Here We Are Again!

McLEOD & McKENZIE,

STAR MERCHANT TAILORS,

The Original and Peerless Artists of Our Day.

THE ABOVE HAS BEEN A SETTLED FACT FOR YEARS, and to keep before the public what is so well known to every good dresser in this Province, may seem superfluous. But as a good dinner tends to give a quietus to the disturbing influences within the inner man, so a thorough knowledge of our capabilities will give a quietus to anyone who may have had the good fortune of being dressed by us. The sun rises and sets, and it appears to the ordinary judgment that the sun revolves around the earth instead of the earth revolving around the sun; so we, through the immense strides we have taken in our art, would appear to the uneducated to be moving around our many friends, instead of they moving around us; like the sun imparts its warm rays to revive drooping nature, so we are the benefactors of our people, by aiming high and attaining to a STYLE and FINISH in our Garments, which cannot but commend us as the MERCHANT TAILORING PHILANTHROPISTS of our day.

Are you anxious to test the foregoing? Come in, then, and see our line of Goods, which are superior, in every sense of the word, and we will fit you out with a Suit which will doubtless draw the loving remark from your best girl that she has "the best dressed young man in town." Call early, if you must have it before 1st July.

WANTED.—At this office copies of THE DAILY EXAMINER of February 4th and April 4th and 5th. Also, copies of THE WEEKLY EXAMINER of April 5, 1889.

Free not your life away because your hair is gray, while young, as you can stop all grayness and can beautify the hair with Hall's Hair Renewer and be happy.

WAS IN DOUBT.—Those divorce trials bring out some peculiar things. The defendant in a recent case in Chicago admitted writing some poetry put in evidence, but said that he could not remember whether it was original or quoted.

WHAT THE HUSBAND DID.—A New York lady won the prize for furnishing the best recipe by which a dinner could be prepared for $1. As soon as her husband found this out he borrowed the dollar and took his dinner down town.

Rheumatism is caused by an acid in the blood; therefore, external treatment affords no permanent relief. To eliminate the poison and make a thorough cure of the disease, nothing is so efficient as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Give it a trial. Price $1. Worth $5 a bottle.

A SMUGGLER SEIZED.—The Customs authorities at St. Thomas, Que., have seized a small schooner on a charge of smuggling liquor. The vessel has been brought to Quebec and placed in charge of guardians. A quantity of spirits was found on board concealed under a lot of shingles.

THE RELATIVE VALUE.—We learn from an exchange that in preparing for the celebration of the Fourth of July, the Boston aldermen have appropriated $100 for an oration, $250 for ice water, $300 for a balloon ascension and $1,600 for fireworks. Can this be accepted as a fair indication of the relative estimation in which Boston holds oratory, fireworks and other things?

SHOT THROUGH THE HAND.—A young man named Barnard met with an accident while shooting in the woods at St. Stephen, N. B., recently. It appears that his rifle was lying on the ground and in pulling it towards him it was accidentally discharged, the ball passing in the palm of the hand and out through the wrist. The wound has been dressed, and Barnard is doing well.

REAL ESTATE SALES.—On Monday, May 20th, at 11 o'clock, noon, a good dwelling house, barn, &c., on Grafton Street, near the Athenaeum. On Wednesday, May 22nd, at 12 o'clock, noon, seven building lots on and near Upper Queen Street. On Thursday, May 23rd, at 12 o'clock, noon, the Brighton Tannery and premises, and building lots adjoining the same, fronting on Brighton Road. For plans and further particulars apply to A. McNeill, Auctioneer.

TERRIFIC HAIL STORM.—One of the most disastrous hail storms that ever passed over Virginia was experienced at Norfolk on Tuesday. Many of the garden truckers were completely ruined. A swath six or seven miles broad was cut through the trucking region of Norfolk and Nausmond Counties by the storm. The loss will probably reach $1,000,000. A terrific hail storm also passed over Southampton County and several barns were wrecked and some stock killed.

HARDIE'S SENTENCE.—Says the New York Herald: "Henry Hardie, the forger, who was extradited from Canada and pleaded guilty to having swindled his employers, J. G. Fitzpatrick & Co., of No. 60 Worth Street, out of $3,900, by filling in a signed cheque, making the amount payable to himself, has been sentenced. Hardie had served a term of several months in Scotland, and had once before been in trouble in this country. He is a tall, stout fellow, with a round, smooth and weak face. The judge told him that he was a born criminal, and fixed sentence at seven years and six months."

HE COUGHED IT UP.—The Truro Guardian reports that a boy named Charlie Haley, six years ago fell out of a tree and stuck a sharp splinter of wood in his side. A large portion of it was removed by his mother, the remaining part causing the boy a great amount of suffering for a time. The wound healed up, but his health has since been poor, up to a few weeks ago. During the last year or so he has had a fearful cough, spitting blood in large quantities. About six weeks ago he had a bad fit of coughing which terminated in his raising some kind of a hard substance which upon investigation, proved to be a piece of wood. The boy has not coughed much since, and is rapidly gaining in health.

FOR BARBADOS.—The Summerside Journal says: "The Hattie Louise, Capt. Barnard, is expected to sail to-day for Barbadoes and Trinidad. She carries the following cargo, shipped by Mr. A. M. Wright: 2,300 sacks (equal to about 11,500 bushels) white oats; 100 barrels and 50 bags potatoes; 25 tons hay; 1 cow, and 30 horses, 20 of which were shipped by Hon. D. Ferguson to the government of Trinidad, for breeding purposes. We hope the Hattie Louise will make one of her usual good trips. Quick trips are always recorded for this vessel, which is due to the efficient management of her able and popular captain. Mrs. Barnard accompanies her husband on this voyage."

A despatch from Chester, Northwest Coast, B. C., reports that when the Rev. Mr. Duncan migrated from Metlakatla to Alaska his representatives from Alaska urged the Indian people to come, regardless of losses, and they promised each family migrating a culdorm, meaning a "bucketful of money." This spring the culdorm was demanded publicly and refused. The Council then disbanded, and the property guarantee formerly required of families travelling was discontinued. Three hundred people had arrived previously in Chester, and several loaded canoes are expected to remain in Canada. Forty persons returned to Metlakatla; four families promised to follow, and others went to Alaska, where there are 35 children in the Sitka school. A permanent Indian house has been erected at Chester.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

The West River Steamer.

SIR,—It strikes me that the present Government should evince some generosity and consideration towards the inhabitants bordering on the West River, although the majority of them are in opposition to the present Government. By withholding what is justly due to all parties, irrespective of politics, our present governing body seems to show undue resentment. It affects more particularly the residents of Lots 65, 30, 31, and, to some extent, those of 29.

The steamer plying on the West River should be one constructed of sufficient power to enable her to reach the West River Bridge in one hour and a quarter from Charlottetown, and vice versa. This does not include the time taken up at the different wharves to land or take in passengers and freight. There requires to be proper landing stages erected both at McEwen's and Shaw's wharves, and good sheds also at each. Shaw's wharf is in a very dilapidated state, and requires considerable repairs. It would be a great improvement if the packet was to leave Charlottetown at seven o'clock instead of five in the morning, and the West River Bridge or Shaw's Wharf (according to the state of the tide) on her return trip at half-past eight o'clock instead of seven in the morning; in the afternoon, to leave Charlottetown at five o'clock, and on her return from the Bridge or Shaw's Wharf at seven o'clock. This arrangement, I think, would suit the market people, who have (many of them) to come from a considerable distance to meet the boat. It would also enable the numerous strangers visiting Charlottetown to see one of the most beautiful parts of the Island, and would give them an opportunity of spending a day amongst the hills and valleys of the West River. Pleasure seekers do not generally like to rise as early as four o'clock in the morning. Why not place the present steamer Southport on the Charlottetown and Rocky Point ferries. There is now an ample traffic for two boats to ply on these ferries. A suitable steamer, constructed of iron or steel, should be procured, which could be worked at one-fourth the expense that is required to run the present steamer Southport, and one that would have equal carrying capacity for both freight and passengers. Hoping our Island Legislature will take this matter into their serious consideration,
I remain,
FORWARD.

Copious rains have fallen in Indiana, Iowa and Illinois.

A Rio Janeiro paper says that a conflict is imminent between Paraguay and Bolivia, and that Brazil is preparing to aid the former.

What He Lacked.—Cholmondeley (sighing)—"I wish I were a rumor." "Wherefore?" asked Reginald. "That I might gain currency," responded the wretch.

"What's the matter, little boy?" "That feller hit me." "Well I wouldn't cry if I were you." "Course you wouldn't 'cause you're big enough to lick him."

A good reason.—Mamma—"Howard, are you going to take part in the tree-planting at school on Arbor Day?" Howard—(emphatically)—"No, I hain't; there's 'nuff switches growin' round our school now."

Bringing Home the Cows.

The woodlands cast the lengthened shade,
The hills are bathed in sunset gold,
The brook keeps time 'mid lilies gliding,
To song birds piping in the wood.

'Tis milking time, and from the vale
Is heard the cowboy's cheery call;
Now loud and clear, then fainter grown,
It mingles with the dew-drop's fall.

The sun's! fades, the hills grow dim,
And don their robes of twilight grey;
And still the cheerful call is heard,
As cows come trooping up the way.

Knee deep among the lilies standing,
They halt beside the tinkling stream,
To crop the crescent cool and sweet,
And there the cowboys halts to dream.

The stars beam out in evening skies,
And tinge the brook with silvery sheen,
In snowy hood at the pasture bars,
The waiting milkmaid there is seen.

Then from his dream young Rollin wakes,
And then with loud impatient "whoop,"
Starting the loitering herd anew,
Drives through the bars the panting troop.

His work was done, yet at the bars
The bashful cowboys lingers still;
And in the gloaming watched the maid
With snowy milk the bright pails fill.

Let down the bars, that she might pass,
He saw her take her homeward way;
Yet never a word of speech he'd formed
Could the faint-hearted Rollin say.

She read his secret in his face,
And let her trembling lashes fall;
Then homeward sped with quickened pace,
And in her dreams still heard his call.

Long years have flown: And once again
'Tis milking time; and gathered there
Among the milk-eyed cows they stand,
A grey-haired man and matron fair.

Their hands are joined in tender clasp,
And musing o'er that far-off time—
She hears again the cowboy's call
Come up the vale like silvery chime.

Long, long they halt beside the bars,
Till night winds kiss their silvered brows;
Then over the meadow brook they pass,
And follow home the loitering cows.

The Sea Serpent Sighted Again.

The American liner, British Princess, which arrived at Philadelphia on the 14th, reports sighting a sea serpent. Captain Smith, her first officer, hitherto a thorough disbeliever in the tales of the monster, says he now has no doubt of its existence, for he saw plainly the mystery of the ocean. Captain Smith and the fourth mate were on the bridge together just at daybreak of Saturday, May 4, in latitude 44°, longitude 42° 40'. The sea was smooth and only faintly rippled by a light air from the southwest. Captain Smith chanced to look astern and saw something in the water not more than 100 yards away. To the naked eye it appeared, in Capt. Smith's words, as a "large black obstacle sticking out of the water in a perpendicular position—like a long spar or river buoy." He seized the glasses to make it out more plainly, and saw it was alive. There above the water rose the head and neck of a tremendous monster. The head resembled in size and shape "the top of a beef barrel," as Capt. Smith put it. The body, though completely submerged, could be made out plainly by the disturbance of the water around it, and 300 feet away from where the head and neck stood out of the water the monster's tail was beating and lashing the sea into foam with as much force as the Princess's own propeller. Capt. Smith turned to send for Capt. Freeth, the Princess's commander, but before he could give the order the sea serpent had dived, and that was the last seen of it.

Farm Notes.

Laying hens are very fond of broken bones. They help to digest other food when they cannot get at sharp gravel, and with the strong digestive apparatus which fowls have, every part is made use of. The lime goes to make the shells, but if the bones have been only cooked and not burned, they are full of the material from which the egg itself is made. The only advantage from burning bones is to make them break up more easily. The fowls certainly do not like them as well, nor are they so good for them as when broken up without burning.

The way to lift the mortgage is to hitch two good breeding mares to it and bid them go.

Farming is a poor business when the farming is poor.

To-morrow is the day when idle men work and fools reform.

Make a bargain to use the same stallion for two years. You might get a matched pair.

A man too busy to take care of his health is like a mechanic too busy to take care of his tools.

It is said that the Arab horse is watered but once in twenty-four hours, but the Arab makes a virtue of necessity. If you want to keep your horse comfortable water him at least three times per day, and when possible let him be a full half hour before eating.

The disagreeable fact recently brought most prominently to notice by Sir John Macdonald, the Canadian Premier, that Canadian butter bears as low a reputation in the markets as Canadian cheese bears a high one, calls, says the Montreal Star, for the earnest consideration of all concerned. It not only affects the interests of the farmers and the dairymen, but equally the commercial interests involved in the disposal of dairy products, and the general reputation of Canadians; for people are judged by their industrial standing in the world, and want of enterprise or skill in any leading industry reflects upon the whole people.

By their works ye shall know them," is an old but well recognized principle which affects all classes of men, not only morally but industrially. Hence it should be matter for the deepest concern that an evil reputation lies like a stigma upon the butter producers of Canada in the foreign markets, and why this should be so, and how it can be changed, and this disagreeable stigma be removed, are questions which deserve serious consideration.
