OUT COLD AT UN OBSERVANCE

First aid is given by Dr. J. C. Geiger, right, to Mark Foote, a member of the University of San Francisco R.O.T.C. unit holding flags of United Nations member nations at observance yesterday in Union Square of the 19th anniversary of the signing of the U.S. Charter at the San Francisco Opera House in 1945. The youth fainted in the unseasonal 85-degree noontime heat while holding one of the flags. Dr. Geiger, health director for the City of Oakland was present because of his long association in the Bay Area with international affairs.

Angry Council Seeks Explanation For Royal Couple's Speedy Drive

SUMMERSIDE BUREAU OF THE GUARDIAN

Members of the town council were unanimous in their opinions that the Queen's visit to Summerside earlier this month had extremely poor organization and one councillor said he felt Summerside was strongly slighted and that if the central centennial committee was in charge of the affair "they should hide in shame".

Coun George Key, Jr. said it was a very sad occasion when Cubs, Scouts, Guides and school children are asked to stand for some two hours along the parade route and not even get a look at the Queen; some not even seeing the car.

Coun. Key asked Mayor Jenkins if he could enlighten the council as to why the Royal motorcade travelled at such a high rate of speed through the town. Mayor Jenkins replied that he could not but perhaps either Town Manager Joseph Brophy or Town Clerk John Cameron could give an explanation.

SIX MPH SUGGESTED

Mr. Brophy said he had attended security meetings prior to the Queen's arrival at which time the route was set and at one of the meetings a speed of six miles per hour was mentioned for the motorcade's trip through town. Mr. Brophy was unable to give an explanation as to why the speed had been at least quadrupled on the day of the visit.

Mr. Cameron said a letter had been sent to the Queen's secretary regarding a stop for the Royal Couple in Summerside, but the town had never even "received any acknowledgment" of the letter's receipt.

Solicitor General J. Watson MacNaught had also been contacted regarding a brief stop in the town, Mr. Cameron said, and the minister had replied that the final arrangements would be made at Buckingham Palace and that the Queen would have the final say.

Coun. Mollison stated that if there was going to be a complaint registered mention should also be made of the Charlottetown police vehicle which led the motorcade. He felt the local police department vehicles were as adequate if the people in charge had felt the town police vehicles was not satisfactory the town could have obtained one that was for the occasion.

S'SIDE NOT MENTIONED

Coun. Garnet Ross said he had read a news story in a U.S. newspaper which mentioned that the Queen had landed 40 miles from Charlottetown but no mention was made of Summerside.

"This all seems rather silly in a way", Coun. Key said concerning the complaints at this late date. The Queen might never pass through Summerside again, he said, but in the event that she or other noted persons did visit the town, these complaints might held in preventing a similar situation.

The councillor also felt the town citizens deserved an explanation and that the "council should be in receipt of a letter as to why this took place".

FUNERAL HOME APPLIES

The application by Rooney's Funeral Home of Alberton to establish in Summerside was set aside until a later date following lengthy discussion by the council.

It was noted that the application had been turned down at a caucus meeting and the majority of councillors agreed the town had ample funeral home facilities and the application had been turned town because the applicant was not a taxpayer.

Other reasons given by councillors were that the two proposed sites for the home were on through streets and that it would create too much competition for the present operators of funeral homes in the town.

Coun. Mollison stated "the main reason for the rejection was that the business was to be established in residential districts of the town contrary to the town's zoning laws. The proposed sites are 94 Central Street and 216 Notre Dame Street.

Coun. Key said "I seem to be at odds with the other members of the council on this matter". He felt that two funeral homes were sufficient for the town but on the other hand he didn't think "we are living in a country where free enterprize is not allowed".

NO AUTHORITY

In his opinion the council had no authority to stop the firm from establishing us the town and the reasons given for rejecting the application last night were not good enough. As for turning it down due to either of the proposed sites being in residential areas he commented "I don't think a funeral home would hurt a residential area".

Coun. Mollison agreed with Coun. Key that the council could not stop the applicant from establishing in Summerside but said the crux of the matter was whether to turn it down from establishing in a residential area.

Before the discussion ended it was moved that the town clerk advise the applicant that the council would like him to obtain letters from residents adjacent to the proposed sites in regards to their feelings on a funeral home being established there.

Coun. Mollison stated he was not too happy with the manner the Red Ensign was flown over the town hall. He felt it should not be flown 24 hours a day but should be raised at sunrise and taken down at sunset.

FEDERAL PROPERTIES

Town manager Brophy said that while on a trip to Europe this year Ted Geburt of Summerside had made enquiries in England concerning the flying of the Ensign and he had been told the flag flies 24 hours a day except on federal owned properties.

Coun. Mollison asked that this matter be investigated more thoroughly and suggested that perhaps an answer could be obtained from the local RCAF Station, pro or con.

Three resolutions were read on the acceptance of the following tenders: 1. the tender of Fitzgerald and Snow of $3,950 for repairs to the roof of the civic building; 2. the $920 tender of Ralph MacDonald for repairs to the boilers at Civic Stadium, and 3. the tender of $1.70 per cubic yard by Morrison and MacRae Ltd for the supplying of approximately 600 cubic yards of shale for Victoria Road.

During the reading of the various department reports it was suggested that Police Chief S.D.A. Wannamaker advertize that children are not to call at homes on Hallowe'en night after the 9 o'clock curfew.

ATLANTIC

tant role to play," Mr. Deutsch said "the special skills and knowledge of its research staff can continue to make an effective and constructive contribution.

"No one will pretend that we have all the answers to the particular problems of the Atlantic provinces; in fact, there are wide gaps in the extent of our present knowledge."

INTEREST SEEN

Mr. Deutsch said there has been renewed interest in the problems of the area as shown by the number of new federal and provincial agencies and pograms which have been established to deal with them.

"Perhaps for the first time we are close to achieving the kind of over-all approach which is required to bring about lasting improvement," he said.

Earlier, the meeting was told the region's economy — once lagging far behind the remainder of Canada — now is keeping pace.

OUTLINES PURPOSE

Purpose of ECC, Mr. Deutsch said, was to aid in the development of an approach to Canada's economic affairs "which is consistent with the fast-changing needs of the mid-twentieth century".

He said the main concern of the council centred around basic national policies — fiscal and monetary policies, policies which determine our relationships with the outside world in trade and finance, policies regarding national developments, works and national transportation, and policies regarding manpower and its effective utilization.

The 28-member council, formed early this year, acts in an advisory capacity only. Members are appointed by the federal government, but are "expected to carry out their duties without government instruction or direction." Three of the members, the chairman and two directors, serve on a full-time basis.

In addition, Mr. Deutsch stated, the council received the assistance of a research staff, and hoped to make use of research findings of other bodies, such as APEC's research staff.

LONG-TERM VIEW

He emphasized that the council was concerned mainly with policies which could be extended over a period of years, rather than becoming involved with day-to-day problems.

The bulk of the council's efforts this year are being directed towards the preparation of a review of the prospects and problems of the Canadian economy during the years from 1965 to 1970.

By implementing long-term measures, the councils could take full advantage of the possibilities and potentialities of the second half of the 20th century, which he said, were "as great and as promising here in the Atlantic provinces as they are anywhere else in Canada."

Provinces. He said it had been a "great disappointment" that ARDA had been able "to do little in the Atlantic Provinces."

However, he said "we believe that it will be possible to make improvements.

The fourth panel member, Hartwell Daley, a Charlottetown journalist, said the "number one priority" in the Atlantic region should be industrial development. He said education "of all kinds—vocational, university and adults," was the second consideration toward economic progress. In a review of the development schemes now at work on a provincial level in the region, Mr. Daley said there are vast resources in the area but help is needed to develop them.

Development Programs Discussed By APEC Panel

Federal and provincial development policies and programs were discussed by a four-man panel here Monday during the annual meeting of the Atlantic Provinces Economic Council.

Ian M. MacKeigan of Halifax, chairman of the Atlantic Development Board, told delegates that in the 14 months since ABD's inception, more than $51,000,000 of the ABD's $100,000,000 budget has been handed out in grants for economic development projects.

He said the ABD considers as its first priority an overall development plan for the Atlantic region, "to try to co-ordinate the work of the various development agencies and avoid overlapping."

Mr. MacKeigan said the board is undertaking specific studies into transportation, including highways, ports and air strips and is trying to come up with "some new and different approach" to the freight rate problem.

An overall plan for power development in the region also would be undertaken, involving a study of hydro, thermal and tidal power, and, especially, the increased use of coal for the generation of power.

W.J. Lavigne of Ottawa, commissioner of the area development agency of the department of industry and defence production, said the incentive program in the 35 "designated areas" across the country has shown promise. More than 124 plants, which provide employment for more than 12,000 workers, has been built as a result of the program.

The incentives, he said, have encouraged many companies to take expansion programs "off the shelf" and put them to work.

A. T. Davidson of Ottawa, director of the Agricultural Rehabilitation Development Administration, said the major problem in the rural areas of Canada is one of chronic low income.

Of an estimated 475,000 low income rural workers, about 100,000 were in the Atlantic

1965 FORD MUSTANG HARDTOP.

Grandad's got a Mustang...wow!

Imagine the look on your grandchild's face if you drove up in a brand new Mustang. Surprise, excitement, unabashed delight . . . the Mustang is one of those cars that children reserve their wholehearted approval for.

It's sleek, and racy, and low, the Mustang. The thrill of owning one can hardly be described. And, as you may have heard, the Mustang is a car you design yourself on the day you order it. You start with bucket seats. Then you choose a sleek exterior: Hardtop, Convertible or the new Mustang 2+2 Fastback.

Then choose an engine: 120 hp Six, 200 hp, 225 hp or 271 hp V-8's. (There's even a 330 hp V-8 if racing is your second career.)

Then there are a hundred loving choices that will make your Mustang anything from a high-style "economy" car to a high performance "GT". Power brakes and steering, tinted glass all around, Vinyl roof covering for the Hardtop, 4-speed stick shift or 3-speed "T-bar" Cruise-O-Matic. And et cetera.

C'mon Grandad, your Mustang's rar'in to go!
