

Kinsmen Variety Show "A Smash Hit" Last Night

"Doing What Comes Naturally" was the title of one of the songs in the Kinsmen Varieties of '55 last night and it appeared to be a case of just doing what came naturally for the entire cast as they gave a brilliant opening night performance before a capacity crowd at the Prince of Wales College auditorium.

The show ran for more than two hours and a half but the variety and quality of the entertainment were of such a high calibre that practically every moment was filled with the utmost pleasure.

The large crowd loved the show as they demonstrated by their applause and their comments as they left the hall. They liked the novelty of the forms of entertainment and they liked the manner in which each entertainer performed in his or her capacity.

The show gave evidence of long weeks of preparation and although each member appeared to be doing what came naturally it was easily known that the success of the show was due to ability, hard work and careful planning.

The entertainers kicked off with the chorus singing four songs after which there were six different scenes which included practically everything in the way of entertainment.

The first scene showed the cast gathered around the old camp fire and singing western songs. The very capable husband and wife team of Kay and Elmer Gallant sang two songs during the scene and proved a big hit with the crowd as they did later in the evening when they appeared in their roles.

There was Helen Roache acting the part of Annie Oakley and singing "You Can't Get A Man With A Gun". This was a new role for Miss Roache but one which she carried out most capably. She appeared in a more familiar role later in the show when she sang "Melody of Love" much to the enjoyment of the audience.

Earl Hennessey also appeared in different roles first as a cowpoke singing "Empty Saddles" and later as a dorkie in the final scene singing "Lucky Old Son". Both numbers were very well received.

The popular combination of Vince and Ray sang "Down South in New Orleans" after which Heber and Bill MacAusland along with the chorus sang "The Old Grey Mare."

The second scene was devoted to Stephen Foster with the chorus singing "My Alice Blue Gown". This was followed by Ed Hodgson quite capably acting the part of George Formby's cousin and singing "So Low".

The Four Tons of Harmony dominated the third scene almost entirely and they deserved every ounce of the applause they received. The four, Ken MacKenzie, Loman MacAulay, Fred Pond and Cecil Santry, dressed in colorful clothes as they strolled through "The Park" "I'd Love To Live In Loveland" and "By The Light of the Silvery Moon" and "I Want A Girl".

This wasn't the only time the well known foursome appeared in the show. They played prominent parts in the Old West scene and again in the final scene singing an old negro spiritual along with Helen Roache.

The fourth scene was the most hilarious of the show as it depicted the Town Tavern and a number of its inebriated customers.

The main actors in this scene were Bill Martin (an Italian playboy); Elmer Gallant (a broken down bum); Ambie Weatherbie (Sailor on Leave); and Ivan Doherty (habitual drunkard).

It showed the four and their parties entering the tavern and it also showed them staggering out to the accompaniment of a torrent of abuse from the inside. As each of the four sang out the song in keeping with his occupation. At the end they formed a quartet and kept the audience amused with their singing and accompanying antics.

Peggy Dalziel and her dancing girls were outstanding in a dancing routine. Peggy was accompanied by ten girls and they gave as smart a dancing review as has been seen here for some time.

This was followed by a violin playing demonstration by Dennis Dowling. His hometown was listed as somewhere in Lower Slobovia. Earlier in the show Dennis had appeared in a step dancing role.

In the final scene the master of ceremonies Walter LePage brought the four tons of Harmony and Loman MacAulay as captain of the boat and he had crew members Earl Hennessey, Kay Gallant, Helen Roache, Ivan Doherty and Ivan Weatherbie sing. He joined the four tons of Harmony and Helen Roache to sing a negro spiritual and had Elmer Gallant give his impressions on how a poker game should be played.

Walter LePage very capably acted as MC. He did splendid things at a hard job and kept the show rolling along. Walter filled in between scenes to keep the audience entertained and perhaps the highlight of his efforts was the scene with George MacDonald on the radio imitation show of "People Are Funny". The act drew rounds of laughter from the crowd. Both boys were excellent.

The foursome directly responsible for the staging producing and carrying out of the show were Ivan Doherty, Amby Weatherbie, Loman MacAulay and Kenny MacKenzie. There are giving the proceeds to the Kinsmen Club for the operation of boys camps this summer.

A great deal of credit is due Mr. J. Austin Trainor, C.D.A. Mr. Trainor took the manner in which the show was put together and put it to a tremendous job. He and as could be expected Mr. and Mrs. Trainor did an expert job. The show will run tonight and again tomorrow night.

Ford Convertible Goes To Young Hockey Player

Two youthful Charlottetown drug store clerks are happy today because of the success they had in a recent contest sponsored by the Rexall Drug Company.

Eighteen-year-old Merrill Pineau, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter M. Pineau, 9 Dorchester Street, Charlottetown, and an employee of the Jenkins Pharmacy, Charlottetown, has won a 1955 Ford Convertible in a nationwide contest conducted by the Rexall Drug Stores.

Miss Ruth Corrigan, daughter of Mrs. Lily M. Corrigan, 177 1/2 Grafton Street, was also another prize winner. She won a $100 cash prize. Miss Corrigan is also an employee of the Jenkins Pharmacy.

The contest consisted of the employee writing his or her name on a slip of paper which went with every article of a certain brand of Rexall products being sold by the drug store. The slips were sent into the head office at Toronto and the winners were chosen by drawing a certain number of slips out of the container holding all the entries.

Merrill Pineau, winner of the Ford car, is one of the Island's outstanding juvenile hockey players.

South Viet Nam's Premier Rejects Demands

SAIGON, Indochina (Reuters) - South Viet Nam's premier, Ngo Dinh Diem, will resist rather than yield to an "ultimatum" issued to him Monday by rebellious warlords, sources close to Diem said Tuesday night.

The warlords gave Diem until Saturday to reorganize his government to suit them. The United States has built its policy in South Viet Nam around Diem, and American officials Tuesday night openly expressed alarm over the prospect that the grave national rupture may undermine this policy.

They feel that if Diem were forced out of office by the threats of the private army leaders, the United States would suffer a serious loss of face in the eyes of all southeast Asian peoples.

The Roman Catholic premier Tuesday night met with his cabinet ministers to discuss the ultimatum which demanded that Diem form a government giving the sects more representation.

The private armies are not expected to open civil war if Diem fails to meet their demands unless the national army were to open a major offensive against them. But sources close to the warlords said they would launch an intensive campaign to isolate the capital, Saigon.

QUEBEC (CP) - Three Ontario radio stations were awarded the Col. Keith Rogers memorial award Monday night for service during the disastrous hurricane Hazel last October.

The Canadian Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters also awarded radio station CFAR of Flin Flon, Man., the John J. Gillen Jr. memorial award.

Churchill Keeps Gives Views On Punishment

OTTAWA (CP) - Maj.-Gen. R. B. Gibson, Canada's commissioner of penitentiaries, said Tuesday corporal punishment should not be ordered by judges as a part of a sentence for a crime.

He said the deterrent effect of a long penitentiary term is as effective as a shorter term accompanied by corporal punishment.

The lash was not a deterrent to crime because of the considerable period between the time it was ordered by the courts and the time it was applied. The delay was due to appeals.

Gen. Gibson said that if corporal punishment is to be effective it must be applied soon after conviction.

He told the Commons - Senate committee on capital and corporal punishment and lotteries that the penalty of corporal punishment should be retained for prisoners who attack other prisoners or penitentiary officials, riot or cause property damage.

Gen. Gibson said he has no hard-and-fast opinion on the retention or abolition of capital punishment - hanging. He said, however, that if the death penalty is abolished the committee should consider executions for voters who commit a second capital offence.

14 Years For Assaulting Girl

TORONTO (CP) - Lionel Crookes, 28-year-old truck driver, Tuesday was sentenced to 14 years in penitentiary for indecently assaulting a seven-year-old girl.

Police said Crookes lured the girl into a west-end house with money.

Magistrate C. A. Thoburn described the offence as "bestial." He added:

"The enormity of this offence and the prevalence of this type of abduction and assault demand that a sentence be imposed to act as a deterrent to others."

NEW YORK (AP) - Jack Koslow, 28-year-old Brooklyn "thrill killer" sentenced to life imprisonment, has been found insane and transferred from reformatory to a hospital for the criminally insane, it was announced Tuesday. Three Children Rescued From New York Cave

NEW YORK (AP) - A teen-age boy and two girls were rescued by police early Tuesday from a large cave under the Henry Hudson Parkway where they said they had been trapped since Saturday.

Police said the youngsters claimed they had been unable to leave the cave because the entrance suddenly narrowed after they crawled inside. However, police added, friends who took the trio food had not been asked to get help to free them.

The three were identified as Ronald Tevlin, 15, Jacqueline Weber, 13, and her sister, Joelle, 16. The girls were located by police after the girls' father reported them missing Monday. A neighborhood youngster showed the way to the cave, located in upper Manhattan.

Survey Shows Size of Juries

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Proposed legislation in Ontario which would reduce petit juries in civil cases to six from 12 men, if enacted, would leave only two provinces using 12-man juries in such cases.

A Canadian Press survey Tuesday shows Saskatchewan and Quebec using 12 men with no changes proposed in either province. Ontario uses 12 but a bill is to come up for second reading which would reduce the size. It has been approved by the legal bills committee of the legislature.

The number on such juries varies now from six to 12. Manitoba and Alberta have six, Prince Edward Island seven, British Columbia eight and Nova Scotia and Newfoundland nine. New Brunswick has seven in Supreme Court civil cases and five in county court.

Most provinces use 12 in criminal cases on petit juries although Alberta is one reporting only six. Most grand juries have at least 12 men and Newfoundland uses 23. There are no grand juries in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, British Columbia and Quebec.

Will Hear Application For Television In P.E.I.

OTTAWA (CP) - Television may be in the offing for Prince Edward Island, only Canadian province not served now or authorized to be served soon by TV.

The CBC board of governors announced Monday that applications for privately-owned television outlets at Charlottetown and at Lethbridge, Alta., will be heard here April 15.

If granted, they would bring to 33 the number of CBC and privately-owned television stations in Canada. Twenty-five now are on the air and five more will be later this year. Government action on a CBC recommendation for a private TV station in Jonquiere, Que., is pending.

There already are television outlets in Alberta at Edmonton and Calgary, but none in the tiny Maritime province.

The public hearing here also will consider applications for radio stations in Lindsay and Smith Falls, Ont., St. Jerome, Que., and Webyburn, Sask.

Island Broadcasting Co. Ltd., operators of radio station CFXY in Charlottetown, applied for P.E.I. first television station. It would operate on Channel 13 with power of 21 kilowatts video and 12.5 kilowatts audio.

The French-language radio station in Jernoma, with a power of 1,000 watts at 900 on the dial, would be operated by Jean Lalonde, free-lance radio and TV producer in Montreal.

In Memoriam

JOHN MURRAY CONSTABLE

The death occurred in Long River on March 5th of John Murray Constable, aged 76 years. He was the last surviving member of the family of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Constable and had lived his entire life in Long River where he was respected by all who knew him.

Always an interesting conversationalist, both young and old found pleasure in their visits with him from time to time. He will be greatly missed in the community, where while his health permitted, he was ever ready and willing to help in every way possible.

In the home he will be sorely missed by his wife, the former Annabel MacLeod of Kinross, his only son, Willard and his wife Jennie, also four grand-daughters whom he loved dearly.

The funeral was held from the home on March 8th, and was very largely attended. Rev. S. H. Haslam was the officiating clergyman, the hymns Rock of Ages and Peace, Perfect Peace were sung by the choir under the direction of Mrs. Murdoch MacLeod, a duet "Heaven Seems Nearer" was a beautifully sung by Andrew Johnson and Ernest Dunning. Many beautiful floral tributes covered the casket.

The pall bearers were Brenton Paynter, Clair MacLeod, Eric Campbell, Andrew Campbell, Robert Dunning and Ralph Thompson. Interment was in the Geddie Memorial Cemetery.

Ontario Paper Reviews Career Of PEI Clergyman

In a recent article which appears in the Free Press Herald, Midland, Ontario there is a short biographical sketch of the Minister of St. Paul's United Church in that City, Rev. Walter R. Auld, B.D., who after 23 years of ministry is now heading a building program in connection with his church. A brother of Rev. Mr. Auld, the late School Inspector Brewar Auld predeceased him several years ago and his widow Mrs. Brewar Auld is one of the teachers at the Queen Charlotte High School.

The following is the text of the article as it appears in the Midland Newspaper:

"In about two years, Mr. Auld will have completed a quarter-century as head of the big church on King Street. It has become even larger these last few months, with the erection of a new Sunday School building on the site of the old parsonage where Mr. and Mrs. Auld lived for well over two decades.

"Son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Auld, Walter Richard Auld was born in Prince Edward Island, where his parents had a farm in the vicinity of Freetown. Unconsciously he acquired an excellent background with which to become a United Church minister later. There was a Presbyterian Church on one end of the farm and a Methodist Church on the other. His parents, Presbyterians, sang in both choirs.

"Later a young teacher, who became a Roman Catholic priest, set young Walter on the right track after he became discouraged with his studies.

"When he enrolled at Prince of Wales College at Charlottetown, one of his fellow pupils was a young lad named James McLaughlin, now James Cardinal McLaughlin. Mr. Auld went clear across the continent to teach school near Vancouver for a year before resuming his studies at Dalhousie University in Halifax.

"After finishing up at Dalhousie, Mr. Auld enrolled at Pine Hill Theological College, then a Presbyterian maritime school, where he remained two years. One year later he received his B.D. at Union Theological Seminary in New York. From Union Mr. Auld went overseas as an honorary lieutenant serving with the YMCA. He spent nearly two years there, including a stint with the Khaki College.

"Late in 1920 Mr. Auld came to Ontario to take over a church near Kempenfelt for a friend who wished to do some post-graduate work. While there he met and married the church organist. She was Mary Elizabeth Clarke, who became Mrs. Auld in 1922.

"The Aulds moved to Markham, remaining in Markham for ten years. In July, 1932, they came to St. Paul's in Midland, where they have served ever since."

Aiding Cerebral Palsied Children

Pictured above are some of the little tots who attend a pre-school or nursery class for cerebral palsied children conducted by Miss Hazel Hunter, who has taken training at the Institute of Child Study at Toronto and has done specialized work in speech therapy. Miss Hunter (left) is seen giving the children training in rhythm clapping which is one of the many phases of instruction which the child receives.

The question often asked by the general public is, "what is a cerebral palsied child?" Medical authorities say that in a population of 100,000, there is a possibility that seven children will be afflicted to a greater or less degree with cerebral palsy. It is caused, they say, by a brain injury which may occur before, at, or after birth. (A difficult birth) or after birth.

The effects of the injury will be shown in varying degrees to various parts of the body and sometimes the injury leaves its effect on the mind of the child. Miss Hunter is quick to point out that the number of such children who are mentally retarded form a minority of those afflicted and in many instances their intelligence is superior to their normal counterparts in the same age group.

Classes are conducted each week Monday through Friday with the morning devoted to group therapy and the afternoon to individual therapy. Individual training is necessary, since almost every child has a different problem. Physio, occupational and speech therapy are interwoven in the child's day at the Centre.

Miss Hunter is very grateful for the co-operation that parents give in providing transportation for the children; the supplying of equipment and for the voluntary help given by the mothers in the Centre each day. The problem of finding suitable permanent quarters for carrying on this work has been a difficult one to solve, ever

Says Women May Revolt Against War

LONDON (AP) - Dr. Edith Summerskill, the Labor party's ardent advocate of equality of the sexes, predicted Tuesday that in the H-bomb age the women of the world may revolt against war.

The House of Commons war effort has been the wasteful through history and added:

"Man now has invented a lethal weapon, the properties of which offer a threat to women's procreative powers.

"If this is proved conclusively and the evidence so far advanced fills us with the greatest misgivings, then the instinctive aversion to fighting which prompts every normal woman may find world-wide expression."

Dr. Summerskill and five other Labor women members of Parliament urged a conference of Russian, U.S., French and British scientists to determine if nuclear weapon tests are contaminating the atmosphere.
