THE DAILY EXAMINER

JUNE 11, 1900

A DISGRACEFUL SESSION.

WHILE our farmers were engrossed with their spring's work, their Legislature brought eternal disgrace upon their Province. The session which closed on Saturday will go down to history as one in which little good was done, and two great political crimes were consummated. Both moral and statute laws were violated in the case of Mr. Wise and the people of the second district of Queen's County. The Premier's promise to Mr. Wise, was deliberately broken by the Government. An election was to have been held before the meeting of the Legislature; an election was not held; and the people of the second district were robbed of their right to representation by Mr. Wise or some one else in his stead. The law required an election in the circumstances created by Mr. Wise's resignation; the law was deliberately broken by those who are sworn and bound to uphold it; and when the man who had been so grossly deceived, attempted to assert the right imparted to him by his electors, he was seized and dragged from the Legislative Chamber and held a prisoner in the Speaker's room. A short time ago, we pointed out that the law expressly states that the Lieutenant Governor, himself, shall issue the writ in all such cases as that of Mr. Wise. An honorable government would have explained at once that the Lieutenant Governor had done what he could—had seen that the writ was filled up, and had appended his name to it,—and that the men charged with the administration of affairs had, in defiance of the Lieutenant Governor and the law, refused to send it to the Sheriff or have it issued as the law requires. But our gentlemen are content to remain silent upon the point and to let the Lieutenant Governor bear the blame which the law imputes to him. Then there is the Pineau case. Poor Pineau has become a by-word, and a spectacle to men and boys. He is pointed at with the words "There goes Pineau"; "there's the man who turned traitor," etc. But Pineau is not, after all, so blameworthy as the man who approached him, worked upon his cupidity and his vanity, and caused him to turn his coat and do the reverse of that which he was elected to do. Those respectable doctors, and lawyers, and dealers, who were the means by which the Liberals in office accomplished their object of seducing Pineau, as morally as blameworthy as Pineau himself, while the Liberals in office who set these means in operation and profited by the success that was achieved, are much worse than either Pineau or those who were the means of his political prostitution.

These two cases—the case of Wise and the case of Pineau—will render the evil and scandalous Legislative session of 1900 ever memorable. As for the Legislation accomplished, it is contemptible alike in amount and character. Of the eighteen little bills that were passed, eight were of a private or semi-private nature, mere acts of incorporation, etc.; and of the others, those most worthy of mention, provide for additional expenditures and additional taxes. Debentures are to be issued to pay for the Asylum annex and for certain steel bridges. The Farquharson Government is about to repeat the device of the Fielding and the Blair-Emmerson Administrations in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. They are to borrow money,—and they are to try to buy themselves into power by making use of the incidence of its expenditure upon steel bridges. But the trick is somewhat stale. The rascality that has appeared in the neighboring Provinces in connection with its application, and the unpopularity of the Farquharson Administration on accounts of the recent scandals, render its success in this Province extremely doubtful. Additional tax on has been imposed upon the people through the banks, and insurance and other companies with which they do business; and, after all, another big deficit at the end of the current year has been estimated by the Premier and may be confidently expected—even though "blood money" is again to be taken from the city liquor dealers! The Act to prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors is a fraud and humbug. In point of fact it doesn't even attempt to prohibit the use of liquors in, and in connection with, all the clubs established, or to be established, throughout the city;—and it will not be applied in the country at all.

BRITISH COLUMBIA ELECTIONS'

PREMIER MARTIN made a seductive appeal to the laboring men of British Columbia. In Vancouver and the Kootenay district this appeal, it appears, proved successful. Martin secured his own election and that of nine supporters. The laboring men didn't know Martin very well and they evidently gave him support which he didn't deserve. Notwithstanding this fact he has been practically "snowed under." The better informed elements of the electorate united to defeat him; and they did their work well. Out of thirty-three candidates heard from twenty-three are opponents of Martin and all his rascality. Lieutenant Governor McInnis must now retire, with the man he called to be his First Minister. It is likely that a strong Government will be formed under our old friend, Mr. Turner, or some other honest leader.

WELL TAKEN.

THE Mail and Empire comments upon the Pineau case and says: "This is a bad case. It shows, first, the iniquity of the alliance into which the Federal and Provincial politicians have entered. Laurier and Davies are thwarting the will of the Islanders because they want a Local Government that is helpful with them in office when their election comes. In the second place, it exhibits fraud of a kind that is worse than the ballot-box stuffing. These two points are well taken. —Farquharson's turn, next! —General Buller seems to have scored another point. —Martin has been snowed under by the people. Let all political rascals perish! —McInnis and Martin have both received lessons from the people. What will the people of P. E. Island do when they get the opportunity?"

BAD SYSTEM OF ACCOUNTS.

SIR,—The Government—the Pineau Government—has funds held in trust, not treated as ordinary revenue. Here is one of the entries: "Amount lost by failure of Bank of P. E. Island, $1,789.46." Why cumber the Public Accounts with this item? It is lost, and not recoverable it should be written off long ago as a defunct item, as defunct as the Bank of P. E. Island, and is in keeping with charging little culprits on our public highways to capital account! When will this tinkering with the public accounts stop? P. N. O.
