

Electors, Attention!

The Liberal-Conservative Committee on revision of the Voters' List respectfully notifies voters not already registered, as well as those whose registration requires correction, to apply immediately at the office of John T. Mellish, Esq., Barrister-at-Law, Queen Square, where every facility will be freely afforded to secure proper registration.

THE DAILY EXAMINER.

JULY 30, 1889.

A Dangerous Attempt.

A MOST extraordinary course is being pursued by the Grit party in this County in the attempt to remove names from the voters' list. A declaration is made that a voter or a batch of voters have ceased to hold any qualification in the polling district within which they reside, and that their names should be removed from the list; and this is done without setting forth the reasons for the objection. It is evident that these affirmations cannot be allowed without working great injustice, as the persons making them may not be at all competent to judge as to the qualification of the voters assailed. The revising barrister is the judge under the law as to whether a man has a vote or not. How is he to do it without the facts are put before him? If the revising barrister places the name of a voter on the list, to be removed on the mere affirmation of Tom, Dick or Harry that he has no vote, he simply abdicates his functions as far as that particular vote is concerned. It is clear that the Electoral Franchise Act never contemplated anything of this kind, for the revising officer is required to note opposite each name to be removed the reason for its removal. How can he do so if no reason is given him by the party making the objection?

The circular to revising officers, issued by the Government some time ago, shows that they appreciate the importance of this provision, for while they suggest that it is unnecessary that the supplementary list of names to be removed should contain particulars such as post office address, etc., they intimate that the reason of removal should be noted. We know that Mr. L. H. Davies is of opinion that our interpretation of the law is correct, for on the 11th day of March last he addressed a circular to his friends in Queen's County, containing the following instructions:—

OTTAWA, March 11th 1889. MY DEAR SIR,—It is the intention of the Government to have the voters' list revised next summer, and it is of the very greatest importance that we should get on the list the names of every voter favorable to us not now on it. It is quite possible that an election may be held upon those revised lists, and I know that our opponents have already taken steps to get the names of all Conservative voters on. Once a name is on it is a difficult and expensive thing to get it taken off. There must now be hundreds of young men entitled to vote, whose names are not now on the list. The Government now has a bill before the House amending the Franchise Act. No change is made in the qualification of voters in P. E. Island, as prescribed in the old act, but a change may be made before the bill becomes law. I will not send you the form of application for new voters to sign until I see whether any and what change is made. But in the meantime I have earnestly to request that you will call together a few of the leading friends in your polling division and prepare a list of names of any of our friends who are entitled to vote, but whose names are not on the list, ready for the application to be signed and made when I send you the forms. At the same time I have to request that you will go over the present list, a copy of which I enclose, and make out a list of Tory voters none on who are not entitled to vote, and whose names we must strike off. You will be kind enough, when you make out the latter list, to place opposite the name of each voter you object to the reason why you object as 'death, left the district, sold property,' etc., as the case may be, and give me, if possible, the names of those who can prove the facts. I enclose you the old list for your polling division for your guidance. Mr. Welsh and myself are fighting the battle for P. E. Island here as ably as we can, and I think that we will be able at the end of the session to give a good account of our stewardship. Yours very sincerely, L. H. DAVIES.

The revising officer would not, for a single moment, think of placing a name on the list to be added, on the mere bald affirmation of any persons that a man had a vote under the law. His answer to any such application would be, "set forth the facts, and I will decide if you possess a legal qualification." Why should not the same course be pursued with regard to the removal of names? To this it may be answered that the Act provides what the affirmation should contain in the case of an application to put on a vote, but it is silent regarding affirmations for removal. If this be so, it is all the more necessary that the revising officer should insist on the safeguard, provided in the Act, and "note the reason" after every name he places on the list to be removed. The Electoral Franchise Act, as it stood in 1886, contained no provision for putting on names by affirmation, yet our revising officers put votes on in that way only at the preliminary revision of that year, and they justly insisted that the affirmations should set forth all the facts necessary to prove a vote. Why should the revising officer accept a bald affirmation to remove a vote now, in the face of the plain words of the Act that he must note the reason for removal on the list, when in 1886 he held that the facts should be set forth in the affirmation, although there was nothing in the Act to require it? The common principles of law and justice demand that no man should be put on his trial without a specific charge being made against him. It would be just as fair to put a man to the ignominy and expense of a public trial because some person had made a declaration that his character was bad, as to put a man to the annoyance, trouble and expense of proving his vote simply because some person had made a vague declaration that he had no qualification. In requiring that the reason of removal should be noted on the list, Parliament no doubt intended that the voter should know the grounds of objection so that he could prepare his defence. If the course pursued by the Grits is allowed the man whose vote is objected to may be kept in utter ignorance of the nature of the objection until he appears in the Court of final revision. It may be urged in reply to this that the effect of accepting these bald declarations will not absolutely remove the name, but to merely cause it to be put on the list, to be removed after the final revision. This answer is not worth a moment's consideration. The putting a name on the list to be removed throws the onus of proving a vote on the person objected to. He will have to give fourteen days notice of his application to restore his name to the original list. He will have to attend the court with his evidence. The Act contemplates this, but it also provides that the reason of removal should be given on the list. The affirmations now in Judge Alley's hands afford some excellent illustrations of the abuses sure to arise if this kind of procedure is admitted. We may mention one of them. A statute labor voter who has been absent for the greater part of the last twelve months from his polling district makes an affirmation, the effect of which, if allowed, would be to put the names of property holders on the list to be removed, and immediately afterwards takes his own departure for the United States!

It is only about two weeks since the Patriot sounded an alarm against what it alleged was being done by "Tory wire-pullers in Prince County." The complaint was that affirmations to put on names were being made in batches. Can it be believed that the men who raised this cry in the Patriot were at the same time at work night and day drawing up affirmations and having them signed to remove in batches the names of living voters from the list? Yet such is the fact. A glance at these affirmations shows that they came from the very quarter whence the Patriot draws its inspiration. In its alarm at what it professed to believe was being done by the Tories of Prince County, the Patriot declared its hope that Judge Kelly might be found sufficiently independent to reject improper applications. So now the eyes of all right-thinking men are turned to Judge Alley to prevent an attempted wrong.

Fish and Game Protection. A largely attended meeting of most of the leading sportsmen of the Province was held last night pursuant to notice, Mr. R. R. Fitzgerald presiding. The universal testimony of all present as to the depleted state of every river on the Island, presented an unfortunate commentary on the efficiency of the present preventive force. An Inspector at $1,000 a year and some fifty wardens at $30 each was considered an expenditure which should afford some means of protection. It was unanimously decided to represent the facts to the Department at Ottawa urging them to do away with the local fishery wardens, and to appoint in their place an efficient assistant who would take under his special charge the four reserved rivers, viz: Dunk, Winter, Morrell and Midgell. In the opinion of all present there would be no difficulty in catching and punishing poachers as long immunity had made them bold in their depredations. Messrs. R. R. Fitzgerald, Hon. Neil McLeod and W. W. Beer were appointed a special committee to draft this memorial. For the information of the people of the Province, it was resolved to publish and distribute posters shortly setting forth the laws, and offering $20 reward to any person procuring a conviction against any offender. The discussion at the meeting was most interesting one. We regret that our space will not permit us to give a further synopsis of it, but it was evident that a determined effort will be made to prevent the further destruction of fish and game in this Province. We are satisfied that the department at Ottawa will be only too glad to assist in this work, and by every means in its power, lend powerful aid to the Society, as it is now reformed. The following gentlemen were elected officers for the ensuing year: Patron—Hon. J. H. Peters. President—R. R. Fitzgerald. Vice Presidents—Dr. Strickland, W. C. Hobkirk, F. H. Beer. Personal. Alexander Beaton, Esq., of East Point Lighthouse, is in the city on his return from a vacation of three weeks, during which he visited friends at New York, Boston and other cities of the Great Republic. Mr. Beaton is looking well, and enjoyed his trip immensely. Conductor McKie returned from St. John, where he had been "doing" the Carnival, last evening. He speaks highly of the manner in which the large and varied programme was carried out. The St. John Sun says: "Rev. W. W. Brewer has quite recovered from his recent severe attack of pleurisy. The reverend gentleman was just about to set out for his new charge at Charlottetown when the attack came on, and he was compelled to postpone his departure." The latest rumor in political circles in Boston is that Colonel Charles H. Taylor, the publisher of the Boston Daily Globe, is likely to receive the Democratic nomination for mayor of that city. Colonel Taylor, before he became manager of the Democratic Globe was an active republican. Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes has grown cynical of late. The New York World thinks he should read his own poems and cheer up. A remarkable woman is Mrs. Susan M. Richardson, of Limington, Me. She is 90 years old, rises at 4 every day to attend to her household duties, has charge of two cows, works the butter and does the washing, and can read and thread her needle without glasses. One of the tallest young ladies in Nevada, says the Virginia City Enterprise, resides in Reno. She is the youngest of nine sisters, is twenty-two years old and weighs 218 pounds, and stands six feet one inch in her stockings. She is still growing. August is going to be a red letter month in the birthday calendar. Tennyson celebrates his 80th birthday on the 6th, and Dr. Holmes his 80th on the 29th. They will be marked days on two continents. A New York man, whose name is not given, has invented an electrical switch, and somebody suggests that it is about time for the small boy to begin to behave himself. S. S. Cartwright, a wealthy miser, who resided in Topeka, Kan., a great many years, and was worth at least $250,000, died recently of heart disease. He was living in a garret and no one was present at the time of his death. He owned several large cattle ranches in that State, and had valuable real estate interests in the city. Ex-Mayor O'Mullin, of Halifax, has returned from his trip to Europe. He thoroughly enjoyed the excursion. Jordan Blair, of Montrose, Pa., is a colored man possessed of remarkable courage. He was afflicted with gangrene in his leg and foot, and the doctor said he would die if they performed amputation. Blair therefore cut off his leg with a jack-knife and is now limping along the road to recovery on a crutch. Lady Colin Campbell is writing a novel, which is to appear shortly, entitled "Darell Blake." It is thought that several persons prominent in London social and literary circles will be more or less faithfully reproduced. At a recent royal ball in London the young Duchess of Portland wore a beautiful white and silver brocade gown, trimmed with silver thistles, a necklace of pearls and sapphires, and a diamond and sapphire tiara. It was amusing to see the duke watch her dance with Prince Albert Victor, so proud was he of the admiration she commanded.
