THE VACANT JUDGESHIP.

ANOTHER week has passed away; but nothing definite has yet been announced concerning the vacant Queen's County Judgeship. Instead, there is another crop of rumours! It is now stated that Attorney-General McDonald is to be given the position. But an effort is to be made to placate some of the unsuccessful candidates and their friends. For this purpose, the Provincial "pardner" is, it is said, to appoint a Stipendiary magistrate in the place of Mr F. L. Haszard, who has been induced to resign. The Patriot advocates the appointment of Mr. Hedley Palmer to the latter office, but this is evidently a mere "blind." When the new deal has been accomplished, we shall have something to say about it. In the meantime the indignity that is being cast upon the judicial office,— made the object of "deals," and memorials, and petitions, and threatening telegrams is lamentable and cannot possibly be too strongly deprecated. Some of the men who are to-day bringing influence to bear upon the Government, signing petitions and protests, and suggesting deals in respect to this or that applicant for the office, may to-morrow be suitors in the court before the judge for or against whom their influence has been used It is needless to say that justice is not likely to be promoted in this way,—while the prestige of the judicial office and the Government of the country is lowered and degraded as a result of the aggravating policy of procrastination adopted by the Liberals in office. The Montreal Star has dubbed our representative in the Cabinet "Linger Longer Lou,"—and it seems that there is cause for the soubriquet other than "apt alliteration's artful aid."

THE GERRYMANDER.

THE Pioneer argues that the Conservatives hived the Liberals in Ontario, in 1882, and therefore it is quite the proper thing to redistribute the Ontario districts in such fashion that Ottawa, (for instance) shall have one member for 26,000 people and Toronto one member for 50,000; and Prince County in this Province one member for 18,000, while King's County has one member for 26 000.

The Pioneer's position seems to be: "The Tories did wrong in 1882, and consequently the Grits are justified in doing wrong in 1899!"

By the way, does it not strike the average reader that if the redistribution of 1882 can only be corrected by resort to such transparent rascality as is apparent in the bill of 1899, it was not so very wrong after all?

The Pioneer's defense of the Liberal gerrymander in this Province is very lame. "Prince County" it says, "is, however, developing, and such discrepancy is unlikely to exist for long." Is not King's County developing, pari passu? Even if the discrepancy is unlikely to exist for long, would it not be better and fairer to wait until it has been met, rather than place the people of King's County at a disadvantage in the meantime?

As to the Pioneer's justification of going back to 'County lines, it may apply, perhaps, in some parts of Ontario; but it certainly does not apply to Prince Edward Island. There is absolutely no good reason why a township or two of Queen's should not remain for electoral purposes in East Prince, or why a slice of King's should not, for the same purpose, remain in East Queen's. The people are the same in character, in occupation and in interest.

Indeed, as we have already pointed out, the interests of King's and East Queen's are combined under the present arrangement, in respect at least to the Belfast and Murray Harbor Railway. But Sir Louis proposes to break this combination and to play off the interests of North Queen's against those of the South,—while he hopes to secure as in former years, the election of of two Liberals by means of 'hunting in couples."

ANOTHER ARGUMENT.

ANOTHER reason has been added to those already advanced concerning the Senate's action as to the Yukon railway. A few days ago, Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that "all proposed roads to the Yukon reached the Pacific Coast on Lynn Canal, passing through disputed territory. The government thought it not prudent to complicate the boundary dispute by permitting the construction of these roads. The result of such enterprise would be the building up of towns on the coast now held by the United States. The White Pass railway, now constructed under a Canadian charter, had assisted in building up the American town of Skagway." Part of the route of the proposed Mann-McKenzie line was over disputed territory; and if Sir Wilfrid's argument be good for operations in the future it is good for those proposed in the past. That the argument is a good one need not be stated. Upon Sir Wilfrid's own showing, it was a lucky day for Canada when the Senate rejected the Mann-McKenzie contract.

DISHONEST TEACHERS: DISHONEST STUDENTS.

SIR,—I beg to thank you for your leader on "Cribbing" in last Thursday's issue. It is high time something was done to check the frightful prevalence of this mean sin in our schools and colleges. "Cribber's" letter of Saturday (whether written in jest or earnest) shows how this matter is looked at by many who practice it. It certainly betokens a very low standard of morality Everybody knows that there is an enormous amount of cheating going on, not only through the term but also during the examinations. The pupils make no secret of it, and, as "Cribber" says, some of the examiners shut both eyes and so encourage it in order that they may be commended for the wonderful success they have with their scholars. It is very hard on the honest teachers to see others praised for what they know to be connivance and roguery, and it is equally hard or harder on honest pupils to see prizes and scholarships taken away from them and certificates gained by unfair means. Those who obtain their teacher's certificates by cheating, are forthwith entrusted with the training of our children,—and what sort of morals can we expect the rising generation to have under such training?

The present prevalence of cheating is not so much the fault of the pupils as of those who take charge of the examinations. Any examiner who has eyes can check untairness almost absolutely, if he likes; but the examiner who buries his head in a book or a newspaper simply says: "Cheat as much as you like, only do me credit by obtaining high marks."

JAMES SIMPSON.

—Judging by the number of intoxicated men seen on the streets yesterday, it is not yet evident that the Farquharson Licensing Law has resulted in a diminution of drunkeness.

ADIEU.

June 8th, 1899.

The following pretty little poem from a well known poet's pen was written offhand after sorrowfully saying adieu to ex-Governor Howlan at the railway station, on the 8th inst, as the esteemed gentleman with his equally esteemed wife left for a holiday in Ontario:

"A little while!" the busy hours
Shall swiftly wing their flight;
And suns shall wane and star lamps gleam
From out the cheerless night.

"A little while!" and he, whom love
Doth light the summer's smile,
Shall guard ye, 'yond all fear of harm
Backed to your loved Isle.

"A little while!" rebellious heart
Oh! what are we at most?
Frail barks upon life's changeful sea,
Now calm, now tempest-tossed.

"A little while!" why should we weep?
The shadows cross our floor,
But Oh! beyond the glory-dawn,
Comes brightness evermore.
