when police tossed onto a bonfire 8,000 palm prints taken during a murder investigation.

The detectives who watched the prints curl and wither were smiling.

The print that counted, the one that trapped the murderer, was safe in the records of Scotland Yard and the killer was in jail.

The other prints belonged to law-abiding citizens of Potters Bar, Middlesex, who voluntarily allowed their prints to be taken.

The murder was more brutal than complex.

QUIET LIFE

Mrs. Rosina Currell, petite, 47-year-old housewife who lived a quiet life in the humdrum London suburb, took her pet Corgi dog for a walk at 8 p.m. last April 29 and by morning made headline news as the victim in the "17th Tee Murder Case."

Police, summoned by her husband, Arthur, found her lying on her back in the shelter of the raised banks of the 17th tee of the Potters Bar golf course. There were deep scratches on her hands and forearms. One of her stockings had been removed. Her red jacket was neatly folded over her face.

Nearby was a bloodstained tee-marker, a heavy metal plate with a spike: The murder weapon.

Four blows had been struck with the tee-plate and police found evidence of attempts at strangulation.

Detectives pinned their hopes on their one real clue—the blood-stained tee-marker.

It bore the palm print of the killer.

Scotland Yard decided to take the palm prints of every person in the community who could have had anything to do with the murder.

VOLUNTEERED PRINTS

They had no legal right to demand fingerprinting of innocent people so they asked for the co-operation of the residents. More than 8,000 volunteered their prints.

The police had asked for fingerprints but what they really took were palm prints.

By June 20, police had interviewed thousands of people. Methodically, they began the tedious job of examining in minute detail the complicated cross-hatched palm prints.

On Aug. 19, they reached No. 4,604 and the lines and swirls on the print perfectly matched the lines and swirls on the tee-marker.

Late that day, 112 days after the murder, Detective Superintendent L.W. Crawford called at the offices of the Potters Bar urban council during the lunch break and asked a junior clerk, 18-year-old Michael Queripel, to "step outside."

Queripel confessed quickly, and was charged with the murder of Mrs. Currell.

A tall, dark youth, police said Queripel suffered a feeling of inferiority because he had a glass eye. The slaying otherwise had no apparent motive.

Queripel was found guilty at Old Bailey. Because he was under 18 when the crime was committed he could not be hanged. Instead, he was sentenced to be "detained during Her Majesty's pleasure."

ST. COLUMBA

The parishioners of St. Columba, as well as very many friends, were deeply saddened when the word came that Rev. R. J. MacDonald had passed away in Montreal where he had gone for treatment only a few weeks previously. Father Ronnie, as he was familiarly called, served as Parish Priest here and gave 36 years of his life to us in 1917 after our church had faithfully and well. Coming to us been destroyed by fire, his first task was to erect a new church. This was accomplished in due course and stands today as a memorial to one who took great pride in it and is buried beside it on the adjoining cemetry-a spot he himself selected several years ago. We feel it an honor to have his sacred remains in the cemetry in which lie our loved ones, many of whom he consoled and administered the last rites to while he was parish priest.

St. Columba is proud of one of it's residents, Sylvanus A. McAulay, who won the worlds potato-championship recently at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto. Mr. McAulay is heartily congratulated in this achiement, and deserves great credit in his capability. Tuesday Nov. 15th., a cheque for $100 and a silver tray was accepted for Mr. McAulay by Mr. T. E. Rowley of the P. E. I. potato marketing board at Toronto.

Mr. Bradley Fay, East Baltic, is now attending the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto, having been one selected in the interests of the 4-H club.

THE WEEK AT S.D.U.

Now that the weatherman has been seen waving his signal flag of glittering white snow over the campus here at Saint Dunstan's, the scene of activity has changed abruptly from the blustery out-of-doors to somewhat warmer confines. That hardy race that go to make up the S.D.U. Rugby squad has now retired from the lists, and the several players can now be observed licking their wounds, polishing their armor, and talking about what they will do next season. In their stead, the next groups of combatants are now being readied for the next phases of this year's defence of the college colors, this time on the court and on the ice. In addition to this, the cold winds seem to have driven some fresh talent into the arms of dramatics, and also added impetus to the cause of the music appreciation program.

BASKETBALL

The basketball seems to be now about ready to roll into the limelight here on the campus. Last weekend, the newly formed squad staged two exhibition games in Halifax and brought home a loss and a win. Saturday night found the team battling a formidable squad at Saint Mary's University which defeated them by a score of 51-44. Sunday afternoon the newly knighted men of the red and white squad edged the Stadacona Sailors 52-51 by scoring a basket in the last minute of play. John Kelly led the scoring for the Saints in both games with a total of 17 points in the first game and 28 against the Sailors. Eugene Lake ranked second with 12 against the Santamarians and 6 in the second game.

This year's team is built on only the skeleton of last year's squad, the only surviving members being Bill Farmer, Mike Swift, and John Keely. Although the graduation last spring cut a deep hole in the line-up, it is felt that the new blood that has moved up to fill these vacancies will be able to make a good showing during this coming season. The next game is scheduled to be held here in the Alumni Gym tonight at 8:00, when the team from Saint Mary's will challange us in another exhibition game.

HOCKEY

With the approach of the cold weather, the fancy of at least a portion of the students has turned once again to hockey. Last Thursday, the A.A.A. held their first practice and try-out session at the Forum with twenty-five hopefuls showing up for the practice. Arrangements have been made for regular practices for the remainder of the season on Thursday afternoons and Sunday mornings. There seems to be high hopes for a good hard-playing team this year with the addition of some of the blades from Quebec to the squad.

'TREASURE VAN"

The "Treasure Van" has now completed its stay in Charlottetown and has moved on to spread its message and its wares to other centers across the country. During its three-day sojourn at the Civic Centre, it succeeded remarkably well in acquainting students and every-day citizens alike with the mysteries of the Oriental cultures and crafts as well as those of such places as Greece, the Jordan, and the Nile. Although it was at times a harrowing experience for the students who were responsible for the conducting of the sale, it was certainly a worthwhile experience for everyone involved, the student-salesmen, the shoppers, and the browsers, and the W.U.S.C. Committee wishes to thank all those who helped in any way to make the sale a sucess.

The next item on the social calendar seems to be the annual Coeds Dance being sponsored by the Sigma Delta Sorority at the Rollaway Club this coming Tuesday night with dancing from 9-12 to the music of the Downtowners. This will be the last college dance before the Christmas recess, so be sure and join us there.

MUSIC APPRECIATION

In an effort to broaden the musical interests of the student body in keeping with their general liberal education, a program of music appreciation has been inaugurated under the auspices of the Glee Club. For those who have been exposed to nothing but popular music and bop, this offers an excellent opportunity to see how the other half of the world does it and to examine some of that greener grass on the other side of the fence.

Even the crew-cut element has responded to the patient and thorough expositions that have been proffered to the students during the Sunday night sessions, and even if all those who avail themselves of this opportunity cannot find it within themselves to really which is so often unjustly referred to as "long hair", at least they will be better able to understand it and recognize at least some of its merits.

DRAMATICS

Last Saturday, the college Thespians tripped lightly over the boards in the first series of dramatics efforts for this year. Five one-act plays were staged in competition during the evening by the college years with the Freshman class contributing two performances to the program. The Senior presentation displayed the talents of Art Seaman, Mike Lemieux, Bill Cameron, Bunny Gillis, and St. Claire Trainer, under the directorship of John Walsh in a laughable comedy.

Miss Maureen Beagan directed the efforts of Tom Ford, George Mullally, Tom Grant, Steve Fitzgerald, Arnold Mullin, and Mary Cameron in a suspence-filled bit of drama that represented the Junior class in the competition.

The Sophomores employed Doreen Cusack, Pat McWade, Mike Quigley, Marian MacDonald, and Gerry Burns under the baleful eye of Kenny MacDonald.

The first presentation of the Freshman class starred Robert Doyle, Winifred MacDonald, Gerald Gallant, and Frank Gillis under the direction of Louis McIvor. The second was directed by the moderator and featured Lawrence Gallant, Anthony Spencely, Edwina Peters, and David Walker.

Following the judging, the Juniors were led to believe that they had copped the honors until it was discovered that those who had added the score cards had erred (there wasn't a mathematician in the group anyway) and the decision was awarded to the Sophomores for their superb entry, "Revenge". However, all those who participated in the festival benefited from it even if not all could make it to the top of the billing.

The festival served another very useful purpose in that it enabled the Dramatics Society Executive to inspect the new talent that has entered the ranks this year with an eye to the major productions that are to be undertaken during the course of this year. A similar festival and competition is scheduled for tonight among the high school years.

So, until next week, greetings from S.D.U.

Russia May Block Plan For New U.N. Members

By JACK BEST
Canadian Press Staff Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Russia warned Thursday that it will block a Canadian plan for getting new members into the UN unless Outer Mongolia is included.

"The Soviet Union has tried to go along with the admission of 18 members," Russia's Vasily Kuznetsov told a pres conference. "It was not easy to agree to some of them. But taking into account the general climate and striving for a solution, the Soviet Union will vote for 18 candidates with one condition, that all be admitted. We categorically refuse to consider any other proposal."

The implication was that Russia would veto the 13 Western-sponsored candidates included in a resolution sponsored by Canada and 24 other countries unless Outer Mongolia is admitted along with four other Communist candidates.

The United States claims that Outer Mongolia cannot make the grade for membership since it is a mere province controlled by Russia and Communist China. Britain has expressed willingness to go along with Canada's plan for admitting all 18 applicants.

Kuznetsov read a statement saying that adoption of Canada's proposal "would contribute to the improvement of relations among nations and considerably further the consolidation of the United Nations."

He refused to agree to any move for postponing a vote on Outer Mongolia and said agreement on all applicants must be reached before the Security Council meets.

The U.S. has said it will abstain on all the Communist candidates—Outer Mongolia, Albania, Bulgaria, Romania and Hungary — at the same time contending that Mongolia clearly cannot get enough votes.

Kuznetsov said "The United States continues to oppose certain states only on the ground that the political and social system existing in these states is not to the liking of the United States. It is all too clear that such a position is in apparent contradiction with the aims and principles of the United Nations."

(The 13 non-Communist applicants are Austria, Japan, Italy, Spain, Portugal, Ceylon, Laos, Nepal, Cambodia Jordan, Libya, Finland and the Republic of Ireland.)
