Fine Concert Given By Mount Allison Students

Three young students of unusual promise from the Mount Allison University Conservatory of Music, presented a most enjoyable concert last evening at Hertz Hall, Trinity United Church—the annual concert held in aid of the Boy Scouts.

The performing artists were Miss Myra McKel of Saint John, B. soprano, Mr. Robert Mills of Moncton, tenor, and Mr. Alexander Champoux, pianist. Accompanist for the vocalists was Evron Kinsman of the faculty of the Conservatory.

The well balanced program opened with three selections by Myra McKel, Miss Myra McKel, "Let Me Wander Not Unseen" and "Sound the Trumpet" by Purcell, and "The Kerry Dance" by Molloy.

Alexandre Champoux displayed both warmth and artistic precision as he played "The Son of God" (Bach-Rummel) and Brahms' Rhapsody No. 2, Opus 79, and the audience was delighted by his rendition of the D minor and C major Sonatas by Scarlatti.

Miss McKel returned to sing "Tell Me Fair Ladies" from Mozart's "The Marriage of Figaro", "I Have Twelve Oxen" by John Ireland, Brahms' "Cradle Song" and "Il Bacio" by Ardit, with "The Loving Daisy" as an encore. Her assurance and very charming manner immediately communicated itself to the audience, and her lovely young voice and fine interpretation of her numbers was enjoyed to the full.

Mr. Mills sang "Silent Worship" by Handel, an old Scottish song entitled "Mary of Argyle", "The Little Blue Bay" by Del Teilso and "A Wandering Minstrel I" from the light opera, "The Mikado" by Gilbert and Sullivan. This delightful minstrel song is really several songs in one, requiring considerable versatility of the singer, and Mr. Mills brought out the full significance of the song, skillfully interpreting both its pathos and humour of the position. As an encore he sang an old Irish song, "My Love's An Ailoutus."

Mr. Champoux played the familiar "Fantasia" inspired by Chopin, Debussy's Arabesque No. 1, and a cleverly descriptive composition by Copeland entitled "The Cat and the Mouse", which kept the audience in a state of amusement and suspense. He concluded this portion of the program with Schmitt's paragon "Southern Roses" by Strauss, a colourful piece which he played with great competence. The warm applause of the audience brought the young pianist back for an encore, and the final duet selections by the vocalists were equally popular, as they sang Schubert's "Serenade", "Day Break" by Clari, and
