Worse than Diphtheria.

PESTILENCE AND PLAGUE PROBABLE—DR. FULTON'S ALARMING PREDICTION IN BROOKLYN, N. Y., TABERNACLE.

There was a good deal of interest manifested at the Brooklyn Temple, N. Y., to hear what Dr. J. D. Fulton had to say in his Sunday evening sermon, about a disease which is more destructive than diphtheria. His remarks were based upon Revelation, xv., 17—"And the Angel poured out his vial into the air." We realize, he said, that there is a power above us and about us—the air which surrounds the world, which we cannot control and to which it is wise to bow. The air is the most universally present element we have or know. It is possible for an influence so to infest the air that the mountaineer amid his fastnesses, the miner in his desert, the moslem in his mosque, the Cossack in his steppes, the king upon his throne, the mother in her household, the child in the cradle—all will feel its vibrations and receive the taint of its influence and respond in various ways to its potent force. Think, said the Doctor, of 250,000 people plunged into eternity by the throes of an earthquake in Antioch, or of from five to ten thousand dying from the effects of a pestilence in Constantinople daily for three months! At that time the air seemed overcharged, and the pestilence which burst forth in the 15th year of Justinian was not checked or alleviated by any difference of the seasons during fifty two years. It is known that that plague came from the putrefaction of animal substances, and especially from the swarms of locusts, not less destructive to mankind in their death than in their lives.

The Doctor described a great city in its beauty and what it contains, and then called attention to the havoc made in Memphis, Tenn., recently, as well as seven years ago, when men would have declared that there is no peril which skill and education cannot provide against. But the Doctor said we should not forget the epizooty which came upon us in 1872. Yesterday it crossed the border, hundreds of miles away; to-day it settles upon beasts of the field and in the stall, upon the well clad and fed and upon the neglected and rejected alike. The streets grew silent; business was suspended; the vial was poured out into the air, and the result was peril threatening the rich and poor alike. As never before men felt that God was having a controversy with us.

At this hour diphtheria is ravaging the nations. It is in Russia, in Asia, and it is here. No one is safe. Physicians are as helpless as children. There are those who believe that this disease is the result of a disturbance in the atmosphere, consequent upon the perihelion of the four great planets—Jupiter, Uranus, Neptune and Saturn. In 542 and 1665 three of the planets—Mars, Jupiter and Saturn—were in perihelion, and these were the worst plague eras of which history has any record. In 1720 Mars and Jupiter were in perihelion, and in the single city of Marseilles, France, 52,000 out of 75,000 of the population died. It is believed that there may be coming on the world again calamities that have not hitherto been known. There are perils sleeping in the hand of God to which the contagion now devastating our homes would be but as a drop before an impending shower. A change in the chemical properties of the atmosphere would poison the air and the water, &c. It is thought that such a change is at hand which will blot out the intemperate and the weak from the face of the earth. Should this come Asia would be depopulated, Russia would be impervious, and, unless correct sanitary measures are taken, the large cities of our American Atlantic coast will suffer incalculable harm. The perihelia threatens to bring other afflictions, such as storms and tidal waves, which will swamp whole cities. The Doctor referred to the rain of fire in Wisconsin a few years ago, when even the rivers were in a blaze, and men and women dropped dead in the streets as if in the mouth of a furnace. God can change the face of the earth again as He has done in the past by atmospheric and physical disturbances, and without these also. The plague that is worse than diphtheria is sin, which will destroy the soul as well as the body of the sinner.

Spiritualism Exposed.

A METHODIST MINISTER TAKES THE WIND OUT OF THE SPIRIT'S SAILS—EVERY MEDIUM A FRAUD.

A Methodist minister of Boston, Mr. A. A. Waite, who was formerly said to be a medium, and who, before his conversion, was also for some time with the Davenport Brothers, recently declared publicly that all mediums were most certainly frauds. Being challenged to prove this by a Col. Francis King, he offered to meet that person with the best medium he could produce at Tremont Temple, Boston, and then there prove his assertion by reproducing at the same instant the same results, under the same conditions, or publicly acknowledge his failure. It appears that Mr. Waite let out the secret of his past life, when Mr. Joseph Cook was entrapped into a quasi recognition of

THE GENUINENESS OF SPIRITUALISTIC MIRACLES.

Mr. Waite then performed all these marvels for the benefit of his clerical associates, to satisfy them that Mr. Cook had been deceived. Being urged for the sake of souls to expose the humbug he issued the above challenge, which was accepted, and the meeting took place before some three thousand people. The "medium" claimed to be acted upon by "Samoset," and performed his tricks with marvellous success; but the spirit of the old Indian was no match for the live Yankee. Whatever the medium did in his cabinet Mr. Waite did on the open stage before the audience, with still greater skill and success. The medium finally suddenly disappeared from the stage, and the mixed committee, as well as Col. King himself, acknowledged that Mr. Waite had done everything that the medium had done. Col. King said that he could explain it only on the ground that

MR. WAITE WAS HIMSELF A MEDIUM, rather a flimsy pretence, considering the fact that Mr. Waite had not only performed these tricks on the open stage, but had explained how they were done. All the most surprising "spiritual manifestations" were exhibited, besides some very rare ones. Two illustrations will suffice. The medium was in his cabinet, with a lady and gentleman from the audience, "the two being needed to develop magnetic power." These two had their hands on the head and shoulders of the medium, whose hands were on the shoulder of the gentleman. They testified that he did not move, but spirit hands stroked their faces, voices were heard, instruments played, the gentleman received severe blows over the head, and distinctly saw a spirit face looking down on him. Mr. Waite then performed exactly the same trick in his cabinet, with the same gentleman and lady, and just the same results. He afterward showed on the open stage that

ALL WAS DONE WITH ONE OF HIS HANDS, and proved by experiment with a blindfolded gentleman, a Spiritualist, that it was impossible for persons placed as the witness had been to detect this movement of the hand. The last test was a severe one, which was suggested by the Committee and long objected to by the "medium." The Committee bound his thumbs together with small cord and sealed the knot with wax. He went into his cabinet, and after some delay the usual manifestations were heard and hands were seen outside the cloth. The cabinet was opened and the seal was found unbroken. Mr. Waite at once repeated the trick on the open stage, with equal success, and showed that it was done by a peculiar formation of the bones of the thumb, which made it impossible to tie them. He then gave his thumbs to the "medium" and his aid, who exerted their whole strength in tying them. At the moment when the greatest strain was on them, he instantly withdrew one hand and presented it free to the medium.

New York and London.

In round numbers the population of London, the greatest city in the world, is three times that of New York. It is the seat of the court and Parliament of a mighty empire, and its public works are constructed on a magnificent scale. Yet the total costs of the municipal governments of London are less than those of New York. The net annual expenses of New York, which need to be provided for through taxation, fluctuate between $30,000,000 and $33,000,000, the annual balance sheet covering over $80,000,000 for receipts and about the same for expenditures. The debt of the city, according to the comptroller's last statement, was $137,431,418; sinking fund $34,906,467. Deduct sinking fund and adding up outstanding revenue bonds, which are temporary loans made in anticipation of taxes, and the net debt will be $122,745,127. This involves an annual interest charge of not less than $10,000,000. The public works expenditures are about $4,000,000 a year, and the miscellaneous list for "general purposes" averages about $29,000,000. In Mr. Goschen's report on local taxation in 1869 the expenses of London, less repayment for debt and book-keeping entries, aggregated $35,961,570, but this included $13,159,005 for public works. Last year the total expenditures of London, including the charges of the city proper, of the metropolitan board of works, the school boards and the police board, were $31,940,000. If we add to this $1,000,000 for London's share in the courts we get a total expenditure of about $33,000,000, of which only about $18,000,000 comes from direct taxation, the remainder being proceeds of licenses, markets, and of the various productive properties owned by the municipality. These figures do not need to be compared together to prove how much more costly the inefficient municipal machine of New York is than that of London, in spite of the difference in population. No better proof of the need of municipal reform in New York could be adduced.

Remedy for Hard Times.

Stop spending so much on fine clothes, rich food and style. Buy good, healthy food, cheaper and better clothing; get more real and substantial things of life every way, and especially stop the foolish habit of running after expensive and quack doctors or using so much of the vile humbug medicine that does you only harm, and makes the proprietors rich, but put your trust in the greatest of all simple pure remedies, Hop Bitters that cures always at a trifling cost, and you will see better times and good health. Try it once. Read of it in another column.
