Testimonial From Duluth, Minnesota.

DEAR MRS. ROSS,—Having tested your "MAGIC HEALER," I wish to express my gratitude to you by this testimonial, which you can use, if you think it will assist you in selling it: Having cut my hand severely with a chisel, the corner of the chisel having entered the palm of my hand, making a long and deep cut, I applied your "MAGIC HEALER" at once, and after three applications I was able to go to work, and in three days the cut was healed up.

Yours truly,
ALONZO H. LAVERS.

Notes and Comments.

—The action of Plymouth Church in retaining the name of a forger on its roll of members creates so much adverse criticism that the Rev. Lyman Abbott is felt called upon to defend it in a sermon. "The church forgives," he said, "not by extenuating our sin or relieving us from sin, but by reclaiming us and restoring us, and Christ tells us to render service to our fellows who fall into sin. If any young man in this church falls into sin and comes to Plymouth or to Plymouth's pastor we will not make a light matter of his sin; we will not call it a foible; we will not relieve him from the legal punishment, but we will ever try to rehabilitate him and to give him the right hand of fellowship. A drunkard is a drunkard and a thief a thief, but repentance is repentance."

—Referring to the horrible revelations which have been made concerning the Stanley expedition, The Week has expressed the opinion that this should be the last of such purely volunteer enterprises, and that the Government of a civilized people should find some means of preventing a repetition of such atrocities by subjects of the nation. We are glad to see that the London Spectator takes in effect the same ground, maintaining that all African explorers should be placed under "a system which shall make the statue, 24 and 25 Vict., cap. 100, which we had overlooked, and which would have made Jameson liable to trial, practically operative. If it cannot be done without appointing a Protector of the Negroes in each port, with judicial powers, it must be done that way; but we should think it sufficient to invest each Governor of a settlement and Consul-General with that function." We do not recall the provisions of the Act referred to, but the outraged sentiment of the nation will, we can scarcely doubt, compel some action of the kind suggested for the governing of future expeditions. Meanwhile, it remains to be seen whether Parliament will acquiesce in the conclusion of Lord Salisbury, that the Government has no power to enquire into the conduct of, at least, the British officers who have achieved so unenviable a fame in connection with the Stanley expedition.

—The correspondence relating to the Behring Sea question about to be laid before Congress shows that Lord Salisbury and Mr. Blaine are as far apart as ever on the main issues. But, according to recent reports, the British Government is likely to join the United States in enforcing measures for the protection of the seals. The Washington Government is informed by Professor Elliot of the Smithsonian Institution, who was recently sent on a tour of enquiry, that the small catch of the new seal company this year is due to the fact that the animals are nearly extinct. The company has covenanted to pay the United States the equivalent of $1,000,000 a year for the privilege of taking 60,000 skins, but during the season just over the catch amounted to only 21,000. It is said that nearly 50,000 skins were obtained by the poachers who killed fully 200,000 seals in the process; that is, 150,000 dead seals were left in the water. The poachers, and for that matter the company's officers, have slaughtered an enormous number of female seals in breeding time, the result being a marked decrease in the population of the rookeries. It is stated that if these allegations can be substantiated Lord Salisbury will accept a proposition from Mr. Blaine looking to the absolute prohibition of the seal-catching whether by the North American Fishing Company or ten years. The arbitration proby outsiders for a period of eight or posed by Lord Salisbury has been declared "off," Mr. Blaine being desirous, at least so it would appear, of keeping the issue open for some time yet, perhaps until the Presidential campaign is over.

A Complaint.

SIR,—I attended the concert given by the pupils of the Upper Prince Street School Friday night, and was much pleased with what I heard, but could see nothing of what was doing on the stage, as the audience on the side of the hall on which I sat stood upon the seats, completely blocking the view. One elderly lady in her eagerness to see, endeavouring to stand on the back of a seat. Such rudeness and selfishness should not pass unnoticed. If they favor the public with another concert, it would be well for some competent person to have charge of the seating arrangements.

CONCERT GOER

NEW POSTMASTER.—Mr. Ronald Campbell has resigned the office of postmaster at Glenfaning, King's County, and Mr. Peter Campbell as been spointed as his successor.

REPAIRED.—A number of men have been at work since the storm repairing the damages caused by the St. Peter's and Midgell railway abutments. The work is now properly secured for the winter, and trains pass over in safety.

VERY SUCCESSFUL.—The apron fair in Market Hall, Summerside, on Thursday evening last, was very successful. The amount realized was about $70. The fair was in aid of the Summerside Cornet Band.

Hon. Judge Chauveau has been elected president of a committee organized to carry out the work of erecting a monument to the memory of Saml. D. Champlain, founder of the City of Quebec. Lieut. Gov. Angers, Cardinal Taschereau, and the Lord Bishop of Quebec were elected patrons, and Premier Mercier honorary president. The cost of the monument will be between $15,000 and $20,000

ODDFELLOWS COLUMN.

Lodges in P. E. Island.

CHARLOTTETOWN.

St. Lawrence Lodge, meets Monday.
Wildey Lodge, meets Friday.
Port la Joie Encampment, meets second Wednesday.

SUMMERSIDE.

Prince Edward Lodge, meets Thursday.

If we act the part of the Good Samaritan, instead of the Levite, we may "be sure that God will take care of our immortal souls," and this underlying essence is the true spirit of Oddfellowship. The objects of the Order are to visit the sick, relieve the distressed, and take care of the orphan. Can anything be grander? The lodges are taking up this work and carrying it on.

If it were possible to interdict and crush out Oddfellowship by arbitrary despotism, as societies are crushed in Russia, before one year the noble spirits that compose this Fraternity and other generous and sympathetic souls would come together in another organization with objects and offices of mercy. Not only in this village does this hall stand as a memorial to the Order, but all over the State in the large towns and along the railroad lines other like memorials that will outlive their builders, constantly presenting to the people evidence of devotion to these humanitarian principles. They do not "hide our light, but reveal it."

Deeper than creed or sect, or nationality, or religious prejudices, are the eternal foundations upon which the Order is grounded. They tell us it is a secret organization, but I never knew of any oath being taken in any Oddfellows' lodge, but simply a promise, and I never knew a brother ashamed of the promise made, and there is nothing in the initiatory or other degrees that could possibly suggest an impure thought.

The "secrets" are only a matter of personal protection. Is there a person before me who has no secrets that he doesn't want others to know? Even the old folks can remember back to a time when two were company and three were none. The church has its secrets, and every merchant and every home. There are clergymen who break away from their pulpits now and then and go out to fight Oddfellowship and Masonry because of their secrecy. They are at work on a tremendous big contract. And they injure themselves more than the Order. Then it was said we don't use the Word of God in our lodges. No Oddfellows' lodge can be legally or properly opened unless the Bible is opened in it. The very foundation of our Order stands on the teaching of God's word. We are a Christian nation, everything that enobles us as a people has a basis in Christianity, and the Oddfellows stand on the foundation of eternal truth which is the word of God. It is not antagonistic to the churches, as some have said. Almost all the churches are represented in our ranks.—Rev. Lewis Malvern.

One of the strongest proof of the worth of Oddfellowship is the character of the vast majority of its members, and the tenacity with which many prominent men cling to it. We have in our ranks men of the very finest intellect, statesmen, merchants, literary men and representatives of all respectable classes. Some of these brethren have grown gray in the service of the Order. They are men who regard life as exceedingly practical, and they would not remain in Oddfellowship if it were not practical. An opponent of the secret orders once said that their secret work was "a stupendous mass of weary nonsense." It is likely that he knew nothing at all about the matter. But how does such a man account for the fact that men who are as brainy as himself, and just as practical, love Oddfellowship. We are willing to admit that they are not attracted wholly by the ritual, though that is as beautiful as truth clothed in beautiful, elegant expression can make it. But the men who understand the workings of Oddfellowship would love it if it had no ritual and no line of instruction except that it was the duty of every Oddfellow to visit the sick, relieve the distressed, bury the dead, and educate the orphan. While the ritual is as beautiful as the Bible, from whose pages its brilliant truths are drawn, and beautiful as the finest sermon that was ever preached, it is the work of Oddfellowship, and not its sentiment that commends it to men of brains and character.—Chicago Oddfellow.

In Philadelphia every lodge is in working trim that has ever been chartered since the introduction of the Order, viz: 150 lodges and 24,184 members. The Grand Officers are actively at work to fill all the defunct numbers throughout the State.

The invested funds and real estate of the lodges in Iowa amount to $522,945. The membership is about 25,000.

The Grand Encampment of Illinois, by a large vote, refused to instruct its representative to the Sovereign Grand Lodge to vote for the 18-year amendment.

Charles D. Cole, Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts, is the oldest living Grand Secretary in the Order.

The ritual is to be printed in the Italian language.

Norristown, Pa., can boast of nearly 800 Oddfellows.

The net capital of the Sovereign Grand Lodge is $111,053 49.

Aaron was the first high priest, and no Encampment officer can antedate him.

California has 24,475 Oddfellows with an annual revenue of nearly $250,000.

Our Order is called a secret society, but isn't it rather a society with a few secrets?

Illinois contributed about $360 towards the establishing of a Home in Jacksonville, Fla.

The lodges as a rule in California work without a ritual—all charges, etc., being memorized.
