Heavy Potato Shipments Stored At Railway Wharf

Approximately 35,000 bags of potatoes are stored in the Railway wharf warehouse at CharloTTetown awaiting shipment to various parts of the United States and other ports. Shipping dates were unavailable yesterday due to the present difficulty in obtaining steamers. A number of the larger shippers of potatoes announced that they were endeavoring to secure ships to pick up cargoes, but destinations for the potato shipments could not be divulged until final arrangements had been made.

The new warehouse at the Railway wharf holds more than 76 carloads and at present the sacks of potatoes touch the roof and reach from the back of the shed almost to the front. The only space left is a small aisle to walk the length of the building. There are nine entrances to the building, each one with the name of a prominent shipping company overhead. By this means unloading and loading is greatly facilitated. Firms which have potatoes stored include Associated Shippers, Boates Ltd., Clarke Produce, Potato Growers Association and H. B. Willis. The largest proportion of the stock is of the seed variety, Sebagoes and Cobblers, with a large section inking up by table stock for Newfoundland.

Canada-U. S. Agree To Merge Priority System

OTTAWA, Nov. 8 (Wednesday) (CP)—Canada and the United States today agreed to a share-and-share priority system for tapping their huge common pool of resources for defence production. The system extends to the field of atomic energy. A forward step in development of the Oct. 26 joint industrial mobilization pact, the new agreement means Canadian defence producers will be able to obtain a greater supply of much-needed American steel to complete defence orders. Announced simultaneously in Ottawa, by Trade Minister Howe, and in Washington, the agreement specifies that Canada will be inducted in the United States' compulsory system of defence priorities.

In turn, Canada will include American manufacturers in the Canadian system, a voluntary one carried out by various strategic industries in consultation with the Trade Department. Mr. Howe said the agreement does not mean Canada will institute a "formal priorities system." The economic pact for defence recognized that it was "neither likely nor desirable that there should be parallel controls on industry in the two countries in view of the differences in conditions which exist."

KING COLE TEA

At the Union

His Excellency Bishop Boyle was celebrant of the Mass and preached an illuminating sermon on "The Assumption". As guest of honor at the "Communion Breakfast", His Excellency recalled his sudden in spirit to Fatima, the little Portuguese village, where history was made in 1917 by the appearance of "Our Lady" to three little children. His Excellency had visited the scene of this heavenly visitation during his visit to Europe. He spoke of the necessity of prayer and good works as an aid in bringing peace to the world. There is a need, he said, of great souls in these days when the Christian world is being assailed by pagan forces. The appreciation of members for His Excellency's presence and of his very splendid messages was expressed by the presiding officer, Mrs. Lorne L. Noonan. An invitation to address the December meeting will be sent to the Provincial President, Mrs. Pendergast, and letters of congratulation will be forwarded to Miss Isabel Hutton, National President, C.W.L., and His Honor Lieut.-Governor Frowse. Rev. Father McDonald briefly addressed the meeting expressing his appreciation of the order in which the business was conducted and commending the members on their assistance during the Bazaar encouraging further efforts along charitable lines. He was much pleased with the success of the initial "Communion Breakfast" and recommended increased spiritual work especially in Advent and Lent. Members will attend Mass at 9.15 at the Basilica on Remembrance Day and a wreath will be placed at the Cenotaph in memory of those who died. The meeting closed with "The King" and was followed by a social hour with Mrs. E. J. McTague, Mrs. Fred Steele, Mrs. Peter Leclair, and committee, serving refreshments.
