Mothers

Anxiously watch declining health of their daughters. So many are cut off by consumption in early years that there is real cause for anxiety. In the early stages, when not beyond the reach of medicine, Hood's Sarsaparilla will restore the quality and quantity of the blood and thus give good health. Read the following letter:

"It is but just to write about my daughter Cora, aged 19. She was completely run down, declining, had that tired feeling, and friends said she would not live over three months. She had a bad and nothing seemed to do her any good. I happened to read about Hood's Sarsaparilla and had her give it a trial. From the very first dose she began to get better. After taking a few bottles she was completely cured and her health has been the best ever since." MRS. ADDIE PECK, 12 Railroad Place, Amsterdam, N. Y.

"I will say that my mother has not stated my case in as strong words as I would have done. Hood's Sarsaparilla has truly cured me and I am now well." CORA PECK, Amsterdam, N. Y.

Be sure to get Hood's, because

A Happy Mistake.

"It might not always be pleasant to be taken for some one else," said the man who was asked for an experience, "but in my case it was the most delightful incident of my life. You see it happened in this way. I was going to visit an interior town of some size, and my neighbor, old Joe Peters, who was rich and crabbed and eccentric, but not a bad sort withal, asked me to call on a sister he had living there.

"I ain't seen her in twenty years," he said to me, "and like enough she don't care a picayune whether she ever sees or hears of me or not, but I'd kind of like to know how she's fixed since her husband died, a spell ago. You might skirmish around and see how the land lays."

"When I reached F., the western town in which Peter's folks lived, I attended to my business first and then went to call on his sister.

"Now I am not in the habit of using cards when I make a call, like swell folks, but I had a business card and it struck me it would be about right to send that in to the folks and wait in the parlor to see what came of it.

"Well, such screeching and shouting I never heard in my life, and I began to think I had struck a lunatic asylum, and a few minutes later I was sure of it, for three women came rushing into the room and they all began calling me 'Uncle Joe,' and hugging me within an inch of my life.

"'One at a time,' I said, for though the mother was handsome, the girls were just peaches and cream, and it was hard for me to tell them that I was not Uncle Joe. I had sent in his business card instead of my own, and that's how they made the mistake. The girls seemed to think it a good joke, but the widow was awfully flustrated. However, the next time I kissed her it wasn't any mistake."

Meaning of Colors.

White is the color of light, purity, innocence, faith, joy, and life. Black means mourning, wickedness and death. Red signifies fire, divine love and wisdom. Blue stands for heaven, truth from a celestial origin, constancy and fidelity. Yellow or gold is the symbol of the sun, of marriage and faithfulness; in a bad sense yellow signifies inconsistency, jealousy and deceit. Green, the emerald, is the color of spring, hope, particularly of the hope of immortality and of victory, as the color of the laurel and palm. Violet signifies love, and truth, or passion and suffering. Purple and scarlet signify things good and true from a celestial origin.

Sawdust Bricks.

Sawdust is turned into transportable fuel in Germany by a very simple process. It is heated under high steam pressure till the resinous ingredients become sticky, when it is pressed into bricks. One man with a two horse-power machine can turn out 9,000 bricks a day.

A WEALTH OF VARIETY

Always found in Diamond Dyes.

Are you looking for variety and beauty, for brilliancy and purity, for durability and fastness of colors? If you are, then use the Diamond Dyes that are specially prepared for home use.

Each color of Diamond Dyes will give from three to eight beautiful and handsome shades, varying according to amount of goods dyed with the contents of package. There are in all only forty-eight colors, but by combining different dyes they give over one hundred distinct colors and three hundred different shades.

Every package of Diamond Dye is warranted, and will give perfect results if directions are followed. There are many imitations; avoid them if you are particular about good colors and the safety of your goods. The use of poor dyes means ruin of goods and loss of money.

Notice has been received from the Foreign Office that the Dominican Republic has denounced the treaty of friendship, commerce and navigation signed between Great Britain and Dominica on the 6th of March, 1850. The stipulations of the treaty, except those relating to peace and friendship between the two countries and the subjects and citizens, will cease and determine on July 14th, 1897.

Distorted Joints and Aching Limbs

That's Rheumatisms legacy to its victims.

If rheumatism fastens it grip upon you, you'll soon be a sorry sight. Every movement will make you writhe with pain, and limp with stiffened joints. Don't neglect the wandering pains and aches in the joints, which are the herald of rheumatism's approach. Get Mack's Rheumatic (Kidney and Liver) Pills before you become a distorted wreck. They clear out all rheumatic acids and poisons from the system and remove the last vestige of the disease. Price 50c a box.

William Clark was shot and killed by his employer a Camden; N. J., on Sunday week. They had quarrelled about the care of a horse. The newspapers described the dead man as a mulatto. The brother of the murdered man was so dispirited by the killing of his brother and by the statement that he was a mulatto that he committed suicide. Before doing so he called around at all the newspaper offices in the town and asked them to correct the error.

GOOD GOODS ARE

The cheapest in the long run. It is a poor policy to be always going on a cheap scale Don't you know if you buy a suit of clothes made to your order one dollar cheaper than we asked you for it, you will get two dollars' worth of cheap work or trimmings in it?

GOOD TAILORS don't have to cut prices; there is always a demand for High Class Tailoring.

When We Say we have a Blue Beaver cloth, indigo dye, excellent quality, that we are making up to order in overcoats for $16.50; we mean it; it is a jim dandy at that price, and that we defy competition. It will be cut by a cutter who understands his business; we will make a profit on it; we could not live if we sold goods at cost; we have no cheap hands to make this coat up, therefore it will be made A 1. We defy competition, taking quality into consideration. You are sure of a perfect fit when you leave your order with us. Don't forget we are the up-to-date Tailors.

HATS! HATS!! HATS!!! We are doing the best trade. Gents' Furnishings. We keep the nobby kind, and that is the kind that sell. If you want the latest styles in suits or gents' furuishings. call and see us, We are still selling that famous $16,00 suit. Can't be beaten on top of this earth. Drop in.

ALMOST INVISIBLE LIGHT.

A Remarkable Search Lamp Used in the French Navy.

The French Mediterranean squadron has just made an interesting experiment with a novel light, the invention of a French naval officer. The sailors call it "the rat-trap light." The squadron left Marseilles on the 20th of August, at 5 o'clock in the evening, leaving behind the torpedo destroyer Faucon, which was to start three hours later and hunt it up. At 8 o'clock the Faucon weighed anchor and steamed out in pursuit, with all lights extinguished except this novel affair, the ratiere. Nobody on board knew the direction the squadron took, but at 1 o'clock in the morning the Faucon joined it.

This "rat-trap light" is a thing of small dimensions placed in the stern of the vessel above the wheel. No other light is permitted on board. It throws out an electric light which cannot be seen on the right or left of the ship, and can only be discovered dead ahead under certain conditions known to the seeker. By means of this invention night signals can be made when rockets or flash lights might be useless or liable to betray the position of the fleet to the enemy. It can also guide a squadron in line, with all other lights out, even in dangerous latitudes.

The French Navy alone possesses this light, and the Admiralty evidently attaches great importance to it, judging by the precautions that are taken to guard it against discovery. The commander of a ship and one sworn officer alone handle it, and it is kept on board in a special apartment, of which the commander holds the key.

Learned the Legal Method.

She realized that it wasn't a good time to speak to him, but she was too anxious to know what had happened to put off the interview.

"Papa," she said as softly and propitiatingly as possible.

"Now, don't be cross, papa," she persisted. "You know how anxious I am to hear from you—"

"Well?"

His tone was so coldly inquiring that she determined to approach the subject in another way.

"I saw George come in here an hour ago," she said.

"But you didn't see him go out," he suggested.

"No-o."

"Well, he went."

She realized that she was not progressing very well, but she was determined to know the truth.

"Papa," she said earnestly, "it is useless to try to put me off in this way. I know why George came here."

"You do?"

"I do. I know what he came to say, and it is useless for you to trifle with me. He came to tell you that he loved me."

The old gentleman admitted that she was right, but still seemed to think that there was nothing in the fact to indicate that she was a mind-reader.

"He came to tell you that he couldn't live without me," she continued. "He came to tell you that without me it would be impossible for him to exist. He came to tell you that death would be his portion if he could not have me for a wife. But somehow he missed me going out. What was your reply?"

"I told him," replied the old gentleman slowly, "that I had been wondering how I could kill him off easily, legally and without creating any serious trouble, and I was consequently obliged to him for the tip conveyed by his passionate remarks. Then he left."

Little Farms in Japan.

Japan, and not France or Belgium, would appear to be the land of petite culture. According to a recent American bulletin a couple of acres is considered a large tract for farming purposes. Most of the farms are smaller, and on a little plot a surprising variety of crops is cultivated—a few square feet of wheat, barley, maize and millet; a plot of beans perhaps 10 feet wide and 20 feet long, a similar area of potatoes and peas and a patch of onions "about as big as a grave," beetroot, lettuce, turnips, sweet potatoes and other crops occupy the rest of the area. The farmer examines his growing crops every morning, just as an engineer inspects his machinery, and if anything is wrong he puts it right. If a weed appears in the bean patch he pulls it up; if a hill of potatoes or anything else fails it is at once replanted. When he cuts down a tree he always plants another. As soon as one crop is harvested the soil is worked over, manured, and forthwith resown to another crop. It is estimated that nine-tenths of the agricultural land of Japan is devoted to rice and as this is a crop requiring much water the paddy fields are banked up into terraces, one above the other, and divided off into small plots 25 feet or 30 feet square, with ridges of earth between them to prevent the water from flowing away when they are flooded. All farming lands are irrigated by a system, that is a thousand years old. Some of the ditches are walled up with bamboo wicker work and some with tiles and stone. Nearly half the total population of Japan is engaged in agriculture. Silk and tea, the two chief exports of the country, are raised almost by the work of women.—London Times.

A Cedar Hill, Victoria, B. C. Case That Has Caused Much Favorable Comment.

After a Lifetime of Agony From Rheumatism, a Lady is Cured by Paine's Celery Compound.

There is no other medicine in the world so prominent to-day as Paine's Celery Compound. The results it invariably gives to rheumatic sufferers are so astonishing and satisfying that it has justly been named the World's wonder-working medicine.

The desperate case of Mrs. Elizabeth King, Cedar Hill, Victoria, B. C., is one that is well known to hundreds in the city of Victoria and vicinity. For almost a lifetime Mrs. King endured the variable agonies of rheumatism, and failed to find a cure by the aid of doctors and patent medicine.

A friend, knowing personally the value of Paine's Celery Compound and its power to overcome the worst cases of rheumatism, advised Mrs. King to give it a trial. The afflicted lady complied with her friend's request, and was delivered from her life of torture, and now, with a heart full of joy and thankfulness, makes a public statement for the benefit of the thousands that have not yet found a cure; she says:

"I have been troubled with rheumatism all my life, and about eight years ago I had a very severe attack, almost losing the use of my right arm. A friend recommended Paine's Celery Compound, and kindly gave me a bottle. I was so much benefitted by that one bottle that I took three more, and was quite cured. Since then it has been almost my only medicine for all the ailments from which I have suffered, and all my family have found some benefit from it. I am sixty-five years of age; I live on a farm, get up early in the morning, and am equal to a good day's work.'

Little Girls in Holland.

Some of the not over-industrious little girls in this country might profit by the example of those in Holland, who learn to knit when only four or five years old.

They begin with two needles; their mothers teach them to make pretty wash-cloths, lamp mats, and many useful things.

When they have learned to use five needles, they make wrist-bands and stockings. Every Dutch girl gets from her mother a "wonderball" for the first piece of work done with five needles.

Candies, trinkets, and many pretty trifles are hidden in a ball of wool, which is put in a handsome case with a set of needles.

As the girl knits away one thing after another is brought out from this ball, and, when the whole is used up, they find in the center a gold piece or a ring for a gift.

It is needless to say this pretty incentive to labor acts like a charm, and, doubtless, very pleasantly grounds the habit of industry with the needle.

Treating Nervous Diseases of the Stomach by Electricity.

The application of electric current in the treatment of nervous diseases of the stomach has always heretofore been attended with both risk and discomfort. It was necessary to apply only small doses, which had to be under perfect control. Some experiments in France have demonstrated that this can now be done. The current is applied directly to the affected organ by means of a special electrode, which the patient passes into his stomach. This consists of a rubber tube 1 inch thick which has at its lower end a volcanite tip, and which contains a conducting wire. The patient first drinks two glasses of lukewarm water and then the electrode is introduced and attached to the negative pole of the battery. From 15 to 20 milliamperes of current are employed for five minutes. The treatment has been so successful that French electrotherapists now look upon it as one of the standard treatments for nervous disorders of the stomach and intestines.

A Disputed Case.

The most curious case ever heard of in connection with life insurance is now before the courts. A young man became engaged to a young woman with a large dowry. Before marriage he was obliged to settle his debts and he had his life insured for a large amount and raised the money necessary on the insurance. Soon after this his hopes were blasted by the breaking off of the engagement and he blew out his ostensible brains. Now the insurance companies refuse to settle on the ground that he intended suicide when he took out the policies. To the lay mind the position of the companies would not seem to be tenable. The young man, at the time he insured his life, desired to pay his debts in order that he might marry. He therefore had no idea that he would not marry, for, if he were not to do so, why should he have desired to pay his debts?—Boston Traveler.

Fergus, April 6, 1894

To Robert Phillips, Druggist, Fergus.

This is to certify that I have suffered from piles for a long time and tried several articles recommended for this complaint, but none of them benefitted me till I tried Chase's Ointment, which has completely cured me.

MRS. JOHN GERRIE.
R. Phillips, jr., Druggist Witness.

"My six-year-old daughter, Bella, was afflicted with eczema for 24 months, the principal seat of eruption being behind her ears. I tried almost every remedy I saw advertised, bought innumerable medicines and soaps, and took the child to medical specialists in skin diseases, but without result. Finally, a week ago, I purchased a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and the first application showed the curative effect of the Remedy. We have used only one-sixth of the box, but the change is very marked; the eruption has all disappeared, and I can confidently say my child is cured. (Signed) MAXWELL JOHNSTON. 112 Anne St., Toronto

A NOVEL WELL BUCKET.

The Stranger Who Called for a Drink Was Mystified.

A traveler who was journeying through Florida, not far in the interior, stopped one day for a drink of water at a house by the wayside.

"Cert'ny, stranger," said the sunburned, barefooted woman, who had met him at the door. Then she stuck her head through the crack and began to call: "Sal! Here you, Sal! Take a gourd an' go git the stranger a fresh drink."

He watched and saw a tow-headed girl disappear down a path which led through a truck patch, until she stopped upon a small board platform. He saw her let a rope rapidly down, but there appeared to be no bucket attached, and he heard no knocking against the sides of the well, such as a bucket usually makes in its descent. When it was drawn up again, the girl had changed her position so that he could not see what was on the end of the rope, but he did not hear her set a bucket down, and, after she had left, saw only what looked like a bunch of weeds dangling from the rope. But she brought the water, and it appeared all right.

"How did you manage to get it," he asked, "without a bucket?"

"We've got a bucket," said she. "Dad brung us a new one yesterday. He fished it up quite a while ago, but it had to be cleaned up."

Anxious to see the bucket that had been "fished up" and "cleaned," the traveler made some excuse to step to the well, and what he saw was a large sponge which, when it was let down, would absorb as much water as one person could draw up and hold a good share of it until it was drawn to the top and emptied by squeezing.

Life in Great Cities.

And as to the tendency of the ... of great cities to enervate nat... there is no proof of it at all unless we identify the life of great cities with the passion for idleness and pleasure and self-indulgence, which sometimes, but by no means universally, accompanies their growth. When you get a large proletariat living, as that of ancient Rome and possibly of Nineveh and Babylon did, on the alms of the rich and powerful, then no doubt you have the conditions of a thoroughly unnatural and unhealthy life, and no one can wonder at the rapid decay of such cities and of the nations which gloried in them. But where the honest working class far outnumber the proletariat, where the middle classes of distributers and manufacturers and professional men are laborious and energetic, and even the class that lives on its accumulated wealth contains a considerable sprinkling of serious and disinterested workers, we do not believe that there is the smallest evidence of any greater danger in the life of the city than in the life of the agricultural village or the pastoral tribe. Indeed, we should regard Olive Schreiner's picture of the life of the modern Boers as indicating a condition of things more prolific of morbid elements, with its almost complete absence of any stirring or active intelligence, than any kind of modern life that is honestly laborious at all. The Boer life is too sleepy, too destitute of stirring thought or effort, to be altogether natural. It needs at least the old element of danger and necessary vigilance to render it even bracing.

An Irish Witness.

An Irish witness was being examined as to his knowledge of a shooting affair. "Did you see the shot fired?" the magistrate asked. "No, sorr, I only heard it," was the evasive reply. "That evidence is not satisfactory," replied the magistrate sternly. "Stand down!" The witness turned round to leave the box, and directly his back was turned he laughed derisively. The magistrate, indignant at this contempt of court, called him back and asked him how he dared to laugh in court. "Did ye see me laugh, your Honor?" queried the offender. "No, sir, but I heard you," was the irate reply. "That evidence is not satisfactory," said Pat quietly, but with a twinkle in his eye, and this time everybody laughed except the magistrate.

WITH INTENSE PAIN BEYOND ENDURANCE

In This Case Local Physicians Failed and Life Not Worth Living

WELL UP IN YEARS

His cure Complete and Permanent- Dodd's Kidney Pills Triumph Again.

COBOURG, Nov. 21, (Special)—No end of quiet talk has been created in this town and its immediate farming suburb in the vicinity of the old Court House and Jail.

This was the out-come of something concerning Mr. Alex. Russell, a wealthy farmer who though well up in years has been cured of a long standing kidney disease from which he had endured great distress.

Of his case he says:—"I have been troubled for many years with a kidney and urinary disease which in spite of medical treatment continued to torment me beyond endurance.

"My trouble was bladder and urinary difficulty. Was subject to acute attacks of inflammation and intense pain in passing urine.

"Local physicians failed to help me and friends interested advised me to use Dodd's Kidney Pills of which I have used one dozen boxes.

"As the result of using this medicine I have been completely cured and I believe permanently so. The relief and ease I enjoy is worth a hundred times its cost."

"Such a medicine as Dodd's Kidney Pills should be used by every aged person as I believe that all of us need kidney treatment."

"I say all this in the hope that it may be published, and thus prove to be the means of guiding others."

James White, M. P. for Forfarshire, has gone to India. Grave charges affecting Mr. White's private character have been made. The London Daily Mail says a suit for breach of promise of marriage has been or is to be brought against Mr. White by the daughter of a Scotch clergyman.

The new treaty between Italy and Abyssinia abolishes the suzerainty claimed by the Italian Government over Abyssinian affairs. Menelek is recognized as a sovereign Prince, the equal of European potentates. He deserves, too, the success he has won. There are blurs on the fairness of Abyssinian Christianity, but there must have been a deep faith in the hearts of these black men to enable them to keep aloft for thirteen centuries, in the very heart of Mohammedan power, the symbol of the purer faith given them by the Apostles. It may not have been for naught that this miracle was wrought.

PERFECT and permanent are the cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla, because it makes pure, rich, healthy, life and health-giving BLOOD.

Invest Your Spare Dollars in British Columbia Mines.

A Few Dollars invested now may make you rich

The Buffalo Gold Mining Company have acquired and paid for in full, three claims, The Buffalo, Ontario and Great Britain No 1, each 1,500 ft square, are situated on O. K. Mountain about three quarters of a mile from the famous O. K., the great free-milling property of Trail Creek, and about three miles from the town of Rossland On the Buffalo claim, there are two leads, one of quartz, from four to fifteen feet wide, and cropping for 800 feet, from the surface of which assays have been taken running from $3 to $12 in gold per ton. The other is an immense iron cap nearly 30 feet wide

On the Ontario only prospecting work has been done, consisting of stripping a fine ledge which crops out through the claim.

On the Great Britian No 1 there is a white quartz lead running through the property from which free gold has been obtained This is confidently expected to prove up well when further work has been done.

Taking everything into consideration, having three full claims, the numerous ledges, (and especially the free milling ledge), cheap transportation, the stock in this company should prove a paying investment and well worthy of your attention.

Four men are now working and more will be added to keep up quick and continuous development.

A limited number of shares of the treasury stock will be placed on the market at the remarkable low price of 5 cents, and no more will be sold at this price after the first issue. Address all letters to
